

Psycholinguistic Factors in Second Language Acquisition: Foreign Language Teaching via Coaching

Oksana Chaika

Abstract

This chapter conducts a comprehensive investigation into foreign language acquisition (FLA) using coaching methodologies, with a focus on psycholinguistic factors in second language acquisition (SLA). The study delves into the intricate interplay of psychological and linguistic elements influencing SLA, particularly language aptitude, anxiety, motivation, and self-regulated learning strategies. The research methodology details the design, participant selection, data collection, and analysis methods. Findings underscore the significance of these factors in SLA and their impact on learning outcomes. Implications for language teaching and curriculum development are highlighted, offering insights for educators. The chapter acknowledges limitations and suggests future research directions. This contributes to understanding the complex relationship between psycholinguistic factors and SLA, benefiting both educators and researchers in the field.

Keywords: psycholinguistic factors, second language acquisition, language aptitude, language anxiety, motivation, self-regulated learning strategies, language teaching, coaching

1. Introduction

In recent years, the exploration of psycholinguistic factors in the context of second language acquisition (SLA) has garnered heightened attention, reflecting a deepening interest in understanding the intricate processes that govern foreign language learning [1–4]. As language educators and researchers strive to enhance pedagogical practices [5, 6], a profound comprehension of the psychological and linguistic dimensions that underlie successful language acquisition has become indispensable. It should be noted that from the learning perspective contemporary language learners, not limited to students only, have become far more challenged with life pace and time management in everyday routines, which expressly results in their need and feeling keen to utilize more cutting-edge technologies to enhance the learning outcome. Moreover, these do not merely cover advanced communications technologies and the learners' flare for growing digital skills [7]; they are more and more in search of emotional rather than cognitive satisfaction [8, 9]; hence, coaching

Robert J. Blake, Gabriel Guillén, 2020-02-20 Robert Blake now with Gabriel Guillén updates his successful book 1st ed 2008 2nd ed 2013 on how to teach foreign languages using technology Brave New Digital Classroom touches on all of the key concepts and challenges of teaching with technology focusing on issues specific to FLL or L2 learning and CALL Originally referred to as computer assisted language learning CALL has come to encompass any kind of learning that uses digital tools for language learning This edition reframes the conversation to account for how technology has been integrated into our lives Blake and Guill n address the ways technology can help with L2 how to choose the right digital tools how to use those tools effectively and how technology can impact literacy and identity The book is primed for use in graduate courses terminology is in bold and a comprehensive glossary is included each chapter finishes with a short list of references for further reading on the topic and discussion questions The authors provide short interview videos free via GUP website to enhance discussions on each chapter s topic

Brave New Digital Classroom Robert J. Blake,2008 Brave New Digital Classroom deftly interweaves results of pedagogical research and descriptions of the most successful computer assisted language learning CALL projects to explore how technology can best be employed in the foreign language curriculum to assist the second language acquisition process Directed to all language teachers whether at the school or the postsecondary level with or without prior experience this book focuses on how to use new technologies effectively Blake urges teachers to move beyond a simple functional competence of knowing how to use the tools toward first a critical competence realizing what the various tools are good for and ultimately a rhetorical competence of knowing how the tools will help transform the learning environment This book examines the effective use of a range of technologies from Internet sites through computer mediated communication such as synchronous chatting and blogs to distance learning At the end of each chapter questions and activities demonstrate the interactionist learner centered pedagogy Blake espouses An invaluable reference for experienced researchers and CALL developers as well as those of limited experience Brave New Digital Classroom is also ideal for graduate level courses on second language pedagogy It will also be of interest to department chairs and administrators seeking to develop and evaluate their own CALL programs

Contemporary Approaches to Second Language Acquisition María del Pilar García Mayo,María Junkal Gutierrez Mangado,María Martínez Adrián,2013-02-19 Second language acquisition SLA is a field of inquiry that has increased in importance since the 1960s Currently researchers adopt multiple perspectives in the analysis of learner language all of them providing different but complementary answers to the understanding of oral and written data produced by young and older learners in different settings The main goal of this volume is to provide the reader with updated reviews of the major contemporary approaches to SLA the research carried out within them and wherever appropriate the implications and or applications for theory research and pedagogy that might derive from the available empirical evidence The book is intended for SLA researchers as well as for graduate MA Ph D students in SLA research applied linguistics and linguistics as the different chapters will be a guide in their research within the approaches presented The volume will also be of interest to professionals from other fields interested in the SLA process and the different explanations that have been put forward to account for it

Age and the Rate of Foreign Language

Learning Carmen Muñoz, 2006-07-07 This book examines the various ways in which age affects the process and the product of foreign language learning in a school setting. It presents studies that cover a wide range of topics from phonetics to learning strategies. It will be of interest to students and researchers working in SLA research, language planning and language teaching.

Vocabulary Learning Strategies and Foreign Language Acquisition Višnja Pavičić Takač, 2008-02-04 The book discusses vocabulary learning strategies as an integral subgroup of language learning strategies. It defines language learning strategies in general and their features on the basis of cognitive theory and relevant models of second language acquisition as the basis for empirical research. Furthermore, the book gives a survey of research on vocabulary learning strategies and describes three original empirical studies. Thus, the book attempts at integrating the approaches of theories of second language acquisition, the theory and practice of instructed foreign language learning and the findings of current empirical research.

Topics in Second Language Acquisition Vivian Cook, David Singleton, 2014-04-03 This textbook offers an introductory overview of eight hotly debated topics in second language acquisition research. It offers a glimpse of how SLA researchers have tried to answer common questions about second language acquisition rather than being a comprehensive introduction to SLA research. Each chapter comprises an introductory discussion of the issues involved and suggestions for further reading and study. The reader is asked to consider the issues based on their own experiences, thus allowing them to compare their own intuitions and experiences with established research findings and gain an understanding of methodology. The topics are treated independently so that they can be read in any order that interests the reader.

Language Teaching Research and Language Pedagogy Rod Ellis, 2012-03-27 This book examines current research centered on the second language classroom and the implications of this research for both the teaching and learning of foreign languages. It offers illuminating insights into the important relationship between research and teaching and the inherent complexities of the teaching and learning of foreign languages in classroom settings. Offers an accessible overview of a range of research on instruction and learning in the L2 classroom. Bridges the relationship between research, teachers and learners. Helps evolve the practice of dedicated current language teachers with research findings that suggest best practices for language teaching.

Early Instructed Second Language Acquisition Joanna Rokita-Jaśkow, Melanie Ellis, 2019-01-18 This book provides a holistic overview of what leads to success in foreign language learning at an early age and deepens our understanding of early foreign language learning. The studies use an array of methodological approaches to research learners aged between three and ten as well as their parents and teachers in instructional, minimal input settings. They describe various ways of organising and promoting very early foreign language learning both through language policy and innovative pedagogy and focus on ways of providing input for second language acquisition which include oral classroom discourse strategies as well as learner development of literacy skills. Special attention is given to the necessity to develop critical reading skills, the ability to handle multimodal texts and attitudes motivations and behaviours and how these may impact on the teaching and learning process Chapters emphasise that ultimate outcomes depend on extra linguistic environmental factors such as parental involvement and teacher competences These include establishing control in the classroom as well as using appropriate strategies for Negotiation of Meaning and helping learners build positive self concept This book will be of interest to all professionals involved in the teaching of foreign languages to young learners as well as to researchers teacher educators and students working in this area The Age Factor in Second Language Acquisition David Michael Singleton,Zsolt Lengyel,1995-01-01 This book takes a hard look at some of the assumptions that are customarily made concerning the role of age in second language acquisition The evidence and arguments the contributors present run counter to the notion that an early start in second language learning is of itself either absolutely sufficient or necessary for the attainment of native like mastery of a second language Another theme of the book is a doubt that there is a particular stage of maturity beyond which language learning is no longer fully possible In short the book presents a challenge to those who take it as given that second language learning is inevitably different in its essential nature from language acquisition in the childhood years and that second language knowledge acquired beyond the critical period is in all circumstances and in all respects doomed to fossilize at a non native like level
