Elton Barker,Stefan Bouzarovski,Christopher Pelling,Leif Isaksen,2015-12-03 Maps dominate the modern sense of place and geography Yet so far as we can tell maps were rare in the Greco Roman world and when mentioned in sources are mistrusted and criticized Today technological advances have brought to the fore an entirely new set of methods for representing and interacting with space In contrast to traditional topographic perspectives the territorial extent of economic and political realms is increasingly conceived though a topological lens in which the nature and frequency of links among different sites matter more than the physical distances between them New Worlds from Old Texts focuses on the ancient Greek experience of space conceived of in terms of both its literature and material culture remains and uses this to reflect on modern thinking

Comprising twelve chapters written by a highly interdisciplinary range of contributors this edited collection explores the rich array of representational devices employed by ancient authors whose narrative depictions of spatial relations defy the logic of images and surfaces that dominates contemporary cartographic thought The volume focuses on Herodotus Histories a text that is increasingly cited by Classicists as an example of how ancient perceptions of space may have been rather different to the modern cartographic view but also considers perceptions of space through the lens of other authors genres cultural contexts and disciplines In doing so it reveals how a study of the ancient world can be reinvigorated by and in turn help to shape modern technological innovation and methods
