Other Worlds Than This Translations:

Other Worlds Than Ours Richard Anthony Proctor, 1883 Transgender, Translation, Translingual Address Douglas Robinson, 2019-01-24 Finalist for the 2020 Prose Awards Language and Linguistics Category The emergence of transgender communities into the public eye over the past few decades has brought some new understanding but also renewed outbreaks of violent backlash In Transgender Translation Translingual Address Douglas Robinson seeks to understand the translational or translingual dialogues between cisgendered and transgendered people Drawing on a wide range of LGBT scholars philosophers sociologists sexologists and literary voices Robinson sets up cis trans dialogues on such issues as being born in the wrong body binary vs anti binary sex gender identities and the nature of transition and transformation Prominent voices in the book include Kate Bornstein C Jacob Hale and Sassafras Lowrey The theory of translation mobilized in the book is not the traditional equivalence based one but Callon and Latour's sociology of translation as speaking for someone else which grounds the study of translation in social pressures to conform to group norms In addition however Robinson translates a series of passages from Finnish trans novels into English and explores the translingual address that emerges when those English translations are put into dialogue with cis and trans scholars

Other Worlds Than These John Joseph Adams, 2012-07-01 What if you could not only travel any location in the world but to any possible world We can all imagine such other worlds be they worlds just slightly different than our own or worlds full of magic and wonder but it is only in fiction that we can travel to them From The Wizard of Oz to The Dark Tower from Philip Pullman's The Golden Compass to C S Lewis's The Chronicles of Narnia there is a rich tradition of this kind of fiction but never before have the best parallel world stories and portal fantasies been collected in a single volume until now

Otherworlds Aisling Byrne, 2015-12-17 This book offers a new perspective on the otherworlds of medieval literature These fantastical realms are among the most memorable places in medieval writing by turns beautiful and monstrous alluring and terrifying Passing over a river or sea or entering into a hollow hill heroes come upon strange and magical realms These places are often very beautiful filled with sweet music and adorned with precious stones and rich materials There is often no darkness time may pass at a different pace and the people who dwell there are usually supernatural Sometimes such a place is exactly what it appears to be the land of heart's desire but the otherworld can also have a sinister side trapping humans and keeping them there against their will

Otherworlds Fantasy and History in Medieval Literature takes a fresh look at how medieval writers understood these places and why they found them so compelling It focuses on texts from England but places this material in the broader context of literary production in medieval Britain and Ireland The narratives examined in this book tell a rather surprising story about medieval notions of these fantastical places Otherworlds are actually a lot less other than they might initially seem Authors often use the idea of the otherworld to comment on very serious topics It is not unusual for otherworld depictions to address political issues in the historical world Most intriguing of all are those texts where locations in the real world are re imagined

as otherworlds The regions on which this book focuses Britain Ireland and the surrounding islands prove particularly susceptible to this characterization

Magic's Translations Margaret J. Wiener, 2025-04-04 Do you believe in magic This familiar question suggests magic is easily recognized but unreal In Magic's Translations Margaret J Wiener argues that such views are shaped by historical power struggles especially in Europe's relations with the wider world Focusing on nineteenth and twentieth century Dutch interactions with Indonesians Wiener reveals how colonial agents framed unfamiliar practices practitioners and objects as magic rendering distinct phenomena fundamentally alike and advancing colonizing projects that deemed magic antithetical to reason and reality While colonial authorities including ethnologists mobilized the concept of magic to differentiate Europeans from Indonesians nature from culture reason from superstition and fact from fetish their efforts produced unexpected outcomes Some Indonesian artifacts and acts not only retained their power but invaded European experiences As anthropologists were among the key translators of magic throughout the world Wiener intersperses accounts of magic's translations in the Indies with reflections on anthropology's ongoing engagement with the concept She demonstrates that magic became an object of expert knowledge political control and popular fascination rather than a self-evident category or relic of naïve belief

Cannibal Translation Isabel C. Gómez, 2023-05-15 Winner of the 2024 ACLA Harry Levin Prize A bold comparative study illustrating the creative potential of translations that embrace mutuality and resist assimilation Cannibal translators digest recombine transform and trouble their source materials Isabel C Gómez makes the case for this model of literary production by excavating a network of translation projects in Latin America that includes canonical writers of the twentieth century such as Haroldo and Augusto de Campos Rosario Castellanos Clarice Lispector José Emilio Pacheco Octavio Paz and Angel Rama Building on the avant-garde reclaiming of cannibalism as an Indigenous practice meant to honorably incorporate the other into the self these authors took up Brazilian theories of translation in Spanish to fashion a distinctly Latin American literary exchange one that rejected normative and Anglocentric approaches to translation and developed collaborative techniques to bring about a new understanding of world literature By shedding new light on the political and aesthetic pathways of translation movements beyond the Global North Gómez offers an alternative conception of the theoretical and ethical challenges posed by this artistic practice Cannibal Translation Literary Reciprocity in Contemporary Latin America mobilizes a capacious archive of personal letters publishers' records newspapers and new media to illuminate inventive strategies of collectivity and process such as untranslation transcreation intersectional autobiographical translation and transpeaking The book invites readers to find fresh meaning in other translational histories and question the practices that mediate literary circulation

The Mahabharata of Krishna-Dwaipayana Vyasa Translated Into English Prose, 1893 Decentering Translation Studies Judy Wakabayashi, Rita Kothari, 2009 This book foregrounds practices and discourses of translation in several non-Western traditions Translation Studies currently reflects the historiography and concerns of Anglo-American and European scholars overlooking the full richness of translational activities and diverse discourses The essays in this book which generally have a historical slant help push back the geographical and conceptual boundaries of the discipline They illustrate how distinctive historical social and philosophical contexts have shaped the ways in which translational acts are defined performed viewed encouraged or suppressed in different linguistic communities The volume has a particular focus on the multiple contexts of translation in India but also encompasses translation in Korea Japan and South Africa as well as representations of Sufism in different contexts

Reflections on the Works of God ... Translated by A. Clarke ... A New Edition, Revised Christoph Christian STURM, 1818

Translation and Survival Tessa Rajak, 2009-04-09 A study of the translation of the Hebrew Bible into Greek a work of seminal importance without which there would have been no Western Jewish diaspora and no Christianity The book places its production in historical context and examines its role in the religious culture of Jews in the Mediterranean during this period

Otherworlds Federico Campagna, 2025-06-26 What can survive the end of the world In Otherworlds philosopher Federico Campagna constructs extraordinary stories and alternative histories of the Mediterranean nexus of migrations and odysseys ruins and romances to depict a world in which the imagination is the only engine of survival Chapter by chapter Campagna chronicles the existential challenges posed by history and the inventive and radical responses of people facing the ruin of their world From the earliest myths with which the inhabitants of the kingdoms around the Mediterranean constructed a shared social reality the stories of the Mediterranean are dominated by cataclysm and collapse in which fugitive fragments become the building blocks of resilience and renewal Alexander the Great's cataclysmic conquests seed a cycle of existential romances pagan philosophers fleeing the fall of Rome give rise to new visions of reality translators across the Islamic world Iberia and Italy use stories to bridge the gap between cultures at war and pirates slaves renegades and publishers expand the imaginative horizons of human possibility through modernity and beyond In Campagna's lyrical novel and expansive work part history part philosophy part love letter to a heritage of seasonal migration and searches for belonging the challenges of disintegration and destruction are time and again met with the creation of new and radical realities As rich and various as the philosophy myths literature and art of the Mediterranean itself Otherworlds traces the tales of these attempts to reinvent the world and reveals how at the most dramatic and decisive junctures of Mediterranean history it was the ability to set sail for these other worlds which prevailed

Emmanuela Tandello Eliot Weinberger Daniel Weissbort and Fran oise Wuilmart Translating Indigenous Knowledges Ma Carmen África Vidal Claramonte, 2024-12-30 In this book Vidal presents a new way of translating indigenous epistemologies For centuries the Western world has ordained what knowledge is and what it should be and has also been responsible for transmitting that knowledge This universal knowledge has traveled to the four corners of the globe In recent decades there has been a steadily growing interest in dialogical epistemologies Disciplines ranging from historiography and philosophy to anthropology are calling for this universalist idea of knowledge to be modified Thanks to this change of perspective other forms of knowledge which until now have been ignored are gradually coming to light Indigenous knowledges are not constructed with the scientific binary static Cartesian or univocal logic characteristic of Western societies Non Western types of knowledge incorporate senses emotions body objects and matter It is impossible to reduce indigenous knowledges to Western conceptualizations The types of translation covered in this book assume that knowledge is not transmitted only in the Western way and that there are world views that take into account the emotions and body as well as the intellect This includes all types of beings human non human and extrahuman In the face of this plurality of epistemologies this book affirms that the static Western conceptual traditions characterized by a binary logic are not useful and that there is a need to translate outside the scope of these traditions The examples given in this book show that translation is not only a process involving Western and non Western languages Translation is not a mere substitution of one word for another because knowledge is not only transmitted through words It also involves non verbal elements Knowledge is transmitted through objects songs sensations and emotions as well as through words Moreover many non Western traditions do not translate with language systems but rather with other semiotic systems such as knots threads colors and bodies in movement This is a timely topical and transdisciplinary reading of interest to advanced students and researchers in translation studies anthropology and beyond African Perspectives on Literary Translation Judith Inggs, Ella Wehrmeyer, 2021-03-02 This collection serves as a showcase for literary translation research with a focus on African perspectives highlighting theoretical and methodological developments in the discipline while shedding further light on the literary landscape in Africa The book offers a framework for understanding key approaches and topics in literary translation situated in the African context covering foundational concepts as well as new directions within the field The first half of the volume focuses on the translation product exploring such topics as translation strategies literary genres and self translation while the second half examines process and reception allowing for an in depth look at agency habitus and ethics Each chapter is structured to allow for the introduction of a given theoretical aspect of literary translation followed by a summary of a completed research project with an African focus showing theory in practice offering a model for readers to build their own literary translation research projects while also underscoring the range of perspectives and unique challenges to literary translation work in Africa This unique volume is a key resource for students and scholars in translation studies giving visibility to African perspectives on literary translation while pointing the way forward for future research directions Nature ,1888 The Romance of Gargantua and Pantagruel Translated from the French ..., by Sir T.
