Police Work Strategies And Outcomes In Law Enforcement:

Police Work David M. Petersen,1979-11 Law Enforcement in the United States James A. Conser,Rebecca Paynich,Terry Gingerich,2011-10-18 Law Enforcement Policing Security Academic Professionalism in Law Enforcement Bernadette Jones Palombo,1995 Law Enforcement, Communication, and Community Howard Giles,2002-01-01 Given widespread media attention to issues of crime and its prevention police heroism and new modes of police community involvements this international collection is timely It is unique in examining ways in which police and citizens communicate across a range of contexts and problem areas While much attention is afforded the critical roles of communication by police agencies there has been little recourse to communication science and its theories Likewise the latter has not until recently concerned itself with analyzing police citizen interactions This volume examines the character of such encounters forging new theoretical frameworks having implications for practice in many instances Topics include media portrayals of law enforcement communication and new technologies within police culture domestic violence hate crimes stalking sexual abuse and hostage negotiations This book should be relevant not only to a range of social sciences besides Communication scholars and students but also to practitioners working in the field Evidence-Based Policing Jerry H. Ratcliffe,2022-12-30 What is evidence based policing and how is it done This book provides an answer to both questions offering an introduction for undergraduate students and a hands on guide for police officers wanting to know how to put principles into practice It serves as a gentle introduction to the terminology ideas and scientific methods associated with evidence based policy and outlines some of the existing policing applications A couple of introductory chapters summarize evidence based policy and its goals and origins The core of the book eases the reader through a range of practical chapters that answer questions many people have about evidence based practice in policing What does good science look like How do I find reliable research How do I evaluate research What is a hypothesis How do randomized experiments work These chapters not only provide a practical guide to reading and using existing research but also a roadmap for readers wanting to start their own research project The final chapters outline different ways to publish research discuss concerns around evidence based policing and ask what is in the future for this emerging field Annotated with the author's own experiences as a police officer and researcher and filled with simple aids flowcharts and figures this practical guide is the most accessible introduction to evidence based policing available It is essential reading for policing students and police professionals alike Further resources are available on the book's website at evidencebasedpolicing.net The Past, Present, and Future of American Criminal Justice Brendan Maguire,Polly F. Radosh,1996 Today's criminal justice system is the product of adjustments and reappraisals of policies and practices of the past The Past Present and Future of American Criminal Justice highlights how criminal justice has changed and how it continues to change Controlling State Crime Jeffrey Ian Ross,2000-01-01 Academic research on state crime has focused on the illegal actions of individuals and organizations i e syndicates and corporations interchangeably labeled governmental crime delinquency illegality or lawlessness official deviance and misconduct crimes of obedience and human rights violations state crime has largely been considered in relation to insurgent violence or threats to national security Generally it has been seen as a phenomenon endemic to authoritarian countries in transitional and lesser developed contexts We need look no further than today's headlines to see the evidence of state crime Rwanda where government troops massacred countless Hutus and Tutsis governmental atrocities in Kosovo at the hands of the Yugoslavian Army and East Timor where both individuals and property have been decimated largely perpetrated by the Indonesian military The study of how to control state crime has been difficult There are definitional conceptual theoretical and methodological problems as well as difficulties in designing of practical methods to abolish combat control or resist this type of behavior Jeffrey Ian Ross reviews these shortcomings then develops a preliminary model of ways to control state crime His intention is stimulating scholarly research and debate but also encouraging progressive minded policymakers and practitioners who work for governmental and nongovernmental organizations The hope is that they will reflect upon the methods they advocate or use to minimize state transgressions This new edition will be of compelling interest to students of political science and criminology as well as general readers interested in human rights state crime and world affairs

Evidence-Based Policing Garth den Heyer, 2022-10-19 The volume aims to increase knowledge and understanding of how evidence based policing is being adopted and implemented by police agencies in the United States and whether it is affecting the agencies processes strategies community relationships and delivery of community oriented policing services This exploration is based on data drawn from the literature interviews and extensive field research that resulted in the case studies presented and discussed in the book The goal of this text will be to provide the reader with a thorough analysis of the concepts arguments and challenges facing evidence based policing The history of evidence based policing how evidence based practices are used in the health and social sectors and in the United Kingdom will be examined In addition reasonable options for improving the use of evidence based policing will be proposed Overall very practical policy implications will be outlined by a highly recognized professional who has considerable experience in policing and related research
