Police Psychology Into the 21st Century Martin I. Kurke, Ellen M. Scrivner, 2013-04-15 As we approach the 21st century there is a discernable shift in policing from an incident driven perspective to a proactive problem solving stance often described as community policing In this volume a panel of 21 psychologists examine the changing directions in policing and how such changes impact on psychological service delivery and operational support to law enforcement agencies The book describes existing and emerging means of providing psychological support to the law enforcement community in response to police needs to accommodate new technology community oriented problem solving technology crime prevention and sensitivity to community social changes Senior psychologists who are sworn officers federal agents and civilian employees of federal state and local law enforcement agencies comprise the team of chapter authors Their perspectives encompass their collective experience in the trenches and in law enforcement management and administrative support roles They discuss traditional applications of psychology to police selection training and promotion processes and in trauma stress management and evaluation of fitness for duty. Concerns related to police diversity and police family issues are also addressed as are unique aspects of police stress management. Additional chapters are dedicated to establishing psychological service functions that currently are less familiar to police agencies than they are to other government and private sector service recipients. These chapters are devoted to police psychologists as human resource professionals as human factors experts in accommodating to new technology and to new legal requirements as organizational behavioral experts and as strategic planners. This text is recommended reading for two groups: police and public safety administrators whose work takes them or should take them into contact with police psychologists practicing and would be police psychologists concerned with the emerging trends in the application of psychology to police and other public safety programs.

Psychological Services for Law Enforcement Theodore H. Blau, 1994-03-16. In 1989 the Commission on Accreditation for Law Enforcement Agencies mandated that every police authority seeking accreditation with the Commission must have access to psychological support and consultation. This timely text offers an extensive and current overview of the services psychologists can offer to law enforcement. Organized under major subject areas: assessment, intervention, consultation, and training, it deals with such issues as officer recruit selection, fitness for duty evaluations, stress counseling, hostage negotiation, investigative hypnosis, psychological profiling, management consultations, and much more.

Personality Assessment in Police Psychology Peter A. Weiss, 2010. In recent years, personality assessment by professional psychologists has taken on an increasingly important role in the field of police work. Most importantly, personality assessment instruments have been utilized in the pre-employment psychological screening of police officer candidates. This psychological screening takes place at the end of the hiring process to ensure that candidates do not have personality characteristics or existing psychopathology that would interfere with their job performance. Personality assessment is also used for other applications in police psychology. These applications include fitness for duty evaluations, FFDEs and second opinion evaluations of officers who challenge hiring decisions. Moreover, police psychologists are involved in a considerable amount of research in order to determine which tests and scales are most appropriate for evaluations. The present volume is divided into four parts to cover the relevant issues in personality assessment for police work. Part I provides an introduction and the basic principles of personality assessment in police psychology. Part II focuses on the major assessment instruments used in police psychology. These include the MMPI-2, the Personality Assessment Inventory (PAI), the Inwald Personality Inventory (IPI), and Hilson Tests, the M-PULSE Inventory, pre-offer integrity instruments, and the Rorschach Comprehensive System. Part III examines multiple issues in personality assessment research in the field of police psychology. Part IV covers applications of personality assessment in police psychology. These applications include pre-employment evaluations, fitness for duty evaluations, conditional second opinion psychological evaluations of candidates using multiple sources of information when conducting mandatory or required evaluations, and the politics of personality.
