Policies and Organizations for Urban Water Management V. A. Koelzer, B. A. Bigler, 1975      Policies and Organizations for Urban Water Management Victor A. Koelzer, Alexander B. Bigler, 1975      Urban Water Policies and Decision-making in the Detroit Metropolitan Region George M. Walker, 1970      The Private Sector and Water Pricing in Efficient Urban Water Management Cecilia Tortajada, Francisco González-Gómez, Asit K. Biswas, Miguel A. García-Rubio, 2016-01-08 This book focuses on participation of the public and private sectors in urban water management and on the role of water pricing It discusses in depth topics such as public choices of urban water service management dynamics of privatization and regulation of water services adoption of water demand instruments impacts of price and non price policies on residential water demand quality of water services lessons from not for profit public private partnerships and critical examinations of models and projections of demands in water utility resource planning in England and Wales Appropriateness of water prices and tariffs in achieving socially desirable outcomes is also analyzed and a global survey of urban water tariffs is approached with a focus on sustainability efficiency and fairness This book was originally published as a special issue of the International Journal of Water Resources Management      Pro-Poor Strategies in Urban Water Provisioning Akosua Sarpong Boakye-Ansah, 2021-02-25 Water utilities are the main instrument for countries to achieve universal service coverage In pursuing universal service coverage water utilities have turned to pro poor water services to extend water services in low income areas This thesis discusses the use of pro poor water services by water utilities in Kenya with the intention of highlighting the dimensions of the approach that require attention of policy makers and practitioners when engaging with the concept Based on the analysis of the technologies financial and organisational arrangements associated with the pro poor concept this thesis shows that the use of pro poor strategies allows water utilities to reduce the risks of servicing low income areas while still claiming to fulfil their mandate of providing access to all in a commercially viable manner The analysis also shows that rather than a decision of the water utility the choice for pro poor strategies emerges as the result of a consensus or compromise between the different actors that constitute the broader institutional environment in which water utilities operate The thesis concludes that while pro poor water services may serve the interests of water utilities and other stakeholders in the absence of well directed subsidies and proper monitoring they will not result in low income households benefiting from more affordable and reliable access to water      Urban Water Conflicts Bernard Barraque, 2011-12-02 Urban water conflicts manifested first in Europe in the 19th century and are observed nowadays in various forms throughout the world in particular in developing countries Main causes of these conflicts are characterized by complex socioeconomic and institutional issues related to urban water management The debate about public water services ver      Transforming Urban Water Supplies in India Govind Gopakumar, 2011-09-14 The absence of water supply infrastructure is a critical issue that affects the sustainability of cities in the developing world and the quality of life of millions of people living in these cities

Urban India has probably the largest concentration of people in the world lacking safe access to these infrastructures. This book is a unique study of the politics of water supply infrastructures in three metropolitan cities in contemporary India: Bangalore, Chennai, and Kochi. It examines the process of change in water supply infrastructure initiated by notable Public Private Partnership's efforts in these three cities to reveal the complexity of state-society relations in India at multiple levels at the state, city, and neighbourhood levels. Using a comparative methodology, the book develops an understanding of the changes in the production of reform water policy in contemporary India and its reception at the sub-national state level. It goes on to examine the governance of regimes of water supply in Bangalore, Chennai, and Kochi and evaluates the role of the partnerships in reforming water supply. The book is a useful contribution to studies on Urban Development and South Asian Politics.

Urban Water Engineering and Management Mohammad Karamouz, Ali Moridi, 2025-09-29. Integrating the latest developments in urban water hydrology and management, Urban Water Engineering and Management takes a system approach to urban water hydrology, engineering, planning, and management, supplying examples and case studies and highlighting pressing issues such as urban water governance, disaster management, and climate change impacts on urban areas. This expanded and updated edition draws attention to climate change as a main concern of this century by focusing on how it impacts the water cycle. Time series analysis is simplified in a practical manner, and hydroinformatics principles and applications in urban water are also added as unique features of this edition. Written and designed especially for intermediate and advanced courses/modules in water resources in civil and environmental engineering and in urban planning, this book can be used as a textbook for civil engineering, urban and regional planning, geography, environmental science, and in courses dealing with the urban water cycle. Features: Is updated throughout and adds numerous new examples and case studies. Integrates the latest developments in urban water hydrology and management, providing a holistic system perspective on urban water engineering and planning. Includes numerous examples, case studies, and technological and IT tools addressing critical issues such as urban water governance, asset and disaster management, and the impacts of climate change on urban areas. Offers new insights for engineers, policy makers, and decision makers, emphasizing the importance of integrated water management and planning solutions for sustainable urban development.

Urban Water Governance in Postcolonial Zimbabwe Abraham R. Matamanda, Tazviona R. Gambe, Johannes I. Bhanye, Tafadzwa C. Maramura, Oratilwe Annastacia Khoza, 2025-09-04. This book focuses on urban water supply and governance in the Global South, using urban Zimbabwe as a case study to provide insights and perspectives into the realities of the water governance. Applying a resilience and sustainability perspective, we argue that fragmentation of responsibilities between various institutions, the difficulty of coordination at various levels, and the politics centered on water supply constrain effective water governance in Zimbabwe. This has resulted in a downward spiral in urban water services in Zimbabwe's urban centers. Additionally, the innovative nature of this study is to draw from an often neglected dimension in urban water governance, which is the political ecology.

which brings into perspective the varying interests associated with environmental contests and conflicts that influence water allocation and sharing among urban areas by the public sector Therefore this book dwells on understanding the politics economic and ecology of water governance through an interdisciplinary lens This analysis is critical for this study because Zimbabwe s current state of obsolete water infrastructure has also had a negative impact on the supply of high quality portable water services to the public in urban areas This book will be a critical read for academic and professionals in the fields of urban geographers planners sociologists and water experts It will also be useful for undergraduate and postgraduate students from Geography Urban and regional Planning Political Science Development Studies and Economics

Data Requirements for Integrated Urban Water Management Tim Fletcher, Ana Deletic, 2008-01-07 Integrated urban water management relies on data allowing us to analyse understand and predict the behaviour of the individual water cycle components and their interactions The concomitant monitoring of the complex of urban water system elements makes it possible to grasp the entirety of relations among the various components of the urban water cycle and so develop a holistic approach to solving urban water problems Data Requirements for Integrated Urban Water Managements issuing from UNESCO s International Hydrological Programme project on this topic is geared towards improving integrated urban water management by providing guidance on the collection validation storage assessment and utilization of the relevant data The first part of this volume describes general principles for developing a monitoring programme in support of sustainable urban water management The second part examines in detail the monitoring of individual water cycle components Two case studies in the final part illustrating attempts to deliver an integrated monitoring system help demonstrate the fundamental principles of sustainable urban water management elaborated here Manual for Undertaking National Urban Assessments Asian Development Bank, 2016-11-01 Urbanization in Asia is expected to reach 55% by 2030 and 64% by 2050 to constitute 53% of the world s urban population and contribute half the world s gross domestic product But as cities swell they also struggle with environmental degradation traffic congestion inadequate urban infrastructure and lack of basic civic services This manual prepared by Urban Sector Group of the Asian Development Bank ADB provides guidelines for conducting rapid urban assessments It is guided by the Urban Operational Plan 2012 2020 which outlines ADB s support to its members in developing their urban economies through the 3E approach Economy Environment and Equity It presents a framework providing a context for the city level 3E tool kits Tool Kit for Rapid Economic Assessment Planning and Development of Cities in Asia Green City Development Tool Kit and Enabling Inclusive Cities Tool Kit for Inclusive Urban Development

Technology and Reforms Vishal Narain, Annasamy Narayanamoorthy, 2016-01-12 This book reviews and analyzes emerging challenges in water policy governance and institutions in India Recent times have seen the contours of water policy shaped by new discourses and narratives there has been a pluralization of the state and a changing balance of power among the actors who influence the formulation of water policy Discourses on gender mainstreaming and Integrated Water Resource Management IWRM are influential though they have often remained rhetorical and difficult to put into practice Debate over property rights reform and inter linking of rivers has been polarized At the same time there has been a rising disenchantment with policy initiatives in participatory irrigation management cleaning up of water bodies and pollution control Fast depletion of groundwater resources and the importance of adopting new irrigation methods are getting increased focus in the recent policy dialogue The contributors review current debate on these and other subjects shaping the governance of water resources and take stock of new policy developments The book examines the experience of policy implementation and shows where important weaknesses still lie The authors present a roadmap for the future and discuss the potential of alternative approaches for tackling emerging challenges A case is made for greater emphasis on a discursive analysis of water policy to examine underlying policy processes The contributors observe that the ongoing democratization of water governance coupled with the multiplication of stresses on water will create a more visible demand for platforms for negotiation conflict resolution and dialogue across different categories of users and uses Finally the authors propose that future research should challenge implicit biases in water resources planning and address imbalances in the allocation of water from the perspectives of both equity and sustainability
