Stack, 1983 US Foreign Policy in The Horn of Africa Donna Jackson, 2017-09-29 Examining American foreign policy towards the Horn of Africa between 1945 and 1991 this book uses Ethiopia and Somalia as case studies to offer an evaluation of the decision making process during the Cold War and consider the impact that these decisions had upon subsequent developments both within the Horn of Africa and in the wider international context The decision making process is studied including the role of the president the input of his advisers and lower level officials within agencies such as the State Department and National Security Council and the parts played by Congress bureaucracies public opinion and other actors within the international environment especially the Soviet Union Ethiopia and Somalia Jackson examines the extent to which influences exerted by forces other than the president affected foreign policy and provides the first comprehensive analysis of American foreign policy towards Ethiopia and Somalia throughout the Cold War This book offers a fresh perspective on issues such as globalism regionalism proxy wars American aid programmes anti communism and human rights It will be of great interest to students and academics in various fields including American foreign policy American Studies and Politics the history of the Cold War and the history of the Horn of Africa during the modern era

Foreign Policy and Congress Marie T. Henahan, 2010-06-02 In the traditional view of foreign policy making in the United States the President is considered the primary authority and Congress is seen as playing a subsidiary role Marie T Henahan looks at the effects of events in the international system on both the content of foreign policy and what actions Congress takes on foreign policy Henahan argues that the only way to understand the way congressional behavior varies over time is by looking at the rise and resolution of critical issues in foreign policy which in turn have their origin in the international system When a critical foreign policy issue arises congressional activity and attempts to influence foreign policy increase Once the debate is resolved and one side wins a consensus emerges and Congress settles into a more passive role Using a data set consisting of all roll call votes on foreign policy issues taken by the Senate from 1897 to 1984 to generate indicators of Congressional behavior together with the rise and fall of critical issues in international relations Henahan is able to develop a more nuanced understanding of Congress's role in foreign policy making over time In recent years political scientists have begun to consider the impact of the international system on domestic policy Part of the difficulty of some of this work as well as work on Congress's role in foreign policy is that it has been limited in terms of time and the number of events the analysis considered depending on case studies This book offers a systematic consideration of the effects of international events on domestic politics crossing many different kinds of international activity and provides a unique longitudinal view of Congressional action on foreign policy This book will be of interest to scholars of international relations American foreign policy making and Congress Marie T Henahan is Assistant Professor of Political Science Vanderbilt University The Politics of Energy and Memory between the Baltic States and Russia Agnia Grigas, 2016-03-03

Since the 1990s Baltic Russian relations have been amongst the most contentious on the European continent Energy security concerns historical legacies and the status of Russian minorities have all proved key flash points Baltic Russian relations have been described as a litmus test of Russia's willingness to leave behind its imperialist ambitions simultaneously the policies of Tallinn Riga or Vilnius towards Russia can have a direct impact on EU Russian and NATO Russian relations The Baltic states share similar histories and resources and face the same geopolitical challenges All are dependent on Russia for energy yet as this fascinating study reveals they have pursued very different foreign policies towards their powerful neighbour In The Politics of Energy and Memory between the Baltic States and Russia Agnia Grigas provides an unprecedented analysis of contemporary Baltic Russian relations and identifies the causal factors that drive the foreign policies of the Baltic states in such divergent routes Supported by case studies on the oil and gas sectors as well as the tug of history this book is an invaluable resource for scholars and policy makers

Great Powers and World Order

Charles W. Kegley, Gregory A. Raymond, 2020-02-12 Great Powers and World Order encourages critical thinking about the nature of world order by presenting the historical information and theoretical concepts needed to make projections about the global future Charles W Kegley and Gregory Raymond ask students to compare retrospective cases and formulate their own hypotheses about not only the causes of war but also the consequences of peace settlements Historical case studies open a window to see what strategies for constructing world order were tried before why one course of action was chosen over another and how things turned out By moving back and forth in each case study between history and theory rather than treating them as separate topics the authors hope to situate the assumptions causal claims and policy prescriptions of different schools of thought within the temporal domains in which they took root giving the reader a better sense of why policy makers embraced a particular view of world order instead of an alternative vision Maestri of Political Science Donatella Campus, Gianfranco Pasquino, Martin Bull, 2011-06-01 This book continues the editors work started in the volume Masters of Political Science of highlighting and re evaluating the contributions of the most important political scientists who have gone before Its basis is the belief that the future development and sophistication of the discipline will benefit from a critical understanding of the works of early political giants whose contributions are presented and analysed Gabriel A Almond Raymond Aron Philip Converse Maurice Duverger Stanley Hoffmann Paul Lazarsfeld Arend Lijphart Elinor Ostrom William H Riker Stein Rokkan and Susan Strange The editors review and consider the contributions of these maestri to the study of contemporary democracy political culture electoral systems political communication the transformation of capitalism and state formation in Europe Maestri of Political Science is aimed not only at a new generation of political scientists but is a valuable opportunity for established scholars to see new light through old windows From Turnbull to Morrison Mark Evans, Michelle Grattan, Brendan McCaffrie, 2019-08-23 Is trust between the government and Australians broken The country s leading institutions have been ranked among the least trusted in the world at a time when the economy has experienced twenty seven years of economic growth This has all happened since the 2016 federal election under the revolving prime ministerships of Malcolm Turnbull and Scott Morrison s first term Turnbull was the fourth sitting prime minister in a decade to be removed by his own party What role do these politically turbulent times play in this trust deficit Scott Morrison has now been elected by the people What does he and future prime ministers need to do to reboot civic belief in politics How will history judge the contribution of the Turnbull and Morrison administrations In From Turnbull to Morrison well known political journalists including Michelle Grattan George Megalogenis Megan Davis Virginia Haussegger Mark Kenny and Katharine Murphy and leading academics such as Frank Bongiorno Mark Evans Susan Harris Rimmer Anne Tiernan John Warhurst and George Williams examine the institutions the issues and the leaders at the heart of this crisis It is crucial reading for champions of liberal democracy From Turnbull to Morrison The Trust Divide is the thirteenth volume of Australia s longest running study of Australian Commonwealth Government started in 1983 International Trade and the Environment Judith M.
