

THE GENDER DIMENSION OF INFORMAL CARE

ABSTRACT

Across the EU, 80% of care is provided by informal carers. A majority of them are women as informal carers are typically spouses, middle-aged daughters or daughters-in-law, aged 45 to 75. A redistribution of care responsibilities between men and women, as well as between the family and the State has become more critical and urgent than ever before.

This is an examination from a feminist historian s standpoint of the background to the present system of regulating prostitution in Britain which is generally admitted to be not only unjust and discriminatory but ineffective even in achieving its stated aims Concentrating on the 1950s and especially on the Wolfenden Report and the 1959 Street Offences Act it is a thorough exposure of the sexual double standard and general misogynist assumptions underlying legislation relating to

Gender And The Professional Predicament In Nursing Davies, Celia, 1995-02-01 Gender and the Professional Predicament in Nursing examines the ways in which our understanding of nursing is gendered and how our notion of nursing is connected to our idea of what it is to be a woman It explores the implications this connection has for the status of nursing as a profession and re examines some of the fundamental questions that the nursing profession has tried to address such as what is nursing care who should do it why is it so difficult to manage the provision of nursing care Gender and the Professional Predicament in Nursing demonstrates that once nurses try to define and shape the nature of their work they are marginalized or silenced Frequent descriptions of them as sentimental divided or incompetent highlight the need to understand nurses exclusion from policy debates and why their voices are so seldom heard Celia Davies contends that in a society divided by gender defining nursing as women s work is deeply contradictory We value nurses but devalue nursing She suggests that alongside the debates about managerial efficiency in the NHS we need another kind of debate about how we organize health and social care about what we mean by professionalism and about the worth of caring work This book is important reading for students of women s studies nursing allied professions in health and medicine policy makers and human resource managers
