

THE SOCIAL AND POLITICAL VIOLENCE: SOME PRELIMINARY OBSERVATIONS

Sumit Saurabh Srivastava*

Abstract

The present research paper aims to give an account of violence engaging with both sociological and political strands of conceptual and definitional debates. In this process, the paper engages with the multiple dimensions & types of violence. The research paper's central argument is that violence is a multi-layered concept anchored in the diverse socio-economic specificities. Taking into account that violence is more than mere physical and 'bodily' hurt, the research paper also engages with Pierre Bourdieu's writings on symbolic power & symbolic violence. It emerges from the discourse on violence that the acts of violence may be experienced by the victims / survivors 'willingly' without any effective opposition as these are 'internalized' by those who suffer. Such 'normalcy' of violence makes it difficult to discern its content and context. Furthermore, the gender dimension of violence is sketched through the Violence Against Women (VAW) framework. The paper addresses such related issues.

Keywords: Violence, Pierre Bourdieu, Symbolic Power, Symbolic Violence, Violence Against Women (VAW)

INTRODUCTION

At a basic level, violence can be understood as any individuals' behaviour which results in physical harm of the other person or collectivity. production environmental sustainability and social equity yet there remains a significant gap in understanding their full impact and potential This research topic aims to collate comprehensive research on Sustainable Food Networks SFNs with specific objectives identifying various SFN initiatives across different territories evaluating their spatial dimensions in global contexts and assessing policies that can enhance the social economic and environmental sustainability of food value chains Key questions include how alternative values are propagated within SFNs the critical spatial nodes for these values the role of urban and peri urban agriculture and the interplay between territorial conditions and SFN performance Additionally the research seeks to understand how SFNs compete with hegemonic value chains and the potential role of public policy in strengthening these networks To gather further insights into the complexities and potentials of SFNs we welcome articles addressing but not limited to the following themes The propagation and transfer of alternative values within SFNs Identification of critical spatial nodes for the reproduction of these values Roles of urban and peri urban agriculture in SFNs Relationships between territorial conditions governance and SFN performance Strategies employed by SFNs to tackle competition from corporate value chains The impact of SFNs on the surge of local organic and healthy food outlets The role of public policy in supporting and strengthening SFNs
