Governing Global Networks Mark W. Zacher, Brent A. Sutton, 1996 Governing Global Networks argues that most international regimes are grounded in states mutual cooperation and not in the dictates of the most powerful states It focuses on the regimes for four important international industries shipping air transport telecommunications and postal services Of particular importance to these regimes have been states interests in both the free flow of commerce and their policy autonomy The authors examine the relationship between these potentially conflicting goals In particular they trace the impact of deregulation which has led some states increasingly to place gains from economic openness ahead of their desire to maintain a high degree of control of their own economies and to the decline of the traditional cartel elements of these regimes This analysis is an important contribution to theoretical debates between neo realists and neo liberals in the study of international organisations and international political economy      International Joint Ventures: Economic and

Organizational Perspectives Kalyan Chatterjee, Barbara Gray, 2013-03-09 International Joint Ventures Economic and Organizational Perspectives is the result of a symposium on International Joint Ventures and Strategic Alliances held by the Center for Research in Conflict and Negotiation at Pennsylvania State University The book gives a cross disciplinary treatment of the economic and managerial issues affecting joint venture formation operation and performance including subjects ranging from the impact of international trade policy to cross cultural communication on joint venture operations The volume enriches our understanding of each discipline from the vantage point of the other building a more complete understanding of joint ventures as a mode of entry into domestic and international markets Two categories of question are analyzed issues of importance to the joint potential and actual participants in a joint venture and issues related to the social effects of joint ventures from the point of view of society as a whole or its agent the regulator The questions are addressed using simple theoretical models and conceptual discussions as well as empirical analyses Audience Executives policy makers and scholars of economics decision analysis political science and management

The Global Gamble Peter Gowan, 1999 The collapse of the Soviet Bloc presented policy makers in Washington with a temptation reminiscent of Faust's opening up vistas of hitherto unimaginable global power but the cold breath of Mephistopheles is already blowing across devastated communities from southeast Asia to the Balkan peninsula in the wake of America's bid for world power In this major analysis of the new era of American domination Peter Gowan strips away the language of humanitarian ideals that have cloaked US interventions from Baghdad to Belgrade to reveal far more cynical goals with the real democratic hopes of the peoples of Europe the South and East systematically trampled down in the rush to impose NATO based US political leadership across the globe Gowan surveys the transformation of NATO from Cold War security shield for Western Europe into a global vigilante force in pursuit of US interests with European footsoldiers under American command He explains the projected expansion of the EU into a set of first and second class countries incapable of any political action independent of the United States and he analyses the catastrophic social and economic effects of the neo liberal Shock Therapy imposed on Russia and Eastern Europe with devastating results Far from being an unstoppable natural force against which every nation state is powerless Gowan argues compellingly that the process of globalisation has been relentlessly driven forward by the enormous political power of the US state and business interests in a highly conscious bid to extend their strategic dominance over the world economy He shows how the international finance system the Dollar Wall Street Regime created out of the ashes of Breton Woods has been exploited as a political lever to open up local economies to US products and speculative flows of hot money and demonstrates how each financial crisis over the last ten years has been used by the Washington Wall Street axis to force through dramatic economic and social re engineering in the targeted countries While posing as a benign economic education for developing economies US led rescue packages in fact leave these countries seriously weakened destroying national industrial sectors while elevating to power such local rentier interests as the Russian mafia capitalists and leaving the already fragile social tissue of many of these countries irreparably damaged This masterly survey both bold and compelling will become a landmark in the debate on the new world order threatening the twenty first century
