Political And Economic Transition In East Asia From Government To Governance:

The Political and Economic Transition in East Asia Xiaoming Huang, 2013-09-05 The book examines the political and economic developments in East Asia since the end of the Cold War in an attempt to identify a broad pattern of transition particularly in terms of the reshaping of the state's relations with forces and institutions in economy politics and domestic international interactions The chapters are organised into three parts I The state in the new economy II The state in the new politics III The state in the new global environment The contributors find a general pattern of the state's withdrawal from these three areas But it is not simply that the market takes over as some envisaged Instead the transition is moving towards a set of governance producing arrangements in which the role of both the market and the state are appreciated The book concludes that a more sophisticated approach is needed to the problems of development vs governance the state vs the market and global dynamics vs national interests for a better understanding of the dynamic transition and the consequent new political economy in East Asia

Economic Development in China, India and East Asia Kartik Chandra Roy, Hans-Christer Blomqvist, Cal Clark, 2012-01-01 This is an unusually rich and comprehensive comparative analysis of industrialisation and development in Asia Drawing on the diverse experiences of Malaysia Singapore China India and more Roy Blomqvist and Clark skilfully tease out the common institutional threads and the subtle differences in their developmental trajectories An essential reading for all those interested in the lessons from Asian development Jude Howell London School of Economics UK This is a thorough and comprehensive study both in terms of country coverage and in depth analysis covering the economic development of all the major economies in the Asian continent namely China India Japan South Korea Taiwan Malaysia and Singapore Before embarking on analyses of different aspects of economic growth and development of these countries the authors present a thought provoking analysis of how institutional factors such as geography history of religion culture and political governance have been deeply interwoven with development dynamics to shape the growth and development trajectory that each country has subsequently followed Each country s development path consequently appeared almost be pre determined Japan s role as the lead country in technology transfer under the flying geese pattern of development is discussed however the emphasis has shifted of late to China India Korea Malaysia and Singapore the authors also propose that instead of discussing the failure of India to catch up with China in growth and development outcomes economists should be commenting on whether China bestowed with India s highly decentralized democratic governance structure and institutional rigidities would have been able to achieve the same results as that of India Only then will a true understanding and appreciation of India s achievements in economic growth and development emerge Economic Development in China India and East Asia will be warmly welcomed and appreciated by academics and researchers of international and development economics as well as Asian development and economics Policy makers and those involved in NGOs in the development and aid arenas will also find this of great interest

Development Models in Muslim Contexts Robert Springborg,2009-09-30 Recent discussions of the Chinese economic development model the emergence of an alternative Muslim model over the past quarter century and the faltering globalisation of the Washington Consensus all point to the need to investigate more systematically the nature of these models and their competitive attractions This is especially the case in the Muslim world which both spans different economic and geographic categories and is itself the progenitor of a development model The Chinese model has attracted the greatest attention in step with that country's phenomenal growth and therefore provides the primary focus for this book This volume examines the characteristics of this model and its reception in two major regions of the world Africa and Latin America It also investigates the current competition over development models across Muslim contexts The question of which model or models if any will guide development in Muslim majority countries is vital not only for them but for the world as a whole This is the first political economy study to address this vital question as well as the closely related issue of the centrality of governance to development

From the earlier focus on endogenous regional assets such as localized networks of association and trust, scholars and policymakers are now analyzing the complex relationship between economic globalization and regional change. This high-calibre collection makes a significant contribution to the literature on local and regional development in Asia and provides an important resource for researchers, students and policy makers interested in East Asia. This book was published as a special issue of Regional Studies.

Politics in Pacific Asia Xiaoming Huang, Jason Young, 2017-09-16 This lively and accessible new edition provides a uniquely broad-ranging introduction to the governance and politics of Pacific Asia. Thematically structured around the key institutions and issues, it is genuinely comparative in its approach to the whole region. A range of representative countries—China, Japan, Korea, Taiwan, Singapore, Malaysia, Thailand, Indonesia, Vietnam and the Philippines—are used as key case examples throughout and each of them is subject to a detailed full-page country profile. This diverse region is a fascinating area for study. Politics in Pacific Asia provides a framework to form a coherent understanding of the region's politics; it balances persistent patterns with the latest developments and general characteristics with the differing cultures, histories and institutions of individual countries.

Eastern and Western Ideas for African Growth Kenichi Ohno, Izumi Ohno, 2013-05-29 The West and the East approach economic development differently. The Europeans and Americans stress free and fair business climate, promoting private activities generally without picking winners and improving governance. East Asia is interested in achieving concrete results and projects rather than formal correctness, prioritizing a few sectors for industrialization and eventual graduation from aid. The West mostly shapes shifting strategies of the international donor community while the East has in reality made remarkable progress in industrial catch-up. The two approaches cannot be merged easily but they can be used in proper combination to realize growth and economic transformation This book proposes more dialogue and complementarity between the two in the development effort of Africa and other regions In this collected volume contributed by experts and practitioners from both East and West the need to introduce Eastern ideas to the global development strategy is emphasized Analysis of British and other Western donor policies is given while Japanese Korean and other Asian approaches are also explained with concrete examples The concept of governance for growth is presented and the impact of rising China on development studies is contemplated The practices of industrial policy dialogues and actions assisted by East Asian experts are reported from Tunisia Zambia Ethiopia Rwanda and others The book should be applicable to all donors institutions NGOs and business enterprises engaged in development cooperation      Cross-border Partnerships in Higher Education Robin Sakamoto, David W. Chapman, 2012 Cross border Partnerships in Higher Education is a welcome addition to the academic literature on the scope and impact of international partnerships in a very dynamic higher education market Robin Sakamoto and David Chapman should be congratulated for this excellent contribution that can guide higher education institutions all over the world in thinking more strategically and achieving better results as they engage in cross border partnerships Jamil Salmi Tertiary Education Coordinator The World Bank Washington DC
