Smith, 1984 A look at Alberta's economic development and how it has been shaped by the abundant natural resources found within the province Cost-Benefit Analysis and Public Policy David Weimer, 2009-04-22 This volume seeks to facilitate such exposure by drawing together into a convenient collection the fine articles on CBA and its application that have appeared in the Journal of Policy Analysis and Management JPAM Women's Employment in BC: Effects of Government Downsizing and Employment Policy Changes 2001-2004 Sylvia Anne Fuller, 2004 Any errors and the opinions contained in the paper are those of the authors and do not necessarily reflect the views of the CCPA Overall the availability and generosity of social supports and entitlements has eroded as the government weakens or eliminates key public services and increasingly emphasizes the necessity of individual self reliance and participation in a de re regulated labour market as the only legitimate route to economic security In so doing we consider not only policy changes that directly affect employment regulations and the availability of particular kinds of employment for women such as the loss of public sector jobs and changes to the provincial Employment Standards Act but also changes that alter the conditions under which women access employment such as changes in post secondary education and childcare policies Higher levels of education are also associated with both higher levels of employment and a smaller gap in men and women's labour force participation rates as documented in Table 3 Women in BC with fewer than eight years of education have only 57 per cent of the employment level of men with the same education while those with an undergraduate degree are employed at 93 per cent of the level of t As a result the of hospital and long term care beds and funding cuts have eliminated number of low income housekeeping services from the home care services received by the children in the regulated disabled and frail elderly in some areas of the province
