Jamie Carter, 2015-11-20 Sets out a simple month by month program to reveal all of the night sky's biggest and most beautiful secrets in just one year and with only a few hours of stargazing each month. By investing just an hour a week and 50 in binoculars it's possible to learn a few simple techniques and quickly gain a real insight into the night sky's ever changing patterns and what they tell us about Earth, the seasons and ourselves. Searching more for a learned appreciation of nature and our exact place within the cosmos than academic scientific knowledge, science and travel writer Jamie Carter takes the reader on a 12 month tour of the night sky's incredible annual rhythms that say so much about Earth. During the journey he learns about the celestial mechanics at work in the skies above that are to the beginner almost beyond belief. As well as the vital constellations and clusters and the weird and wonderful nebulas he searches out dark sky destinations across the globe that help increase knowledge and give a new perspective on familiar night sky sights. On the journey he witnesses a solar eclipse and grapples with star charts, binoculars, smartphone apps, telescopes, spots satellites and attempts basic astro photography. By year's end the reader will be able to glance at the night sky from anywhere on the planet and tell what direction he or she is facing, what time it is, where all the planets are and even where the Galactic Center Point is. Schnell Astronomy Albert Frederick Schnell, 1909

Reflecting on Practice for STEM Educators Lynn Uyen Tran, Catherine Halversen, 2021-05-30 Reflecting on Practice for STEM Educators is a guidebook to lead a professional learning program for educators working in STEM learning environments. Making research on the science of human learning accessible to educational professionals around the world, this book shows educators how to relate this research to their own practice. Educators' collective work broadens the scope of an organization's reach and through this effort the organization grows its social capital in its local community and beyond. This book offers opportunities to engage in processes that lead toward organizational learning by attending to the professional growth of the educators. Tran and Halversen show how learning together can shape the language and meanings by which educators do and talk about their work to support visitors' experiences. The book provides guidance on how teams of educators can build community as they engage in reflective practice. Reflecting on Practice for STEM Educators will be essential reading for leaders of any organization that aims to educate and engage the public in science, technology, engineering and mathematics. It will be particularly useful to educators who work in museums, zoos, aquariums, botanical gardens, youth organizations, after school programs and nature science and conservation centres.
