Memory and Community in Sixteenth-Century France David P. LaGuardia, Cathy Yandell, 2016-03-03

Memory and Community in Sixteenth Century France engages the question of remembering from a number of different perspectives It examines the formation of communities within diverse cultural religious and geographical contexts especially in relation to the material conditions for producing texts and discourses that were the foundations for collective practices of memory The Wars of Religion in France gave rise to numerous narrative and graphic representations of bodies remembered as icons and signifiers of the religious troubles The multiple sites of these clashes were filled with sound language and diverse kinds of signs mediated by print writing and discourses that recalled past battles and opposed different factions The volume demonstrates that memory and community interacted constantly in sixteenth century France producing conceptual frames that defined the conflicting groups to which individuals belonged and from which they derived their identities The ongoing conflicts of the Wars hence made it necessary for people both to remember certain events and to forget others As such memory was one of the key ideas in a period defined by its continuous reformulations of the present as a forum in which contradictory accounts of the recent past competed with one another for hegemony One of the aims of Memory and Community in Sixteenth Century France is to remedy the lack of scholarship on this important memorial function which was one of the intellectual foundations of the late French Renaissance and its fractured communities never a uniform phenomenon and events in southern France took a rather different course from those in the north This study explores the fate of the Huguenot community in the area of its greatest strength in southern France The book examines the Protestant ascendancy in the Huguenot stronghold of Montauban through the period of the religious wars laying open the impact that the new religion had upon the town and its surrounding locality and the way in which the town related to the wider political and religious concerns of the Protestant south In particular it probes the way in which the town related to the nobility the political assemblies Henry of Navarre and the wider world of international Calvinism reflecting upon the distinctive cultural elements that characterised Calvinism in southern France

John Calvin as Sixteenth-Century Prophet Jon Balserak, 2014-02-06 John Calvin as Sixteenth Century Prophet examines Calvin's sense of vocation Jon Balserak argues that Calvin believed himself to be a prophet placed over nations and kingdoms to tear down and destroy to build and to plant Jer 1 10 With this authority Calvin pursued an expansionist agenda which blended the religious political and social towards making France upon which he turned his attentions especially after 1555 Protestant Beginning with an analysis of the two trajectories of thought existing within Christian discourse on prophecy from the patristic to the Early Modern era this study goes on to locate Calvin within a non mystical non apocalyptic prophetic tradition that focused on scriptural interpretation Balserak demonstrates how Calvin developed a plan to win France for the gospel a plan which included the possibility of armed conflict To pursue his designs

Calvin trained prophets who were sent into France to labor intensely to undermine the king's authority on the grounds that he supported idolatry convince the French Reformed congregations that they were already in a war with him and prepare them for a possible military uprising. An additional part of this plan saw Calvin search for a French noble willing to support the evangelical religion even if it meant initiating a coup. Calvin began ruminating over these ideas in the 1550s or possibly earlier. In this analysis the war which commenced in 1562 represents the culmination of Calvin's years of preparation.

The Historiographical Concept 'System of Philosophy' Leo Catana, 2008-03-31 Jacob Brucker 1696-1770 established the history of philosophy as a philosophical discipline in the 1740s. In order to separate this new discipline from other historical disciplines he introduced the historiographical concept system of philosophy. The historian of philosophy should use this concept as a criterion of inclusion of past philosophies and as an ideal form of exposition. The present book describes the origin of this historiographical notion, its implicit Protestant assumptions, and it traces the concept's impact upon the methods of history of philosophy and history of ideas as developed over the following centuries. Finally it discusses the concept's strengths and weaknesses as a historiographical tool, arguing that it ought to be given up. Between Demonstration and Imagination John David North, Lodi W. Nauta, Arie Johan Vanderjagt, 1999. The essays in this volume reflect the wide-ranging interests of John D. North, distinguished historian of science and philosophy. They take up various themes to which he has made important contributions: the development of scientific knowledge and methodology, the style of scientific and philosophical thought, and the uses of scientific knowledge in the making of instruments or the casting of horoscopes. These essays will be of much interest to all historians of science and philosophy. Conflict and Reconciliation Iñigo Kristien Marcel Bocken, 2004. This book offers historical philosophical and theological studies on the meaning of conflicts in life and thinking of Nicholas of Cusa 1401-1464 and deals with his attempts to develop a model for peace and tolerance. Secret conversions to Judaism in early modern Europe [electronic resource] Martin Mulsow, Richard Henry Popkin, 2004. This volume deals with conversions to Judaism from the 16th to the 18th century. It provides six case studies by leading international scholars on phenomena as crypto Judaism, judaizing, reversion of Jewish Christian converts, and secret conversion of non-Jewish Christians for intellectual reasons. The first contributions examine George Buchanan and John Dury, followed by three studies of the milieu of late seventeenth-century Amsterdam. The last essay is concerned with Lord George Gordon and Cabbalistic Freemasonry. The contributions will be of interest for intellectual historians but also historians of political thought or Jewish studies. Contributors include Elisheva Carlebach, Allison P. Coudert, Martin Mulsow, Richard H. Popkin, Marsha Keith Schuchard, and Arthur Williamson. Inventing the Public Sphere (2 Vols.) Leidulf Melve, 2007-10-30. This book deals with public debate during the Investiture Contest ca. 1040-1122. During this revolutionary struggle between the secular and the religious powers, polemical writers contributed to the arguably first public debate in medieval Europe. A close reading of a selection of these polemics offers new views on the functioning of the medieval public sphere as well as how the public framework circumscribing the writers led to argumentative innovations These include an increasing concern with interpretation and contextualisation resulting in a more critical and probing intellectual community Public debate during the Contest taught intellectuals how to argue in public and in that respect transferred a lasting legacy to the later Middle Ages and beyond
