Casserly, 2021-10-28 In the United States public policies designed to reduce poverty are overwhelmingly influenced by human capital theory since education is viewed as the powerful mechanism by which productivity will increase incomes will be raised and economic opportunity will be provided Although African American women followed the prescription set forth by human capital theory and increased their educational attainment by over 2 years from the late 1960s to the late 1980s their incidence of poverty remained fairly stable First published in 1998 this study examines why educational investments by that population most susceptible to being poor African American females have not reduced poverty as expected The Queue Vladimir Sorokin, 1988 Vladimir Sorokin's first published novel The Queue is a sly comedy about the late Soviet years of stagnation Thousands of citizens are in line for nobody knows quite what but the rumors are flying Leather or suede Jackets jeans Turkish Swedish maybe even American It doesn't matter if anything is on sale you better line up to buy it Sorokin's tour de force of ventriloquism and formal daring tells the whole story in snatches of unattributed dialogue adding up to nothing less than the real voice of the people overheard on the street as they joke and curse fall in and out of love slurp down ice cream or vodka fill out crossword puzzles even go to sleep and line up again in the morning as the queue drags on Amazon.com

Live Trace Visualization for System and Program Comprehension in Large Software Landscapes Florian Fittkau, 2015-12-03 In many enterprises the number of deployed applications is constantly increasing Those applications often several hundreds form large software landscapes The comprehension of such landscapes is frequently impeded due to for instance architectural erosion personnel turnover or changing requirements Furthermore events such as performance anomalies can often only be understood in correlation with the states of the applications Therefore an efficient and effective way to comprehend such software landscapes in combination with the details of each application is required In this thesis we introduce a live trace visualization approach to support system and program comprehension in large software landscapes It features two perspectives a landscape level perspective using UML elements and an application level perspective following the 3D software city metaphor Our main contributions are 1 an approach named ExplorViz for enabling live trace visualization of large software landscapes 2 a monitoring and analysis approach capable of logging and processing the huge amount of conducted method calls in large software landscapes and 3 display and interaction concepts for the software city metaphor beyond classical 2D displays and 2D pointing devices Extensive lab experiments show that our monitoring and analysis approach elastically scales to large software landscapes while imposing only a low overhead on the productive systems Furthermore several controlled experiments demonstrate an increased efficiency and effectiveness for solving comprehension tasks when using our visualization ExplorViz is available as open source software on www.explorviz.net Additionally we provide extensive experimental packages of our evaluations to facilitate the verifiability and reproducibility of our results

Instructed and Instructive Actions Michael Lynch, Oskar Lindwall, 2023-11-30 The contributors to this volume take up the theme of instructed and instructive actions Harold Garfinkel the founder of ethnomethodology initiated the study of instructed actions as a way to elucidate the embodied production of social order in real time Studies of instructions and the actions of following them provide empirical content to the classical theoretical issue of how rules norms and other normative guidelines are conveyed understood and used for producing social actions and structures The studies in this volume address novel technologies of instructed action and non obvious ways in which ordinary actions turn out to be instructive for participants in immediate situations of action and interaction In some cases the studies address specialized practical artistic and recreational activities and in others they address commonplace modes of action and interaction In all cases they focus on how the manifest organization of specific activities is organized with and without explicitly formulated instructions This book will appeal to scholars across the social sciences with interests in ethnomethodological approaches to research by contributing to understandings of how specific actions are instructed and instructive in the circumstances in which they are produced
