Routes Travel And Translation In The Late Twentieth Century:

Routes James Clifford, 1997-04-21 When culture makes itself at home in motion where does an anthropologist stand In a follow up to The Predicament of Culture one of the defining books for anthropology in the last decade James Clifford takes the proper measure a moving picture of a world that doesn't stand still that reveals itself en route in the airport lounge and the parking lot as much as in the marketplace and the museum In this collage of essays meditations poems and travel reports Clifford takes travel and its difficult companion translation as openings into a complex modernity He contemplates a world ever more connected yet not homogeneous a global history proceeding from the fraught legacies of exploration colonization capitalist expansion immigration labor mobility and tourism Ranging from Highland New Guinea to northern California from Vancouver to London he probes current approaches to the interpretation and display of non Western arts and cultures Wherever people and things cross paths and where institutional forces work to discipline unruly encounters Clifford's concern is with struggles to displace stereotypes to recognize divergent histories to sustain postcolonial and tribal identities in contexts of domination and globalization Travel diaspora border crossing self location the making of homes away from home these are transcultural predicaments for the late twentieth century The map that might account for them the history of an entangled modernity emerges here as an unfinished series of paths and negotiations leading in many directions while returning again and again to the struggles and arts of cultural encounter the impossible inescapable tasks of translation

The SAGE Handbook of Tourism Studies Tazim Jamal, Mike Robinson, 2009-07-01 The strongest overview I have encountered of the scope and the current state of research across all the fields involved in advancing our understanding of tourism For its range of topics depth of analyses and distinction of its contributors nothing is comparable Professor Dean MacCannell University of California Davis The breadth of vision and sweep of accounts is remarkable and range of topics laudable a rare combination of the authoritative the challenging and stimulating Professor Mike Crang Durham University Tourism studies developed as a sub branch of older disciplines in the social sciences such as anthropology sociology and economics and newer applied fields of study in hospitality management civil rights and transport studies This Handbook is a sign of the maturity of the field It provides an essential resource for teachers and students to determine the roots key issues and agenda of tourism studies exploring The evolution and position of tourism studies The relationship of tourism to culture The ecology and economics of tourism Special events and destination management Methodologies of study Tourism and transport Tourism and heritage Tourism and postcolonialism Global tourist business operations Ranging from local to global issues and from questions of management to the ethical dilemmas of tourism this is a comprehensive critically informed constructively organized overview of the field It draws together an inter disciplinary group of contributors who are among the most celebrated names in the field and will be quickly recognized as a landmark in the new and expanding field of tourism studies

Postcolonial Imagination and Feminist Theology Pui-lan Kwok, 2005-01-01 The burgeoning field of postcolonial studies argues that most theology has been formed in dominant cultures laden intrinsically with imperializing structures. An essential task facing theology is thus to decolonize the mind and free Christianity from colonizing bias and structures. Here in this truly groundbreaking study, highly respected feminist theologian Kwok Pui-lan offers the first full-length theological treatment of what it means to do postcolonial feminist theology. She explains her methodological basis and explores several specific topics including Christology, pluralism, and creation.

Transfiguring Women in Late Twentieth-Century Japan James Welker, 2024-07-31. Transfiguring Women in Late Twentieth Century Japan: Feminists, Lesbians, and Girls Comics Artists and Fans examines three dynamic and overlapping communities of women and adolescent girls who challenged Japanese gender and sexual norms in the 1970s and 1980s. These spheres encompassed activists in the man ribu women's liberation movement, members of the rezubian lesbian community, and artists and readers of queer shjo manga girls comics. Individually and collectively, they found the normative understanding of the category women untenable and worked to redefine and expand its meaning by transfiguring ideas, images, and practices selectively appropriated from the West. They did so, however, while remaining firmly fixed on the local. Thus, for many, this ostensibly Western focus was not a turn away from Japan but integral to their understanding of being a woman within Japan. Following broad historical overviews of the man ribu, rezubian, and queer shjo manga spheres, the book takes a deeper look through the lenses of terminology, translation, and travel to offer a window onto how acts of transfiguration reshaped what it meant to be a woman in Japan. The work draws on a vast archive that encompasses early twentieth-century dictionaries, sexology texts, and literature, postwar women's and men's magazines, and pornography, translated feminist and lesbian texts, comics, and animation, and newsletters, fanzines, and other heretofore largely unexamined ephemera. The volume's characterization of the era is also greatly enriched by interviews with more than sixty individuals. Transfiguring Women in Late Twentieth Century Japan demonstrates that the transfiguration of Western culture into something locally meaningful had tangible effects beyond newly re-created texts, practices, images, and ideas within the man ribu, rezubian, and queer shjo manga communities. The individuals and groups involved were themselves transformed. More broadly, their efforts forged new understandings of women in Japan, creating space for a greater number of public roles, not bound to being a mother or a wife, as well as a greater diversity of gender and sexual expression that reached far beyond the Japanese border.

Travel Narratives in Translation, 1750-1830 Alison Martin, Susan Pickford, 2013-05-07. This book examines how non-fictional travel accounts were rewritten, reshaped, and reoriented in translation between 1750 and 1850, a period that saw a sudden surge in the genre's popularity. It explores how these translations played a vital role in the transmission and circulation of knowledge about foreign peoples, lands, and customs in the Enlightenment and Romantic periods. The collection makes an important contribution to travel writing studies by looking beyond metaphors of mobility and cultural transfer to focus specifically on what happens to travelogues in translation. Chapters range from discussing essential differences between the original and translated text to relations between authors and translators from intra European narratives of Grand Tour travel to scientific voyages round the world and from established male travellers and translators to their historically less visible female counterparts Drawing on European travel writing in English French German Spanish and Portuguese the book charts how travelogues were selected for translation how they were reworked to acquire new aesthetic political or gendered identities and how they sometimes acquired a radically different character and content to meet the needs and expectations of an emergent international readership The contributors address aesthetic political and gendered aspects of travel writing in translation drawing productively on other disciplines and research areas that encompass aesthetics the history of science literary geography and the history of the book

Walking a Tightrope Ute Lischke, 2005 The most we can hope for is that we are paraphrased correctly In this statement Lenore Keeshig Tobias underscores one of the main issues in the representation of Aboriginal peoples by non Aboriginals Non Aboriginal people often fail to understand the sheer diversity multiplicity and shifting identities of Aboriginal people As a result Aboriginal people are often taken out of their own contexts Walking a Tightrope plays an important role in the dynamic historical process of ongoing change in the representation of Aboriginal peoples It locates and examines the multiplicity and distinctiveness of Aboriginal voices and their representations both as they portray themselves and as others have characterized them In addition to exploring perspectives and approaches to the representation of Aboriginal peoples it also looks at Native notions of time history land cultures identities and literacies Until these are understood by non Aboriginals Aboriginal people will continue to be misrepresented both as individuals and as groups By acknowledging the complex and unique legal and historical status of Aboriginal peoples we can begin to understand the culture of Native peoples in North America Until then given the strength of stereotypes Native people have come to expect no better representation than a paraphrase

Recreating First Contact Joshua A. Bell, Alison K. Brown, Robert J. Gordon, 2013-11-06 Recreating First Contact explores themes related to the proliferation of adventure travel which emerged during the early twentieth century and that were legitimized by their associations with popular views of anthropology During this period new transport and recording technologies particularly the airplane and automobile and small portable still and motion picture cameras were utilized by a variety of expeditions to document the last untouched places of the globe and bring them home to eager audiences These expeditions were frequently presented as first contact encounters and enchanted popular imagination The various narratives encoded in the articles books films exhibitions and lecture tours that these expeditions generated fed into pre existing stereotypes about racial and technological difference and helped to create them anew in popular culture Through an unpacking of expeditions and their popular wakes the essays 12 chapters a preface introduction and afterward trace the complex but obscured relationships between anthropology adventure travel and the cinematic imagination that the 1920s and 1930s engendered and how their myths have endured The book further explores the effects both positive and negative of such expeditions on the discipline of anthropology itself However in doing so this volume examines these impacts from a variety of national perspectives and thus through these different vantage points creates a more nuanced perspective on how expeditions were at once a global phenomenon but also culturally ordered

The Routledge Handbook of Memory Activism Yifat Gutman, Jenny Wüstenberg, 2023-02-15 This Handbook is the first systematic effort to map the fast growing phenomenon of memory activism and to delineate a new field of research that lies at the intersection of memory and social movement studies From Charlottesville to Cape Town from Santiago to Sydney we have recently witnessed protesters demanding that symbols of racist or colonial pasts be dismantled and that we talk about histories that have long been silenced But such events are only the most visible instances of grassroots efforts to influence the meaning of the past in the present Made up of more than 80 chapters that encapsulate the rich diversity of scholarship and practice of memory activism by assembling different disciplinary traditions methodological approaches and empirical evidence from across the globe this Handbook establishes important questions and their theoretical implications arising from the social political and economic reality of memory activism Memory activism is multifaceted takes place in a variety of settings and has diverse outcomes but it is always crucial to understanding the constitution and transformation of our societies past and present This volume will serve as a guide and establish new analytic frameworks for scholars students policymakers journalists and activists alike

What Women Lose María Cristina Rodríguez, 2005 This book examines novels by women from the anglophone francophone and hispanophone Caribbean that focus on marginalized female characters who migrate to metropolitan centers The novels studied require cultural historical sociological anthropological and geographic readings to fully explore the complexity of the characters as they confront the varied and changing challenges hardships and pleasures of the diaspora The critical approach focuses on the characters attempts to hold on to acceptable realities by assuming the appropriate interpersonal social and cultural masks that allow them to find a sense of significance in their interior domestic and community lives

Beyond Dichotomies Elisabeth Mudimbe-Boyi, 2012-02-01 Beyond Dichotomies examines literary texts cultural production and concrete local practices within the context of modernity and globalization by focusing on the ways in which some societies confront the complexity of cultures reflected in new forms of knowledge narratives and subjectivities The contributors explore how particular societies negotiate the relations between the global and the local and use a geographical comparative perspective combined with an interdisciplinary approach to offer a diversity of views and illuminate the cultural impact of globalization on different societies around the world Africa Asia Europe and the Americas These societies face complex questions regarding people's histories identities and cultures that embody the ambivalence contradictions and anxieties generated by the process of globalization The contributors provide a compelling conclusion for a rethinking and reconfiguration of cultures and intercultural relations in today's global world in which dichotomized representations coexist with a discourse of globalization

Twentieth-Century Caribbean Literature Alison Donnell, 2007-05-07 This bold study traces the processes by which a history and canon of Caribbean literature and criticism have been constructed It offers a supplement to that history by presenting new writers texts and critical moments that help to reconfigure the Caribbean tradition Focusing on Anglophone or Anglocreole writings from across the twentieth century Alison Donnell asks what it is that we read when we approach Caribbean Literature how it is that we read it and what critical ideological and historical pressures may have influenced our choices and approaches In particular the book addresses the exclusions that have resulted from the construction of a Caribbean canon rethinks the dominant paradigms of Caribbean literary criticism which have brought issues of anti colonialism and nationalism migration and diaspora double colonised women and the marginalization of sexuality and homosexuality to the foreground seeks to put new issues and writings into critical circulation by exploring lesser known authors and texts including Indian Caribbean women s writings and Caribbean queer writings Identifying alternative critical approaches and critical moments Twentieth Century Caribbean Literature allows us to re examine the way in which we read not only Caribbean writings but also the literary history and criticism that surround them

Travels and Translations Alison Yarrington, Stefano Villani, Julia Kelly, 2013-11-01 This volume explores the fascinating interactions and exchanges between British and Italian cultures from the early modern period to the present It looks at how these exchanges were mediated through personal encounters travel writings and translations involving a variety of protagonists explorers writers poets preachers diplomats and tourists In particular this book examines the understanding of Italy as a destination and set of locations each with their own distinctive geographical character during a period which saw the creation of the modern Italian state It also charts the shifts in travelling activity during this period from early explorers and cartographers via those taking part in the Grand Tour in the 18th and 19th centuries to more modern poet travellers and blogging tourists Drawing upon literary studies history art history cultural studies translation studies sociology and socio linguistics this volume takes a cross disciplinary approach to its rich constellation of cultural transactions

Translocality , 2010-01-25 This volume discusses globalising processes from the perspective of the humanities and social sciences It focuses on the global south notably the Middle East Asia and Africa Densely researched case studies examine a variety of approaches for their potential to understand connecting processes on different scales The studies seek to overcome the main traps of the globalisation paradigm such as its occidental bias its notion of linear expansion its simplifying dichotomy between local and global and an often found lack of historical depth They elaborate the asymmetries mobilities opportunities and barriers involved in globalising processes Their new perspective on these processes is captured by the concept of translocality which aims at integrating a variety of theoretical and methodological approaches from different disciplines
