Purpose in the Universe Tim Mulgan, 2015-10-22 Two familiar worldviews dominate Western philosophy materialist atheism and the benevolent God of the Abrahamic faiths Tim Mulgan explores a third way Ananthropocentric Purposivism claims that there is a cosmic purpose but human beings are irrelevant to it Purpose in the Universe develops a philosophical case for Ananthropocentric Purposivism that it is at least as strong as the case for either theism or atheism The book borrows traditional theist arguments to defend a cosmic purpose These include cosmological teleological ontological meta ethical and mystical arguments It then borrows traditional atheist arguments to reject a human centred purpose These include arguments based on evil diversity and the scale of the universe Mulgan also highlights connections between morality and metaphysics arguing that evaluative premises play a crucial and underappreciated role in metaphysical debates about the existence of God and Ananthropocentric Purposivism mutually supports an austere consequentialist morality based on objective values He concludes that by drawing on a range of secular and religious ethical traditions a non human centred cosmic purpose can ground a distinctive human morality Our moral practices our view of the moral universe and our moral theory are all transformed if we shift from the familiar choice between a universe without meaning and a universe where humans matter to the less self aggrandising thought that while it is about something the universe is not about us
