dilettantism towards an increasingly scholarly and didactic tone in the mid to late Victorian collections Attention is given to some of the performance issues raised either in correspondence or in the paratexts of published collections and the narrative is interlaced with references to contemporary literary social and even political history as it affected the collectors themselves Most significantly this study demonstrates a resurgence of cultural nationalism in the late nineteenth century A Social History of Amateur Music-Making and Scottish National Identity: Scotland's Printed Music, 1880-1951 Karen E.

McAulay,2024-10-30 Late Victorian Scotland had a flourishing music publishing trade evidenced by the survival of a plethora of vocal scores and dance tune books and whether informing us what people actually sang and played at home danced to or enjoyed in choirs or reminding us of the impact of emigration from Britain for both emigrants and their families left behind examining this neglected repertoire provides an insight into Scottish musical culture and is a valuable addition to the broader social history of Scotland The decline of the music trade by the mid twentieth century is attributable to various factors some external but others due to the conservative and perhaps somewhat parochial nature of the publishers output What survives bears witness to the importance of domestic and amateur music making in ordinary lives between 1880 and 1950 Much of the music is now little more than a historical artefact Nonetheless Karen E McAulay shows that the nature of the music the song and fiddle tune books contents the paratext around the collections its packaging marketing and dissemination all document the social history of an era whose everyday music has often been dismissed as not significant or indeed properly old enough to merit consideration The book will be valuable for academics as well as folk musicians and those interested in the social and musical history of Scotland and the British Isles The Songs of Scotland George Farquhar Graham,1848

The Invention of 'Folk Music' and 'Art Music' Matthew Gelbart,2007-10-11 We tend to take for granted the labels we put to different forms of music This study considers the origins and implications of the way in which we categorize music Whereas earlier ways of classifying music were based on its different functions for the past two hundred years we have been obsessed with creativity and musical origins and classify music along these lines Matthew Gelbart argues that folk music and art music became meaningful concepts only in the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries and only in relation to each other He examines how cultural nationalism served as the earliest impetus in classifying music by origins and how the notions of folk music and art music followed in conjunction with changing conceptions of nature and changing ideas about human creativity Through tracing the history of these musical categories the book confronts our assumptions about different kinds of music Scottish Song Mary Carlyle Aitken,1874 Scottish Song Mary Carlyle Aitken Carlyle,1874 101 Scottish Songs: The wee red book (Collins Scottish Archive) Norman Buchan,2016-01-14 A small format gift book which is a reproduction of the popular book 101 Scottish Songs published by Collins in 1962 Popularized as the wee red songbook in Scottish folk circles this publication was in print for 26 years 100 Great Scottish Songs Pat Conway,1959 Focus: Scottish Traditional Music Simon McKerrell,2015-09-16 Focus Scottish Traditional Music engages methods from
