American-Australian Cinema Adrian Danks, Stephen Gaunson, Peter C. Kunze, 2018-01-29 This edited collection assesses the complex historical and contemporary relationships between US and Australian cinema by tapping directly into discussions of national cinema transnationalism and global Hollywood While most equivalent studies aim to define national cinema as independent from or in competition with Hollywood this collection explores a more porous set of relationships through the varied production distribution and exhibition associations between Australia and the US To explore this idea the book investigates the influence that Australia has had on US cinema through the exportation of its stars directors and other production personnel to Hollywood while also charting the sustained influence of US cinema on Australia over the last hundred years It takes two key points in time the 1920s and 1930s and the last twenty years to explore how particular patterns of localism nationalism colonialism transnationalism and globalisation have shaped its course over the last century The contributors re examine the concept and definition of Australian cinema in regard to a range of local international and global practices and trends that blur neat categorisations of national cinema Although this concentration on US production or influence is particularly acute in relation to developments such as the opening of international film studios in Melbourne Sydney Adelaide and the Gold Coast over the last thirty years the book also examines a range of Hollywood financed and or conceived films shot in Australia since the 1920s

Communications Media, Globalization, and Empire Oliver Boyd-Barrett, 2007-02-20 An exploration of the political economy of media and to what extent global communications and popular entertainment continue to serve elite interests In Communications Media

Globalization and Empire an international team of experts analyzes and critiques the political economy of media communications worldwide Their analysis takes particular account of the sometimes conflicting pressures of globalization and neo imperialism The first is commonly defined as the dismantling of barriers to trade and cultural exchange and responds significantly to lobbying of the world s largest corporations including media corporations The second concerns US pursuit of national security interests as response to terrorism at one level and at others to intensifying competition among both nations and corporations for global natural resources Hollywood Meme Iain Robert Smith,2016-10-27

McClennen,2018-05-25 Studying the case of Latin American cinema this book analyzes one of the most public and most exportable forms of postcolonial national culture to argue that millennial era globalization demands entirely new frameworks for thinking about the relationship between politics culture and economic policies Concerns that globalization would bring the downfall of national culture were common in the 1990s as economies across the globe began implementing neoliberal free market policies and abolishing state protections for culture industries Simultaneously new technologies and the increased mobility of people and information caused others to see globalization as an era of heightened connectivity and progressive contact Twenty five years later we are now able to examine the actual impact of globalization on local and regional cultures especially those of postcolonial societies Tracing the full life cycle of films and studying blockbusters like City of God Motorcycle Diaries and Children of Men this book argues that neoliberal globalization has created a highly ambivalent space for cultural expression one willing to market against itself as long as the stories sell The result is an innovative and ground breaking text suited to scholars interested in globalization studies Latin American studies and film studies Museum Movies Haidee Wasson,2005-06-27 Haidee Wasson provides a rich cultural history of cinema s transformation from a passing amusement to an enduring art form by mapping the creation of the Film Library of the Museum of Modern Art MoMA New York established in 1935 The first North American film archive and museum the film library pioneered an expansive moving image network comprising popular abstract animated American Canadian and European films More than a repository MoMA circulated these films nationally and internationally connecting the modern art museum to universities libraries women s clubs unions archives and department stores Under the aegis of the museum cinema also changed Like books paintings and photographs films became discrete objects integral to thinking about art history and the politics of modern life Projecting Desire Tupur Chatterjee,2025-01-07 How middle class women transformed India s screen and exhibition industries Since the late 90s multiplexes in India have almost always been located inside malls rendering it impossible to inhabit one space without also inhabiting the other Their prevalence coincides with a shift in the spectatorial imagination of India's mass audience spaces that for several preceding decades had been designed for the subaltern male but are now built for the consuming globalized middle class woman. By catering to the mutable desires and anxieties of a rapidly expanding and heterogeneous middle class, the mall multiplex has radically altered the politics of theatrical space and moviegoing. Projecting Desire tells the story of this moment of historic transition as it played out across media industries, architecture and design, popular cinema and public culture. Tupur Chatterjee highlights how the multiplex established a new link between media and architecture in the subcontinent, not only rewriting the relation between gender and urban space but also changing the shapes of Indian cities. Projecting Desire locates the post-globalization transformation of India's screen and exhibition industries in a longer arc of ideas about urban planning and architecture long mired in caste and class-based gendered anxieties. It argues that the architectural mediations of India's moviegoing cultures are key to imagining planning and policing the contemporary media city. Chatterjee integrates industrial and organizational ethnography in depth interviews, participant observation, discourse and textual analysis, and archival work with spatial and urban histories. Focusing on these new meccas of leisure and entertainment, Projecting Desire tracks the understudied nexus between new media architectures, cultures of public leisure and popular cinema in the Global South.

The Age of Netflix
 Cory Barker, Myc Wiatrowski, 2017-09-19. In 2016, Netflix, with an already enormous footprint in the United States, expanded its online streaming video service to 130 new countries, adding more than 12 million subscribers in nine months and bringing its total to 87 million. The effectiveness of Netflix's content management lies in its ability to appeal to a vastly disparate global viewership without a unified cache of content. Instead, the company invests in buying or developing myriad programming and uses sophisticated algorithms to narrowcast to micro-targeted audience groups. In this collection of new essays, contributors explore how Netflix has become a cultural institution and transformed the way we consume popular media.

Transcultural Images in Hollywood Cinema
 Ugur Baloglu, Yildiz Derya Birincioglu, 2021-06-29. Transcultural Images in Hollywood Cinema discusses how cinema, particularly Hollywood, impacts the cultural identities we construct for ourselves in order to make sense of who we are in the world. The politics of representation in cinema influence the boundaries of ethnic and racial characteristics and invent cultural and symbolic meanings that create a conventional image throughout the world. The transnational perspective dissolves fragments and decentralizes this image, leaving the nationalist understanding of identity to a hybrid form. Cultures and identities that are expanded across borders form a mosaic by combining their local characteristics with those of the host cultures. This book examines the transnational and transcultural characteristics of Hollywood cinema. The narrative, cinematographic and aesthetic structures of Hollywood cinema are turned upside down as chapters analyze gender, social, cultural and economic, political contexts. Scholars of international communication, film and social sciences will find this book particularly interesting.

Childhood and Nation in Contemporary World Cinema Stephanie Hemelryk Donald, Emma Wilson, Sarah Wright, 2017-02-09 The child has existed in cinema since the Lumi re Brothers filmed their babies having messy meals in Lyons but it is only quite recently that scholars have paid serious attention to her his presence on screen Scholarly discussion is now of the highest quality and of interest to anyone concerned not only with the extent to which adult cultural conversations invoke the figure of the child but also to those interested in exploring how film cultures can shift questions of agency and experience in relation to subjectivity Childhood and Nation in World Cinema recognizes that the range of films and scholarship is now sufficiently extensive to invoke the world cinema mantra of pluri vocal and pluri central attention and interpretation At the same time the importance of the child in figuring ideas of nationhood is an undiminished tic in adult cultural and social consciousness Either the child on film provokes claims on the nation or the nation claims the child Given the waning star of national film studies and the widely held and serious concerns over the status of the nation as a meaningful cultural unit the point here is not to assume some extraordinary pre social geopolitical empathy of child and political entity Rather the present collection observes how and why and whether the cinematic child is indeed aligned to concepts of modern nationhood to concerns of the State and to geo political organizational themes and precepts

The Evolution of Hollywood's Calculated Blockbuster Films Alexander Ross, 2023-04-24 In this book Alexander Ross highlights how creative entrepreneurs saved the Hollywood studios in the 1970s by establishing the calculated blockbuster consisting of key replicable markers of success as Hollywood's preeminent business model Ross demonstrates how visionary individuals such as Coppola Spielberg Lucas and Zemeckis helped create the modern calculated blockbuster business model BBM However with the rise of streaming giants and the studios struggling to compete many consumers of entertainment now elect to partake from the comfort of their homes making the difference between cinema and television anachronistic Revisiting the history of those 1970s blockbusters and their ongoing impact on contemporary filmmaking Ross offers distinct analysis on whether the calculated blockbuster can continue to lead or if the streamers will continue to generate their own content and eventually fully control the dissemination process For scholars and students in film pop culture and business along with aspiring filmmakers screenwriters producers and executives the book will be a valued resource Popular Cinemas in East Central Europe
