Poland Complying With Eu Environmental Legislation:

Poland Gordon Hughes, Julia Bucknall, 1999 The prospect of joining the European Union defines much of Poland's current policy agenda The political and economic consensus in favor of joining the EU as quickly as possible is very strong and indeed most of the adjustments required are likely to be in Poland's immediate interest However the changes required to comply with EU directives in the environment sector involve sustained high levels of investment and significant uncertainty about the timing and nature of the associated benefits The European Commission's Opinion on Poland's application for EU membership acknowledges the severity of the environmental problems in Poland and comments on the challenges the country will have to face especially in the areas of wastewater treatment and air pollution The Opinion concludes that while full transposition of the environmental acquis in Poland could be expected in the medium term effective compliance with a number of pieces of legislation would require sustained high levels of investment and considerable administrative effort Full compliance in areas such as drinking water and certain aspects of waste management could be achieved only in the long term and will necessitate increased levels of public and private investment This paper aims to address some of the issues involved in planning compliance with EU environmental directives The paper has three principal objectives Highlight major issues that Poland is likely to face in implementing the requirements Estimate the total costs of compliance for the public sector in certain key sectors and outline possible options for reducing those costs and Assess where the burden of those costs is likely to fall and the options for financing the investments

Transnational Politics of the Environment Liliana B. Andonova,2003-11-21 A study of the effect of EU membership on Central and Eastern European environmental policy and the interplay of political incentives and industry behavior that determines policy In Transnational Politics of the Environment Liliana Andonova examines the effect of the European Union EU on the environmental policies of Bulgaria the Czech Republic and Poland Compliance with EU environmental regulations is especially onerous for Central and Eastern European countries because of the costs involved and the legacy of pollution from communist era industries But Andonova argues that EU integration has a positive impact on environmental policies in these countries by exerting a strong influence on the environmental interests of regulated industries With her empirical study of chemical safety and air pollution policies from 1990 to 2000 she shows that export competitive industries such as the chemical industry that would benefit from economic integration have an incentive to adopt EU norms By contrast industries such as electric utilities that primarily serve the domestic market remain opposed to EU environmental standards and must be prodded by their own governments to implement environmental protection measures. These differences in domestic interests greatly influence the course of reforms and the adoption of EU standards.

Transnational Politics of the Environment challenges the current focus on intergovernmental cooperation between East and West by highlighting the roles of industries, transnational norms and domestic institutions in promoting change in environmental regulation. It offers a generalizable framework for understanding the politics of environmental regulation in emerging market economies and helps bridge the divide between the study of domestic and international environmental politics.

OECD Economic Surveys: Poland 2008 OECD, 2008-06-10 Poland has been catching up with the rest of the OECD more quickly in the past two years but the short term outlook is clouded by strong excess demand pressures and rising inflation. This 2008 edition of OECD's periodic survey of the Polish economy.

Deregulation and Its Discontents M. Ramesh, Michael Howlett, 2006-01-01 an extremely interesting collection full of insights and institutional detail. The book definitely deserves the attention of those interested in one of the most debated issues of the last 20 years in economics and political science. Herb Thompson Journal of Contemporary Asia. Deregulation and its Discontents examines the different ways in which the issues related to deregulation and reregulation have been addressed in Asia. The role of government in business has gone through distinct if overlapping cycles: regulation, deregulation and reregulation. However little is known about deregulation and even less about reregulation particularly in relation to Asia. The contributors to this book examine the links between the cycles through detailed analyses of the electricity market, pensions and stock markets in the Asia Pacific. They also offer an explanation of regulatory cycles. This unique and interdisciplinary book is thoroughly accessible and will be suitable for specialist as well as non specialist readers. It will appeal to academics and researchers of public sector economics, Asian studies and the political economy of Asia in particular as well as public officials dealing with regulatory issues.

The Europeanization of Central and Eastern Europe Frank Schimmelfennig, Ulrich Sedelmeier, 2005 This book demonstrates the importance of the credibility and the costs of accession conditionality for the adoption of EU rules in Central and Eastern Europe.

Telecommunications Legislation in Transitional and Developing Economies Tim Schwarz, David Satola, 2000 This paper examines the design of telecommunications legislation in countries with transitional and developing economies. TDCs engaged in liberalising and privatising their telecommunications sectors. It attempts to synthesise good practice and is intended to be used as a tool for legislative drafting. The main purpose of the paper is to highlight some of the issues which policy makers and legislators in TDCs may wish to bear in mind. The paper has three components. The first section outlines the scope and underlying principles of telecommunications legislation, the second section outlines the regulatory imperatives of telecommunications legislation and the third part the annex contains framework telecommunications legislation.

regulatory power to steer towards environmentally friendly behaviour delving into the deep concerns related to the compliance with and enforcement of EU environmental law It also highlights the important role of civil society s use of environmental procedural rights and characterizes how the CJEU case law has contributed to the effective implementation of EU environmental legislation Capacity Building in National Environmental Policy Helmut Weidner, Martin

Jänicke, 2013-03-09 This book is the second collection of systematic case studies describing national environmental policies in 17 countries in terms of capacity building see Appen dix The OECD defines environmental capacity building as a society s ability to identify and solve environmental problems While various institutions including UNEP FAO World Bank and OECD have hitherto used the terms environmental capacity and capacity building almost exclusively with reference to developing countries we have extended the concepts to industrialized countries as well The first collection edited by Martin Janicke Helge Joergens both Free University Berlin and Helmut Weidner Social Science Research Center Berlin was published in 1997 under the title National Environmental Policies A Comparative Study of Capacity Building Berlin etc Springer Verlag It included 13 studies of countries As in the first volume chapter I presents the conceptual framework underlying the national case studies It is a slightly shorter version of the corresponding chapter in volume I The design of all case studies in the two volumes is largely congruent with this conceptual framework Although the various sections of the studies do not always have identical titles and subtitles the central elements of the capacity building approach have been applied in all cases

The State of the European Union Maria Green Cowles, Michael Smith, 2000-12-21 With the introduction of a single currency in 1999 and the negotiations for the fifth enlargement in 2000 the European Union is at a major crossroads in its history While the adoption of EMU and the entrance of new member states hold the promise of creating an ever close union they must take place in a rather turbulent environment Exogenous shocks such as the Asian financial crisis the Russian upheaval and new Balkan problems threaten to derail advances in monetary affairs and common foreign and security policy Endogenous resistance to further European policy reform in areas such as the budget CAP and structural funds has strengthened as suggested by the meagre advances in the Amsterdam Treaty Indeed domestic developments including changes in the political composition of leading governments and growing unemployment pose further challenges to EU reforms. With contributions from leading scholars, the book examines the European Union in a theoretically informed, empirically grounded manner. The book begins by exploring the evolving nature of the European polity and its capacity for change. The second section on monetary union examines the conditions under which EMU will challenge integration, the viability of the European Central Bank, as well as the ability of European citizens to adjust to the single currency. The third section investigates why member states agreed to the Eastern enlargement and what internal and external challenges face the Union as a result. The fourth section highlights the institutional upheavals underway in the major European institutions, as well as Europeans' support of and identification with the European polity. The final section of the book highlights the extent to which the European Union is able to govern in key policy areas: trade, environment, common foreign and security policy, and development, given the state of the European Union today. This is the fifth volume in the biannual series State of the European Union, produced under the auspices of the American European Community Studies Association (ECSA).

Civil Society in Southeast Europe, 2021-11-08. Since the fall of communism in 1989, Southeast Europe has been a site of far-reaching societal transformation, much of it marked by political crisis, economic upheaval, ethnic tension, and bitter war. The book comprises articles investigating the history and development of civil society in post-communist Southeast Europe. How is civil society to be grasped? What are the historical factors shaping the civil societies of the region? What is the function of civil society in the transition to democracy and a market economy? and what are the prospects for the future development of the civil societies of the region in an age of globalization? These are just a few of the major questions addressed in this collection of articles. Many of the authors are social scientists, philosophers, and activists from the region, offering first-hand critical analysis of the state of civil society in Southeast Europe and suggesting theoretical and practical strategies for the future course of its development. The aim is to provide the reader with insight into the complex challenges that face the civil societies of the region.
