Policing In Europe:

Policing in Europe Antoinette Verhage, 2010 The Journal of Police Studies is a quarterly which is oriented towards high standard quality contributions on policing issues and phenomena that are of interest to the police Topics are approached from a specialist and if required multidisciplinary point of view The volume looks to answer questions regarding the developments of police and police cooperation in Europe at the supranational level as well as explore the reactions of police organizations in individual European countries to the process of transnationalisation in terms of the design of and philosophy within police organizations Policing in Europe Bill Tupman, Alison Tupman, 1999 Based on their trans European interviews and teaching of police officers 1988-94 the Tupmans compare diverse models of policing with actual practices and discuss facilitating reforms and cross border cooperation No index Distributed in the US by ISBS Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR Community Policing - A European Perspective P. Saskia Bayerl, Ruža Karlović, Babak Akhgar, Garik Markarian, 2017-05-24 This book provides a view into the multi dimensional and multi contextual nature of community policing It brings together important conceptual discussions as well as numerous case studies and real life examples of European community policing practices It further offers insights into how the primarily locally focused concept of community policing fits into an increasingly interconnected world Our book is intended for professionals working in community policing academics and policymakers developing community policing procedures In addition the book aims to provide information for readers who are new to the subject of community policing The wide range of examples and case studies make it also an excellent resource for teaching materials Policing Europe Bill Heberton, Terry Thomas, 1995-03-20 Developments in European police co operation have become sharply focused in the last few years Policing Europe critically examines the historical development of forms of co operation and their traditional justifications terrorism illegal immigration drug trafficking and other cross border crime It is argued that a full understanding of the new policing of Europe needs to take account of the linking of such justifications with the more diffuse debate around removal of border controls and free movement of people The book suggests that a new European policework is emerging and examines the implications of this phenomenon Policing European Metropolises Elke Devroe, Adam Edwards, Paul Ponsaers, 2017-02-03 Understanding the politics of security in city regions is increasingly important for the study of contemporary policing This book argues that national and international governing arrangements are being outflanked by various transnational threats including the cross border terrorism of the attacks on Paris in 2015 and Brussels in 2016 trafficking in people narcotics and armaments cybercrime the deregulation of global financial services and environmental crime Metropolises are the focal points of the transnational networks through which policing problems are exported and imported across national borders as they provide much of the demand for illicit markets and are the principal engines generating other policing challenges including political protest and civil unrest This edited collection examines whether and how governing arrangements rooted in older systems of national sovereignty are adapting to these transnational challenges and considers problems of and for policing in city regions in the European Union and its single market Bringing together experts from across the continent Policing European Metropolises develops a sociology of urban policing in Europe and a unique methodology for comparing the experiences of different metropolises in the same country This book will be of value to police researchers in Europe and abroad as well as postgraduate students with an interest in policing and urban policy

Leading Policing in Europe Bryn Caless, Steve Tong, 2016-06-01 Little is known about those at the command end of policing in Europe Over the last two years Bryn Caless and Steve Tong have had unique access to those at the top of Europe's police forces obtaining detailed comments from more than a hundred strategic police leaders in 22 countries and presenting for the first time information about how they are selected for high office how they are held to account and what their views are on current and future challenges in policing Building on research conducted in the UK this is a timely and unparalleled insight into a little known elite in the law enforcement world

Policing Global Regions Saskia Hufnagel, 2021-01-26 This book provides a stocktake and comparative socio legal analysis of law enforcement cooperation strategies in four different regions of the world the European Union EU North America Greater China and Australasia The work analyses law enforcement cooperation mechanisms within the socio legal framework of global normmaking The strategies addressed range from legal frameworks facilitating cooperation to formal and informal police networks and cooperation practices The study also takes into account crime specific engagement for example campaigns focusing on drug crimes terrorism financial crime kidnappings and other offences It explores challenges in policing practice and human rights protection in each region that could be countered by existing strategies in another As regions usually develop more advanced cooperation mechanisms than exist at a global scale strategies found in the former could help find solutions for the latter To map existing strategies and assess their impact on both human rights and policing practice this study relies on an assessment of the primary and secondary literature sources in each region as well as interviews with practitioners ranging from senior police officers to prosecutors government officials customs and military staff This book presents a valuable resource for academics and postgraduate students as well as policing and criminal justice practitioners government officials and policy makers

Policing Cooperation Across Borders Saskia Hufnagel, 2016-04-22 This book provides new insights into police cooperation from a comparative socio legal perspective It presents a broad analysis of comparable police cooperation strategies in two systems the EU and Australia The evolution of regulatory trends and cooperation models is analysed for both systems and possible transferable strategies identified Drawing on interviews with practitioners in the EU and Australia this book highlights a number of areas where the EU can be compared to a federal system and addresses the advantages and disadvantages of being a Union or a federation of states with a view to police cooperation practice Particular topics addressed are the evolution of legal frameworks regulating police cooperation informal cooperation strategies Joint

Investigation Teams Europol and regional cooperation These instruments foster police cooperation but could be improved with a view to cooperation practice by learning from regulatory techniques and practitioner experiences of the respective other system

Policing European Metropolises Elke Devroe, Adam Edwards, Paul Ponsaers, 2017-02-03 Understanding the politics of security in city regions is increasingly important for the study of contemporary policing This book argues that national and international governing arrangements are being outflanked by various transnational threats including the cross border terrorism of the attacks on Paris in 2015 and Brussels in 2016 trafficking in people narcotics and armaments cybercrime the deregulation of global financial services and environmental crime Metropolises are the focal points of the transnational networks through which policing problems are exported and imported across national borders as they provide much of the demand for illicit markets and are the principal engines generating other policing challenges including political protest and civil unrest This edited collection examines whether and how governing arrangements rooted in older systems of national sovereignty are adapting to these transnational challenges and considers problems of and for policing in city regions in the European Union and its single market Bringing together experts from across the continent Policing European Metropolises develops a sociology of urban policing in Europe and a unique methodology for comparing the experiences of different metropolises in the same country This book will be of value to police researchers in Europe and abroad as well as postgraduate students with an interest in policing and urban policy

Comparative Policing from a Legal Perspective Monica den Boer, Public police forces are a regular phenomenon in most jurisdictions around the world yet their highly divergent legal context draws surprisingly little attention Bringing together a wide range of police experts from all around the world this book provides an overview of traditional and emerging fields of public policing New material and findings are presented with an international comparative perspective it is a must read for students of policing security and law and professionals in related fields

The Politics of EU Police Cooperation John D. Occhipinti, 2003 Will the European Union soon have a policing agency similar to the US Federal Bureau of Investigation John Occhipinti traces the evolution of the European Police Office Europol bringing to life themes key to the study of European integration such as the tension between supranationalism and intergovernmentalism concerns over the democratic deficit in the EU and the impact of enlargement

Handbook on Policing in Central and Eastern Europe Gorazd Meško, Charles B. Fields, Branko Lobnikar, Andrej Sotlar, 2013-04-16 Policing in Central and Eastern Europe has changed greatly since the fall of the Berlin Wall Some Central and Eastern European countries are constituent members of the European Union while others have been trying to harmonize with the EU and international requirements for a more democratic policing and developments in accordance with Western European and international policing standards especially in regard to issues of legality and legitimacy Changes in the police training system basic and advanced internationalization of policing due to transnationalization of crime and deviance new police organizational structures and agencies have impacted new cultures of policing from exclusively state to plural policing

This timely volume examines developments in the last two decades to learn the nature of these changes within Central and Eastern Europe and their impact on police culture as well as on society as a whole. The development of police research has varied widely throughout Central and Eastern Europe; in some countries it has developed significantly while in others it is still in its infancy. This work will allow for a transfer of ideas and models of police organization and policing, is also needed to be studied closely with an aim to provide consistent and comparable data across all of the countries discussed. For the twenty countries covered, this systematic work provides short country-based information on police organization and social control, crime and disorder trends in the last 20 years, with an on policing, police training and police educational systems, changes in policing in the last 20 years, police and the media, present trends in policing, public and private, multilateral, plural, policing, policing urban and rural communities, recent research trends in research on policing, specificities of research on police and policing, researchers and the police, inclusion of police researchers in policy making and police practice and future developments in policing.

The Development of Transnational Policing John McDaniel, Karlie Stonard, David Cox, 2019-10-10. This book draws together the insights of eminent academics and specialists to present an overview of past and present approaches to transnational policing throughout the Anglophone world. It aims to revitalize the study of transnational policing by showing that past and present developments in this field remain poorly understood while also suggesting future avenues of research. Containing chapters on police history, police accountability, gendered hate crime in an increasingly online world, counter radicalisation strategies being pursued around the world, internet facilitated sex trafficking and changes in organised crime, amongst others, the authors adopt revisionist, orthodox and progressive views in order to challenge our understanding and appreciation of developments in transnational policing. All of the chapters in the book use policing models employed within the UK as either their focal point or as a point of comparison so that direct comparisons and contrasts can be examined. The Development of Transnational Policing illustrates distinctive and separate aspects of what remains an undoubtedly complex and dynamic field but also forms an overview of developments and the dearth of academic research which surround them in order hopefully to inspire researchers, policymakers and practitioners alike.

Policing Europe Bill Hebbenton, Terry Thomas, 1995-03-20. Critically examines the historical development of forms of co-operation and their traditional justifications such as terrorism, illegal immigration and drug trafficking. The book suggests that a new European policework is emerging and examines the implications of this phenomenon.

European Police Forces and Law Enforcement in the First World War Jonas Campion, Laurent López, Guillaume Payen, 2019-11-08. This book offers a global history of civilian, military and gendarmerie style policing around the First World War. Whilst many aspects of the Great War have been revisited in light of the centenary and in spite of the recent growth of modern policing history, the role and fate of police forces in the conflict has been largely forgotten. Yet the war affected all European and extra-European police forces. Despite their diversity, all were confronted with transnational factors and forms of disorder and suffered generally from mass conscripted During the conflict societies and states were faced with a crisis situation of unprecedented magnitude with mass mechanised killing on the battle field and starvation occupation destruction and in some cases even revolution on the home front Based on a wide geographical and chronological scope from the late nineteenth century to the interwar years this collection of essays explores the policing of European belligerent countries alongside their empires and neutral countries The book s approach crosses traditional boundaries between neutral and belligerent nations centres and peripheries and frontline and rear areas It focuses on the involvement and wartime transformations of these law enforcement forces thus highlighting underlying changes in police organisation identity and practices across this period Transnational European Union

Wolfram Kaiser, Peter Starie, 2005-11-16 At the beginning of the twenty first century the European Union is an increasingly dense transnational social and political space More and more non governmental organisations develop transnational links which are usually more intensive within the EU even if they often extend beyond its borders to the wider world This multi disciplinary volume explores the importance of these structures actors and relations for EU and European governance in the context of the theoretical debate about European integration in the social sciences This book delivers theoretical chapters examining and discussing the main conceptual perspectives to studying the transnational EU to provide a current overview empirical case studies of transnationalism in practice on transnational party trade union and police cooperation to transnational education policy making and transnational consensus building in EMU governance This volume will be of great interest to students in social sciences contemporary history and law European Police Systems Raymond Blaine

Fosdick, 1915 Policing the Future A.B. Hoogenboom, D.C.M. Schoneveld, J.W.M. Stoop, M.J. Meiboom, 2023-09-14 International policing is a neglected area of interest As the world gets smaller due to political economic social and technological developments an evident need arises to understand the implications of inter national policing On both national and international levels policing is undergoing drastic changes as it continuously adapts itself to changes in society and new forms of crime This collection of papers addresses two central themes community policing and organisational crime and brings together insights and experiences on crime law enforcement and cooperation from both the academic and the professional policing world Moreover the various contributions derive from different countries both the East and the West and different institutions such as the Council of Europe and the United Nations Policing Europe Ben Hall, Ashish

Bhatt, 1999 Co operation on justice and home affairs immigration asylum and the fight against crime is one of the European Union s new priorities The EU s role is controversial for it touches on the essence of national sovereignty This book argues that growing migratory pressures outside the Union plus passport free travel Britain and Ireland excepted within it are pushing the EU to develop a common approach to asylum and immigration Meanwhile a surge of organised crime is spurring EU governments to beef up Europol and to contemplate radical steps such as recognising and enforcing each other s court decisions Trust in International Police and Justice Cooperation Saskia Hufnagel, Carole McCartney, 2017-01-26 The use of extra territorial intelligence is growing among security border and public agencies Internationally rapidly evolving efforts to tackle transnational crime entail the exchange of intelligence across jurisdictions and state borders as well as the linking of law enforcement operations This book provides a number of different perspectives from across Europe Australasia and Canada to examine recent cooperation experiences and the challenges faced in practice The book brings together scholars from a range of legal and criminological fields to examine the legal imperatives and social parameters that shape international police and justice cooperation and highlights the importance of both trust and clear legal rules to ensure effective cooperation It focuses on areas where cooperation is now mandated but where significant issues are raised including the international and regional methods of information and intelligence exchange and challenges to human rights protection the coordination of international and regional exchange of evidence such as forensic bioinformation police cooperation in international investigations and the added value of formalising investigative strategies across jurisdictions regionally and internationally and the operation accountability and legitimacy of organisations and institutions of cooperation in law enforcement and specific international policing missions
