Policing The Police Vol 2:

States and Collective Action Pierre Birnbaum, 1988 An analysis of the influence of each type of state upon the development of various collective action and mobilization processes The author aims to establish the crucial importance of the state as a quasi independent variable Unhappy Dialogue James Whitfield, 2013-01-10 This book is concerned with the origins of the often difficult relationship between the Metropolitan Police and London's West Indian community and is the first detailed account of the relationship between them during the crucial early decades of large scale immigration It shows how and why the early seeds of mistrust between police and black immigrants were sown culminating in the subsequent riots and public enquiries in particular the Scarman and MacPherson enquiries Drawing upon a wide range of interviews as well as detailed archival research this book also sheds new light on the relationship between the Home Secretary and the Metropolitan Police Commissioner in the post war period the cultures and subcultures within the Met and the different priorities to be found within its rank structure the nature of cultural and ethnic prejudice in the Met at the time its self imposed alienation from the community it served and the Met's lack of commitment at the highest level to community and race relations training All these issues are examined in the broader context of British society in the 1950s and 1960s providing a prism through which to explore the broader context of race relations in Britain in the post war period

Procedural Justice and Relational Theory Denise Meyerson, Catriona Mackenzie, Therese MacDermott, 2020-10-29 This book bridges a scholarly divide between empirical and normative theorizing about procedural justice in the context of relations of power between citizens and the state Empirical research establishes that people's understanding of procedural justice is shaped by relational factors A central premise of this volume is that this research is significant but needs to be complemented by normative theorizing that draws on relational theories of ethics and justice to explain the moral significance of procedures and make normative sense of people's concerns about relational factors The chapters in Part 1 provide comprehensive reviews of empirical studies of procedural justice in policing courts and prisons Part 2 explores empirical and normative perspectives on procedural justice and legitimacy Part 3 examines philosophical approaches to procedural justice Part 4 considers the implications of a relational perspective for the design of procedures in a range of legal contexts This collection will be of interest to a wide academic readership in philosophy law psychology and criminology

Engaging with Ethics in International Criminological Research Michael Adorjan, Rose Ricciardelli, 2016-06-10 Despite a voluminous literature detailing the procedures of research ethics boards and institutional ethical review processes there are few texts that explore the realpolitik of conducting criminal research in practice This book explores the unique lived experiences of scholars engaging with ethics during their criminological research and focuses on the ethical dilemmas that researchers encounter both in the field and while writing up results for publication Who benefits from criminological research What are the roles and impacts of ethics review boards How do methodological and theoretical decisions factor in to questions of ethical conduct and research ethics governance This book is divided into four parts Part I Institutional arrangements and positionality explores the ongoing and expanding process of ethics protocol and procedures principles of confidentiality and the positionality of the researcher Part II Trust and research with vulnerable populations examines the complexity of work involving prisoners indigenous peoples and victims of extreme violence power dynamics between researchers and participants and the challenges of informed consent Part III Research on and with police reflects on the importance of transparent relations with police best practices and the consequences of undertaking research in authoritarian contexts Part IV Emerging areas scrutinizes the ethics of carceral tours and suggests possible alternatives and offers one of the first sociological and criminological examinations of dark net cryptomarkets Drawing upon the experiences of international experts this book aims to provoke further reflection on and discussion of ethics in practice This book is ideal for students undertaking courses on research methods in criminology as well as a key resource for criminology researchers around the world

EMPIRE STRIKES BACK Centre for Contemporary Cultural Studies, 2004-08-02 First Published in 1982 The Empire Strikes Back examines the place of race and racism in the political transformation of Britain at the end of the seventies and argues that Britain has entered a longterm political and economic crisis which has brought new urgency to the politics of race and nation The authors explore the elements of a new culturally focused racism which in representations of black families stresses their alienness and the supposed criminal inclinations of the black population They argue that the British state is very far from its popular image as a liberal democracy and that all our notions of culture nation and class are based on deeply racist structures Key areas of state intervention such as schooling policing and policy oriented race relations research are analysed to demonstrate that a definition of the growing crisis in the economy and social services is emerging which shifts the focus of blame on to black people The authors argue that existing race relations theory has significantly failed to deal adequately with the British situation In particular the experience of black women and the political organization of young black people raises major problems for race blind feminism and Eurocentric Marxism alike In conclusion the book assesses the political relation of race to class and suggests that any long term struggle against racism must begin by recognizing the autonomy of black struggles at all levels of British society

Watching Police, Watching Communities Mike McConville, Dan Shepherd, 2005-08-18 From the early 80s community policing has been held up as a new commitment to the ideals of service and the rejection of coercive policing styles The idea was to encourage a partnership between the public and police in which community needs would be met by officers on local beats Today Government ministers and senior police officers depict Neighbourhood Watch the centrepiece of the scheme as a great success However Watching Police Watching Communities reveals that most schemes are dormant or dead The authors trace the causes of scheme failure to the lack of commitment to community policing by police forces Most importantly they find a police rank and file culture which celebrates aggression machismo and the assertion of authority especially against areas occupied by ethnic minorities and other disadvantaged groups
