entrepreneurs engage in collaborative action to promote broad societal changes They distinguish themselves from other political actors through their willingness to promote policy innovations that are new within specific contexts Policy Entrepreneurship An Asian Perspective showcases an exciting collection of new research studies Previous studies of policy entrepreneurship within specific contexts across this vast region have confirmed the explanatory power of the concept even though the political systems under investigation are distinct from the political system in the United States where the notion of policy entrepreneurship was coined This book is the first ever comprehensive compilation of research on policy entrepreneurship in Asia and focused on policy change in China India Indonesia Singapore and Thailand All the studies gathered here assess the agency of policy entrepreneurs within broader structures that present them with both opportunities and constraints In their different ways each chapter explores how structural changes specific strategies used by policy entrepreneurs and the practice of boundary spanning shape policy agendas The scholarship on display offers an inspiring treasure trove of ideas insights concepts and research strategies This book will prompt newer scholarship on policy entrepreneurs and the crucial role they play in contemporary politics in Asia and globally The chapters in this book were originally published in the Journal of Asian Public Policy The Politics of School Choice Hubert Morken, Jo Renee

Formicola, 1999 The Politics of School Choice is the first comprehensive examination of diverse efforts to promote tax credits public vouchers private scholarships and charter schools Morken and Formicola provide the most current national report on the burgeoning American school choice movement They analyze the strategies and tactics being used by a wide variety of individuals and organizations to leverage change pass laws win court cases and mobilize community support to build successful winning school choice coalitions Based largely on extensive interviews documentary research and surveys this book covers the spectrum of school choice options and shows how they are being promoted in the United States today It explains who the players are what types of programs they endorse and the various rationales behind them The authors report the views of the entrepreneurs religious leaders heads of think tanks and foundations public litigators scholars activists minority leaders and politicians who are in the forefront of providing parents with resources for educational alternatives Finally Morken and Formicola cover the strengths and weaknesses of the school choice issue concluding that the movement has a wide ranging membership that is uneven in its implementation and that it is taking different forms in various regions of the country As the pace of change accelerates and new school choice programs proliferate this study is a critical resource for all those concerned about the present and future status of American education

Policy Entrepreneurs in Water Governance Stijn Brouwer, 2015-05-19 This book analyses policy making processes at the micro level and offers a unique insight into the fascinating world of policy entrepreneurs elucidating their strategic modus operandi The author identifies change strategies and explores the role of individuals in policy change processes Readers will see how these highly talented and exceptional bureaucrats are constantly on the alert for new opportunities and have the capacity to sell and market new ideas Based on a uniquely comprehensive four year study entailing more than 60 in depth interviews and an extensive survey of over 300 water policy entrepreneurs in the Netherlands this book explores the different strategies that policy entrepreneurs employ It identifies which conditions affect the policy entrepreneur's selection of strategies and more importantly it assesses the contextual effectiveness of these strategies Although the context of the study makes this work directly relevant to those in the fields of water resources and environmental management it delivers universally relevant conclusions on affecting policy change In addition to the theoretical material that will appeal to scholars and students this book highlights a series of concrete recommendations for practitioners on how to affect policy change making it of interest to academics and decision makers in the broad areas of policy change sustainability and water management

The Oxford Handbook of Global Policy and Transnational Administration Diane Stone, Kim Moloney, 2019-01-10 Global policy making is unfurling in distinctive ways above traditional nation state policy processes New practices of transnational administration are emerging inside international organizations but also alongside the trans governmental networks of regulators and inside global public private partnerships Mainstream policy and public administration studies have tended to analyse the capacity of public sector hierarchies to globalize national policies By contrast this Handbook investigates new public spaces of transnational policy making the design and delivery of global public goods and services and the interdependent roles of transnational administrators who move between business bodies government agencies international organizations and professional associations This Handbook is novel in taking the concepts and theories of public administration and policy studies to get inside the black box of global governance Transnational administration is a multi actor and multi scalar endeavour having manifestations depending on the policy issue or problems at the local urban sub regional sub national regional national supranational supra regional transnational international and global scales These scales of local and global are not neatly bounded and nested spaces but are articulated together in complex patterns of policy activity These transnational patterns represent a reinvigoration of public administration and policy studies as the Handbook authors advance their analysis beyond the methodological nationalism of the nation state Making Public Policy Decisions Damon Alexander, Jenny M. Lewis, 2014-12-05 To understand public policy decisions it is imperative to understand the capacities of the individual actors who are making them how they think and feel about their role and what drives and motivates them However the current literature takes little account of this preferring instead to frame the decisions as the outcomes of a rational search for value maximising alternatives or the result of systematic and well ordered institutional and organisational processes Yet understanding how personal and emotional factors interact with broader institutional and organisational influences to shape the deliberations and behaviour of politicians and bureaucrats is paramount if we are to construct a more useful nuanced and dynamic picture of government decision making This book draws on a variety of approaches to examine individuals working in contemporary government from freshly trained policy officers to former cabinet ministers and prime ministers It provides important new insights into how those in government navigate their way through complex issues and decisions based on developed expertise that fuses formal rational techniques with other learned behaviours memories emotions and practiced forms of judgment at an individual level This innovative collection from leading academics across Australia Europe the United Kingdom and North America will be of great interest to researchers educators advanced students and practitioners working in the fields of political science public management and administration and public policy
