

Health, Economic and Social Impact of Covid-19 in Somalia

Dr. Ali Issa and Dr. Ayes Seck

Introduction

Somalia is one of the most vulnerable countries to coronavirus pandemic (COVID-19). The high level of vulnerability emanates from conflict induced state fragility, weak health systems, high level of poverty, and weak economic governance. COVID-19 recorded infection rates were low in Somalia compared to many countries in the region, possibly attributable to low testing capacity. Yet, there are heightened concerns relating to the actual impact in the country, on account of the limited capacity to address the health, economic and social emergency.

The above concerns are magnified by the classification of Somalia as among the countries most at risk from pandemic by the Global Risk Index¹. Such countries are found to have three times higher exposure to epidemics and six times higher risk in terms of lack of access to healthcare compared to the world's lowest risk countries. In a recent assessment, the WHO concluded that Somalia is among a list of 15 countries in the world that are at peril and require support in their preparedness to tackle the virus pandemic. Further, Johns Hopkins Health Security Index for 2019 ranked Somalia 194th out of 195 countries, scoring zero in emergency preparedness and response, infection control practices, and health care access.

The COVID-19 pandemic has already aggravated the vulnerabilities and challenges of internal conflicts, political instability, economic crisis, climate change disasters and gaps in services.

Health services are overstretched and at risk of complete collapse. Water and sanitation coverage are poor, and 2.6 million IDPs are at overcrowded camps around the country. The social protection system has limited coverage, and inadequate implementation systems. Million people are unable to meet their basic needs and lack access to essential services and employment.

This Policy brief is based on a rapid assessment, by the Somali National Economic Advisors of the NEC, of the COVID-19 impact on the health and socio-economic developments and prospects of the nation. The process of carrying out the assessment involved extensive interactions with ministries and other government agencies, whose valuable cooperation was indispensable. In view of limitations on the quality of data on the country's health, economic and social indicators, the efforts of the many institutions that availed data are highly appreciated and any remaining shortcomings on the quality of evidence provided should not be attributed to the NEC or other cooperating institutions.

Health Impact

Somalia has faced a severe threat from the COVID-19 pandemic on account of its fragile health institutions and limited human and financial resources. The country's weak healthcare system, which is far below that of most developing countries, has been shown, by the

Policy Issues In National Assessment:

Policy Issues in National Assessment Patricia Broadfoot, 1993 This book is the work of the British Educational Research Association Assessment Policy Task Group who produced two of the four papers featured. They all address the reasons behind current UK assessment policy and how it might be improved Evaluation of "Redesigning the National Assessment of Educational Progress" National Research Council, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Board on Testing and Assessment, Committee on Evaluation of National and State Assessments of Educational Progress, 1996-10-12

OECD Reviews of Evaluation and Assessment in Education: Student Assessment in Turkey Kitchen Hannah, Bethell George, Fordham Elizabeth, Henderson Kirsteen, Li Richard Ruochen, 2019-09-09 Turkey's education system stands out internationally as a success story. In recent decades participation has been vastly expanded becoming universal at lower levels of schooling and outperforming other middle income countries in upper secondary education. However the education system is also marked by disparities with only around half of 15 year olds acquiring the essential competencies they need for life and work OECD Reviews of Evaluation and Assessment in Education: Albania Maghnouj Soumaya, Fordham

Elizabeth, Guthrie Caitlyn, Henderson Kirsteen, Trujillo Daniel, 2020-05-07 This review developed in co operation with UNICEF provides Albania with recommendations to help strengthen its evaluation and assessment system to focus on support for student learning. Assessments of Educational Achievement, Volume 4 Gerry Shiel, Fernando Cartwright, 2015-02-12 This volume provides step by step details on how to analyze data collected in a national assessment with an introduction to statistical analyses normally carried out in these large scale assessments item and test analysis and a CD contains with analysis software IATA exercises and supporting data files Using the Results of a National Assessment of Educational Achievement

Thomas Kellaghan, Vincent Greaney, Scott Murray, 2009 What are students learning? Throughout the world governments striving to improve educational quality are turning to national assessments to provide this much needed information in key curriculum areas. The capacity for carrying out national assessments has grown remarkably in recent years but it has not been matched by widespread use of their findings. This book seeks to maximize an appreciation for the value of such data and to assist countries in exploiting the knowledge that national assessments yield. Using the Results of a National Assessment of Educational Achievement identifies the main factors affecting the use of national assessment findings. These include the political context in which an assessment is carried out, the nature of the assessment census based or sample based, the assignment of accountability for the results and the quality of assessment instruments. The book describes the type of information that the main report of a national assessment should contain as well as other means of communicating findings to technical and nontechnical audiences. It outlines general considerations in translating national assessment results into policy and action and examines specific procedures for using the data in policy making educational management teaching and promoting public awareness The topics addressed in this volume should be of interest to policy makers educators researchers and development practitioners

OECD Reviews of Evaluation and Assessment in Education: North Macedonia OECD,2019-06-04 The Republic of North Macedonia has made remarkable progress in expanding access to education and strengthening institutional capacity Yet the majority of young Macedonians leave school without mastering the basic competencies for life and work and students background continues to influence performance This review developed in cooperation with UNICEF provides North Macedonia with recommendations to help strengthen its evaluation and assessment system by moving towards a system where assessment provides students with helpful feedback to improve learning

The assessment is given periodically in a variety of subjects mathematics reading writing science the arts civics economics geography U.S. history and technology and engineering literacy. NAEP is given to representative samples of students across the U.S. to assess the educational progress of the nation as a whole. Since 1992 NAEP results have been reported in relation to three achievement levels basic proficient and advanced. However the use of achievement levels has provoked controversy and disagreement and evaluators have identified numerous concerns. This publication evaluates the NAEP student achievement levels in reading and mathematics in grades 4, 8 and 12 to determine whether the achievement levels are reasonable reliable valid and informative to the public and recommends ways that the setting and use of achievement levels can be improved
