Institutional Learning and Knowledge Transfer Across Epistemic Communities Elias G. Carayannis, Ali Pirzadeh, Denisa Popescu, 2011-11-25 Over the past several decades as the pace of globalization has accelerated operational issues of international coordination have often been overlooked For example the global financial crisis that began in 2007 is attributed in part to a lack of regulatory oversight As a result supranational organizations such as the G 20 the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund have prioritized strengthening of the international financial architecture and providing opportunities for dialogue on national policies international co operation and international financial institutions Prevailing characteristics of the global economic systems such as the increasing power of financial institutions changes in the structure of global production decline in the authority of nation states over their national economy and creation of global institutional setting e g global governance have created the conditions for a naturally evolving process towards enabling national epistemic communities to create institutions that comply with global rules and regulations can control crises In this context transfer of technical knowledge from the larger organizations and its global epistemic communities to member communities is becoming a policy tool to convince participants in the international system to have similar ideas about which rules will govern their mutual participation In the realm of finance and banking regulation the primary focus is on transfer of specialized and procedural knowledge in technical domains such as accounting procedures payment systems and corporate governance principles thereby promoting institutional learning at national and local levels In this volume the authors provide in depth analysis of initiatives to demonstrate how this type of knowledge generated at the international organization level is codified into global standards and disseminated to members particularly in the developing world where the legal and regulatory infrastructure is often lacking They argue that despite the challenges when a country intends to join the global system its institutions and economic structures need to move toward the global norms In so doing they shed new light on the dynamics of knowledge transfer financial regulation economic development with particular respect to supporting global standards and avoiding future crises Energy Efficiency in Motor Systems Peter Radgen, Paolo Bertoldi, 2024-11-06 This book contains selected peer reviewed papers presented at the 12th International Conference on Energy Efficiency in Motor Systems EEMODS 22 held in Stuttgart Germany from May 3 5 2022 As with previous conferences in this series EEMODS 22 provided a scientific forum to discuss and debate the latest developments and impacts of electrical motor systems on energy and the environment energy efficiency policies and programs adopted and planned standards including ISO 50 001 and the technical and commercial advances made in the dissemination and penetration of energy efficient motor systems Topics covered include emerging motor technologies research and innovation in electric motors power electronics and drives pump systems market surveillance and enforcement mechanisms national energy efficiency standards including case studies plus much more The conference is international by nature and aims to attract high quality and innovative contributions from all corners of the globe while the papers facilitate the development of new technologies policies and strategies to increase energy efficiency Monthly Catalog of United States Government Publications ,1990 Michigan Law Review ,1993

The Civil Service Year Book ,2004 Public Health Jacek Czepiel,Alicja Domagała,Mariusz Duplaga,Tomasz Grodzicki,Janusz Hałuszka,Grażyna Jasieńska,Justyna Klingemann,Iwona Kowalska-Bobko,Andrzej Ryś,Monika Ścibor,Marzena Tambor,Beata Tobiasz-Adamczyk,Piotr Tyszko,2024-06-17 In Poland for almost three decades education in the field of public health has been provided in medical universities with the aim of creating an expert workforce to ensure appropriate action in this area The book draws on the experience and knowledge of teachers associated with the School of Public Health of the Jagiellonian University undoubtedly a leading institution in the country in this area but experts from other centres also were invited in order to provide content of an appropriately high quality The textbook on public health edited by professor Stanis awa Golinowska is highly recommended not only to medical university students but also to all persons involved in health protection activities in Poland For all interested in public health this is must read Prof Zbigniew Gaciong MD Medical University of Warsaw This textbook perfectly addresses the health challenges of the contemporary stage of civilization development in which public health is becoming an extremely complex and at the same time dynamically evolving field The scope of the textbook is clearly defined and its division into chapters and within them into sections dedicated to specific issues facilitates the search for the required content The textbook also provides a wholesome understanding of public health which covers the theoretical foundations an overview of problems and challenges as well as a description of the tools used both in research and in public policy at multiple levels global European national and local Prof Andrzej M Fal Wroc aw Medical University President of the Polish Society of Public Health European Regulation of Medical Devices and Pharmaceuticals Nupur Chowdhury,2014-04-29 One of the primary functions of law is to ensure that the legal structure governing all social relations is predictable coherent consistent and applicable Taken together these characteristics of law are referred to as legal certainty In traditional approaches to legal certainty law is regarded as a hierarchical system of rules characterized by stability clarity uniformity calculable enforcement publicity and predictability However the current reality is that national legal systems no longer operate in isolation but within a multilevel legal order wherein norms created at both the international and regional level are directly applicable to national legal systems Also norm creation is no longer the exclusive prerogative of public officials of the state private actors have an increasing influence on norm creation as well Social scientists have referred to this phenomenon of interacting and overlapping competences as multilevel governance Only recently have legal scholars focused attention on the increasing interconnectedness and therefore the concomitant loss of primacy of national legal orders between the global European and national regulatory spheres through the concept of multilevel regulation In this project the author uses multilevel regulation as a term to characterize a regulatory space in which the process of rule making rule enforcement and rule adjudication the regulatory lifecycle is dispersed across more than one administrative or territorial level and amongst several different actors both public and private The author draws on the concept of a regulatory space using it as a framing device to differentiate between specific aspects of policy fields The relationship between actors in such a space is non hierarchical and they may be independent of each other The lack of central ordering of the regulatory lifecycle within this regulatory space is the most important feature of such a space The implications of multilevel regulation for the notion of legal certainty have attracted limited attention from scholars and the demand for legal certainty in regulatory practice is still a puzzle The book explores the idea of legal certainty in terms of the perceptions and expectations of regulatees in the context of medical products specifically pharmaceuticals and medical devices which can be differentiated as two regulatory spaces and therefore form two case studies As an exploratory project the book necessarily explores new territory in terms of investigating legal certainty first in terms of regulatee perceptions and expectations and second because it studies it in the context of multilevel regulation

The Borders of "Europe" Nicholas De Genova, 2017-08-26 In recent years the borders of Europe have been perceived as being besieged by a staggering refugee and migration crisis The contributors to The Borders of Europe see this crisis less as an incursion into Europe by external conflicts than as the result of migrants exercising their freedom of movement Addressing the new technologies and technical forms European states use to curb control and constrain what contributors to the volume call the autonomy of migration this book shows how the continent's amorphous borders present a premier site for the enactment and disputation of the very idea of Europe They also outline how from Istanbul to London Sweden to Mali and Tunisia to Latvia migrants are finding ways to subvert visa policies and asylum procedures while negotiating increasingly militarized and surveilled borders Situating the migration crisis within a global frame and attending to migrant and refugee supporters as well as those who stoke nativist fears this timely volume demonstrates how the enforcement of Europe's borders is an important element of the worldwide regulation of human mobility Contributors Ruben Andersson Nicholas De Genova Dace Dzenovska Evelina Gambino Glenda Garelli Charles Heller Clara Lecadet Souad Osseiran Lorenzo Pezzani Fiorenza Picozza Stephan Scheel Maurice Stierl Laia Soto Bermant Martina Tazzioli
