China's Great Proletarian Cultural Revolution Woei Lien Chong, 2002 Treating China's Cultural Revolution as much more than a political event this innovative volume explores its ideological dimensions The contributors focus especially on the CR's discourse of heroism and messianism and its demonization of the enemy as reflected in political practice official literature and propaganda art arguing that these characteristics can be traced back to hitherto neglected undercurrents of Chinese tradition Moreover while most studies of the Cultural Revolution are content to point to the discredited cult of heroism and messianism this book also explores the alternative discourses that have flourished to fill the resulting vacuum The contributors analyze the intense intellectual and artistic ferment in post Mao China that embody resistance to CR ideology as well as the urgent quest for authentic individuality new forms of social cohesion and historical truth Contributions by Anne Marie Brady Woei Lien Chong Lowell Dittmer Monika Gaenssbauer Nick Knight Stefan R Landsberger Nora Sausmikat Barend J ter Haar Natascha Vittinghoff and Lan Yang

The Red Guard Generation and Political Activism in China

Guobin Yang,2016-05-17 Raised to be flowers of the nation the first generation born after the founding of the People's Republic of China was united in its political outlook and at first embraced the Cultural Revolution of 1966 but then split into warring factions Investigating the causes of this fracture Guobin Yang argues that Chinese youth engaged in an imaginary revolution from 1966 to 1968 enacting a political mythology that encouraged violence as a way to prove one's revolutionary credentials This same competitive dynamic would later turn the Red Guard against the communist government Throughout the 1970s the majority of Red Guard youth were sent to work in rural villages where they developed an appreciation for the values of ordinary life From this experience an underground cultural movement was born Rejecting idolatry these relocated revolutionaries developed a new form of resistance that signaled a new era of enlightenment culminating in the Democracy Wall movement of the late 1970s and the Tiananmen protest of 1989 Yang's final chapter on the politics of history and memory argues that contemporary memories of the Cultural Revolution are factionalized along these lines of political division formed fifty years before often perplexing experiences of the seventeen million Chinese students sent to work in the countryside between 1953 and 1980 Rich in human drama Pan's book illustrates how life in the countryside transformed the children of Mao from innocent ignorant yet often passionate believers in the Communist Party into independent adults Those same adults would go on to lead the nationwide protests in the winter of 1978-1979 that forced the government to abandon its policy of rustication Richly textured this work successfully blends biography with a wealth of historical insight to bring to life the trials of a generation and to offer Chinese studies scholars a fascinating window into Mao Zedong's China Book jacket Proletarian Power Elizabeth Perry, 2018-05-04 This pathbreaking book offers the first in depth study of Chinese labor activism during the momentous upheaval of the Cultural Revolution Arguing that labor was working at cross purposes the authors explore three distinctive and different forms of working class protest rebellion conservatism and economism Drawing upon a wealth of heretofore inaccessible archival sources the authors probe the divergent political psychocultural and socioeconomic strains within the Shanghai labor movement convincingly illustrating the complexity of working class politics in contemporary China This pathbreaking book offers the first in depth study of Chinese labor activism during the momentous upheaval of the Cultural Revolution The authors explore three distinctive forms of working class protest rebellion conservatism and economism Labor they argue was working at cross purposes through these three modes of militancy promoted by different types of leaders with differing agendas and motivations Drawing upon a wealth of heretofore inaccessible archival sources the authors probe the divergent political psychocultural and socioeconomic strains within the Shanghai labor movement As they convincingly illustrate the multiplicity of worker responses to the Cultural Revolution cautions against a one dimensional portrait of working class politics in contemporary China Chinese Propaganda Posters: From Revolution to Modernization Stefan Landsberger, 2020-11-26 Brightly coloured prints portraying model behaviour or a better future have been a ubiquitous element of Chinese political culture from Imperial times until present As economic reform swept the People's Republic in the 1980s visual propaganda ceased to depict the tanned and muscular labourers in a proletarian utopia so typical of preceding decades Instead Western icons of progress and development were employed high speed bullet trains spacecraft high rise buildings gridlocked free ways and projections of general affluence Socialist Realism was phased out by design and mixed media techniques that were influenced by Western advertising This lavishly illustrated study traces the development of the style and content of the Chinese propaganda poster in the decade of reform from its traditional origins to its use as a tool for political and economic purposes Children of Mao Anita Chan, 1985-06-18 The Search for Modern China Jonathan D. One Step Ahead in China Ezra F. Vogel, 1989 One Step Ahead in China is a groundbreaking book unique in its detailed coverage of Guangdong the first socialist dragon to follow in the path of South Korea and Taiwan 6 maps 7 tables THE SEARECH FOR MODERN CHINA JONATHAN D. SPENCE, 1990 Policies of Chaos Lynn T. White III, 2014-07-14 The tumult of the Cultural Revolution after 1966 is often blamed on a few leaders in Beijing or on long term egalitarian ideals or on communist or Chinese political cultures Lynn White shows however that the chaos resulted mainly from reactions by masses of individuals and small groups to three specific policies of administrative manipulation labeling groups designating bosses and legitimating violence in political campaigns These habits of local organization were common after 1949 and gave the state success in short term revolutionary aims despite scarce resources and staff but they also drove millions to attack each other later First measures accumulated before 1966 to give people bad or good names such as rightist or worker these set a family's access to employment education residence and rations so they gave interests to potential conflict groups Second policies for bossism went far beyond Confucian patronage patterns making work units tightly dependent on Party monitors so rational individuals either pandered to local bosses or when they could deposed them Third the institutionalized violence of political campaigns both mobilized activists and scared others into compliance These organizational measures were often effective in the short run before 1966 but accumulated social costs that China paid later The book ends with comparisons to past cases of mass urban ostracism in other countries and it suggests how such tragedies may be forecast or prevented in the future Originally published in 1989 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press. These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions. Memory, Fluid Identity, and the Politics of Remembering Li Li, 2016-06-21

The Chinese Cultural Revolution is the single most important internal social event in contemporary Chinese history. The plethora of history, literary, and artistic representations inspired by this event are critical to our understanding of the diversified, often contested interpretations of contemporary China. Li Li's critical examination of autobiographic, filmic, and fictional presentations in Memory, Fluid Identity, and the Politics of Remembering. The Representations of the Chinese Cultural Revolution in English-speaking Countries demonstrates that memory works not only to reflect memories of those who lived through that period but also memories about their past and more importantly about their identity remapping and artistic negotiation in a cross-cultural environment.
