Political Choice in Britain Harold D. Clarke, David Sanders, Marianne C. Stewart, Paul Whiteley, 2004-03-18 Why do people vote as they do Indeed why do they vote at all What do they think about elections political parties and democracy This important book by four leading scholars addresses these questions Using a wealth of data from the 1964 2001 British election studies monthly Gallup polls and numerous other national surveys conducted over the past four decades the authors test the explanatory power of rival sociological and individual rationality models of turnout and party choice Analyses of party choice endorse a valence politics model that challenges the long dominant social class model British voters make their political choices by evaluating the performance of parties and party leaders in economic and other important policy areas Although these evaluations may be products of events and conditions that occur long before an election campaign officially begins parties national and local campaign activities are also influential Consistent with the valence politics model partisan attachments display individual and aggregate level dynamics that reflect ongoing judgements about the managerial abilities of parties and their leaders A general incentives model provides the best explanation of turnout Calculations of the costs and influence discounted benefits of voting and sense of civic duty are key variables in this model Significantly the decline in turnout in recent elections does not reflect more general negative trends in public attitudes about the political system Voters judge the performance of British democracy in much the same way as they evaluate its parties and politicians Support at all

Culture Dai zhicheng, 2021-12-15 The election process reflects the essence of the electoral system The justice of the electoral process can best reflect whether the electoral system is legitimate and democratic The democratic and legal shortcomings of China s electoral system can be solved by rationalizing and democratizing the electoral process which is consistent with the realization of justice under the electoral process In this book procedural justice is combined with the electoral process to find the conditions and elements needed to achieve more justice in elections The electoral system is still based on the political will of the political party to rule and the electoral system itself has serious legislative problems which shows that the foundation of China s electoral system has problems Then China s electoral system cannot truly represent the political voices and political interests of the people in the implementation and at the same time cannot reflect the fairness of the election in the electoral procedure and the determination of the election results The People s Congress system and the Political Consultation system simply cannot elect the right representatives who truly represent the interests of the people The elected government and state power organs are separated from the people s political status political interests and development interests in the operation of their duties and the exercise of power By analyzing the problems in China s electoral system and election procedures the book concludes the conditions for the realization of more justice rationalization and democratization of China s electoral system and election procedures through procedural justice The spiritual connotation of procedural justice under the electoral system and election procedures are combined with the traditional Chinese democratic political culture to construct an electoral political culture adapted to the contemporary Chinese political environment advancing the development of procedural justice in China s electoral system to realize the rationality legitimacy and democracy of elections The Political Economy of Predation Mehrdad Vahabi, 2015-12-11 Conflict theory presents a growing interest in understanding the economic costs and benefits of conflicts Mehrdad Vahabi analyses conflict theory through one type of conflict in particular manhunting or predation in which a dominant power hunts down prey and the goal
