Media and the Experience of Social Change Tim Markham,2017-07-28 For centuries scholars have fretted about the gulf that exists between the enormity of historical change and the banality of people s everyday lives This is said to be exacerbated in our media saturated age immersed as we have become in an endless stream of sensations and distractions In response media theorists and practitioners alike try to come up with new ways of breaking through people s complacency and waking them up to the reality or what s going on out there Drawing on both philosophy and an investigation of what people actually do with media this book takes aim at that conventional wisdom and opens up new ways of thinking about media and the way we experience change For politics journalism activism and humanitarianism the upshot is that we shouldn t be trying to provoke moments of revelation amongst publics and audiences but to understand what is really at stake in the way the present endlessly unfolds in everyday life

The Personalization of Politics in the European Union Katjana Gattermann,2022 The personalization of politics whereby politicians increasingly become the main focus of political processes is a prominent phenomenon in modern democracies that has received considerable scholarly attention in national politics However little is known about the scope causes and consequences of personalization in European Union politics although recent institutional and political developments suggest that such a trend is underway This book sheds light onto this phenomenon by taking a comprehensive approach to understanding four key dimensions of personalization concerning institutions media politics and citizens In doing so it relies on an innovative longitudinal and cross country comparative research design and applies multiple methods It argues that institutional personalization is a necessary but not sufficient pre condition for media to increasingly report about individual politicians It shows that media personalization fluctuates across country and over time while Members of the European Parliament increasingly engage in personalized legislative and communicative behaviour These developments are conditional upon domestic media and electoral systems and have limited effects on citizen attitudes and political awareness The book concludes that as additional political actors gain formal individual responsibilities European Union politics also becomes more complex to disentangle Ultimately institutions provide more effective cues than individual politicians both for media to inform citizens about European Union politics and for the latter to acquire information that may help them understand and evaluate European Union politics These findings have important implications for the future of personalized politics in the European Union

Tony Blair's strong start to his third term with his role in capturing the Olympic Games for Britain his statesman like handling of the aftermath of the terrorist attacks on London his promise of a new start to the European Union and his leadership of the G8 summit at Gleneagles has brought his relatively lacklustre second term into sharp relief The second term should have been the time when New Labour fulfilled its manifesto promises So what changed between 2001 and 2005 and what was achieved How far was Blair himself responsible and what was Gordon Brown's influence What was the impact of the Iraq war And what of Blair's policy towards Europe Anthony Seldon and Dennis Kavanagh gather together leading academics and journalists to provide an authoritative assessment of Blair's second term including a review of New Labour in government from 1997 to the present
