Capitalism with a Human Face William Gay, T. A. Alekseeva, 1996. Combining the theoretical perspectives of a leading Russian political scientist and an American political philosopher who have collaborated for years, Capitalism with a Human Face analyzes the relation between economics and politics in Russia as it moves toward modernization. Throughout the book, the authors contrast Western media accounts of the Russian situation with less accessible but more relevant data gathered in Russia since 1991. They advocate a new notion of centrism for Russia, one that combines democratic politics and a market economy without abandoning the social guarantees on which many Russians have long relied and without which their political and economic life is likely to remain in turmoil. This will be an important work for scholars and students of social and political philosophy, international relations, comparative politics, and economics. The Economy and Political Culture in New Democracies: An Analysis of Democratic Support in Central and Eastern Europe Kristin Broderick, 2017-11-22. This title was first published in 2000. This research examines the socio-economic and cultural factors that influence the development of democracy and also explores how new democracies can be maintained and consolidated. It investigates the consolidation of new democracies in Central and Eastern Europe, which face the hurdle of transforming their economies. The study looks at the effect of economic factors on popular support for democracy and discusses what factors influence citizen commitment to democratic regimes in Central and Eastern Europe. It argues that citizen perception of well-being is an important element in influencing political support. Case studies cover developing democracies in Europe, such as the Czech Republic or Slovakia, and policy implications specifically in terms of economic policy are offered that may aid democracies in their consolidation.

Nations at War Daniel S. Geller, J. David Singer, 1998-02-13. Nations at War provides an explanation of war in international politics grounded on data-based empirical research. The book classifies and synthesizes the research findings of over 500 quantitative analyses of war at the analytic level of the state dyad, region, and international system. Because wars follow from political decisions two basic decision making models the rational and the non rational are examined in relation to the explanatory framework of the volume In addition case analyses of two wars the Iran Iraq War 1980 and World War I 1914 are provided as demonstrations of scientifically based explanations of historical events The primary structural factors responsible for the onset and seriousness of war are identified and the explanations are developed according to the scientific model of covering laws The conclusion presents a discussion of the potential for probabilistic conditional predictions of conflict within the context of war and peace studies
