The Cognition of Basic Musical Structures David

Temperley, 2004-08-20 In this book David Temperley addresses a fundamental question about music cognition how do we extract basic kinds of musical information such as meter phrase structure counterpoint pitch spelling harmony and key from music as we hear it Taking a computational approach Temperley develops models for generating these aspects of musical structure The models he proposes are based on preference rules which are criteria for evaluating a possible structural analysis of a piece of music A preference rule system evaluates many possible interpretations and chooses the one that best satisfies the rules After an introductory chapter Temperley presents preference rule systems for generating six basic kinds of musical structure meter phrase structure contrapuntal structure harmony and key as well as pitch spelling the labeling of pitch events with spellings such as A flat or G sharp He suggests that preference rule systems not only show how musical structures are inferred but also shed light on other aspects of music He substantiates this claim with discussions of musical ambiguity retrospective revision expectation and music outside the Western canon rock and traditional African music He proposes a framework for the description of musical styles based on preference rule systems and explores the relevance of preference rule systems to higher level aspects of music such as musical schemata narrative and drama and musical tension
