Quattrocento Dialogue:

The Quattrocento Dialogue David Marsh, 1980 The Cambridge History of Literary Criticism: Volume 3, The Renaissance George Alexander Kennedy, Glyn P. Norton, 1989 This 1999 volume was the first to explore as part of an unbroken continuum the critical legacy both of the humanist rediscovery of ancient learning and of its neoclassical reformulation Focused on what is arguably the most complex phase in the transmission of the Western literary critical heritage the book encompasses those issues that helped shape the way European writers thought about literature from the late Middle Ages to the late seventeenth century These issues touched almost every facet of Western intellectual endeavour as well as the historical cultural social scientific and technological contexts in which that activity evolved From the interpretative reassessment of the major ancient poetic texts this volume addresses the emergence of the literary critic in Europe by exploring poetics prose fiction contexts of criticism neoclassicism and national developments Sixty one chapters by internationally respected scholars are supported by an introduction detailed bibliographies for further investigation and a full index Humanism and the Rhetoric of Toleration Gary Remer, 2010-11-01 Religious toleration is much discussed these days But where did the Western notion of toleration come from In this thought provoking book Gary Remer traces arguments for religious toleration back to the Renaissance demonstrating how humanist thinkers initiated an intellectual tradition that has persisted even to our present day Although toleration has long been recognized as an important theme in Renaissance humanist thinking many scholars have mistakenly portrayed the humanists as proto Enlightenment rationalists and nascent liberals Remer however offers the surprising conclusion that humanist thinking on toleration was actually founded on the classical tradition of rhetoric It was the rhetorician's commitment to decorum the ability to argue both sides of an issue and the search for an acceptable epistemological standard in probability and consensus that grounded humanist arguments for toleration Remer also finds that the primary humanist model for a full fledged theory of toleration was the Ciceronian rhetorical category of sermo conversation The historical scope of this book is wide ranging Remer begins by focusing on the works of four humanists Desiderius Erasmus Jacobus Acontius William Chillingworth and Jean Bodin Then he considers the challenge posed to the humanist defense of toleration by Thomas Hobbes and Pierre Bayle Finally he shows how humanist ideas have continued to influence arguments for toleration even after the passing of humanism from John Locke to contemporary American discussions of freedom of speech The Quattrocento Dialogue David Richard Marsh, 1978

Nogarola elegantly synthesized Greco Roman thought with biblical teachings And striding across the stage in public she lectured the Veronese citizenry on everything from history and religion to politics and morality But the most influential of Nogarola s works was a performance piece Dialogue on Adam and Eve in which she discussed the relative sinfulness of Adam and Eve thereby opening up a centuries long debate in Europe on gender and the nature of woman and establishing herself as an important figure in Western intellectual history This book will be a must read for teachers and students of Women s Studies as well as of Renaissance literature and history skeptical public of the superiority of the Copernican system Moss describes the nature of dialectical and rhetorical discourse in the period of the Copernican debate to shed new light on the argumentative strategies used by the participants Against the background of Ptolemy's Almagest she analyzes the gradual increase of rhetoric beginning with Copernicus's De Revolutionibus and Galileo's Siderius nuncius through Galileo's debates with the Jesuits Scheiner and Grassi to the most persuasive work of all Galileo's Dialogue The arguments of the Dominicans Bruno and Campanella the testimony of Johannes Kepler and the pleas of Scriptural exegetes and the speculations of John Wilkins furnish a counterpoint to the writings of Galileo the centerpiece of this study The author places the controversy within its historical frame creating a coherent narrative movement She illuminates the reactions of key ecclesiastical and academic figures figures and the general public to the issues Blending history and rhetorical analysis this first study to look at rhetoric as defined by sixteenth and seventeenth century participants is an original contribution to our understanding of the use of persuasion as an instrument of scientific debate
