The Invention of Tradition Eric Hobsbawm, Terence Ranger, 2012-03-26

Many of the traditions which we think of as very ancient in their origins were not in fact sanctioned by long usage over the centuries but were invented comparatively recently

This book explores examples of this process of invention the creation of Welsh and Scottish national culture the elaboration of British royal rituals in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries the origins of imperial rituals in British India and Africa and the attempts by radical movements to develop counter traditions of their own

It addresses the complex interaction of past and present bringing together historians and anthropologists in a fascinating study of ritual and symbolism which poses new questions for the understanding of our history

The Numismatic Circular and Catalogue of Coins, Tokens, Commemorative & War Medals, Books & Cabinets Spink & Son, 1908

The Hummingbird Cabinet Judith Pascoe, 2006

This book is a romantic history of romantic collecting

It takes seriously and by necessity shares the tendency of romantic histories to dwell upon their own fragmentariness on the impossibility of capturing an intact history

It traces the particular ways in which objects stepped into the lives of romantic collectors and also the ways in which the objects moved on from the Introduction

In the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries the activity of collecting became democratized and popularized allowing all kinds of people to become caught up in the collecting obsessions of the period

birds books Napoleonic relics botanical specimens Egyptiana and fossils

Judith Pascoe invites readers to contemplate the ongoing allure of romantic collections

Pascoe maintains that romanticism as a literary movement played a crucial supporting role in varied attempts by collectors of this era to fashion identities for themselves through collecting

She links the collecting craze during the period with the subsequent fetishization of romantic poets and their possessions revealing the extent to which an ongoing fascination with material objects with Keats's hair and Shelley's guitar for example helped to produce an enduring image of these poets as spiritual emissaries of a less materialistic age

In language both witty and idiosyncratic Pascoe makes the case that the romantic period stands out as a distinct moment in collecting history a transition between the flourishing of the Renaissance wonder cabinet and the rise of the Victorian museum
