Measuring Literacy National Research Council,Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education,Center for Education,Board on Testing and Assessment,Committee on Performance Levels for Adult Literacy,2006-01-13 The National Assessment of Adult Literacy NAAL is a household survey conducted periodically by the Department of Education that evaluates the literacy skills of a sample of adults in the United States ages 16 and older NAAL results are used to characterize adults literacy skills and to inform policy and programmatic decisions The Committee on Performance Levels for Adult Literacy was convened at the Department's request for assistance in determining a means for booking assessment results that would be useful and understandable for NAAL. Many varied audiences. Through a process detailed in the book, the committee determined that five performance level categories should be used to characterize adults' literacy skills: nonliterate in English, below basic literacy, basic literacy, intermediate literacy, and advanced literacy. This book documents the process the committee used to determine these performance categories, estimates the percentages of adults whose literacy skills fall into each category, recommends ways to communicate about adults' literacy skills based on NAAL, and makes suggestions for ways to improve future assessments of adult literacy.

Donnor, Adrienne Dixon, 2013-06-07. Access to a quality education remains the primary mechanism for improving one's life chances in the United States, and for children of color, a good education is particularly linked to their individual and collective well-being. Despite the popular perception that America is in a post-racial epoch, opportunities to access quality learning environments and human development resources remain determined according to race, class, gender, and ability. Taking a more nuanced approach to race and the resegregation of the American school system this volume examines how and why the education quality for the majority of students of color in America remains fundamentally unequal
