Nationalism And Ethnicity In The Horn Of Africa:

Nationalism and Ethnicity in the Horn of Africa Dominique Jacquin-Berdal, 2002 Dr Jacquin Berdal has given us a cogent and lucid defence of a modernist international relations perspective on nationalism In contrast to current preoccupations with ethnicity she demonstrates through a rich and detailed empirical analysis of Eritrea and Somaliland separatism that the colonial territorial state provided the causal basis and motor for the rise of these and other African nationalisms This book is an important and timely contribution to the theoretical literature on nationalism and to our understanding of contemporary politics in the Horn of Africa It is important for two reasons First since the end of the cold war the proposition that nations and hence successful nation states invariably spring from an ethnic core has too often gone unchallenged Those who hold this position tend to regard it almost as a self evident truth As Dominique Jacquin Berdal s analysis impressively demonstrates it is not Secondly most students of nationalism whether they insist on the ethnic ancestry of the modern nation or view it as an essentially modern construct implicitly agree that the roots of the nation and nationalism lie within society rather than outside it S

Subnationalism in Africa Joshua Forrest, 2004 This examination of the politics of ethnicity and nation building in Africa stresses the trend towards subnationalist autonomy and away from a singular state centric system based on the Western model Forrest ranges across the continent to explore a variety of subnational movements

Ethnicity and Nationalism in Africa P. Yeros, 2016-07-27 Ethnicity and Nationalism in Africa features a series of constructivist contributions by leading scholars in the field of ethnicity and nationalism and explores the differences among those who have come to be known as constructivists The contributors reflect upon ongoing methodological debates in ethnography historiography and political theory They demonstrate the diversity of concepts and methods within constructivism and assess the political implications of the concepts themselves The debate between them is inter disciplinary critical and innovative and should be of value to anyone interested in the study of ethnicity and nationalism

Nationalism and Ethnic Conflict Berch Berberoglu, 2005-12-13 This book examines the origins and development of nationalism and national movements in the twentieth century and provides an analysis of the nature and dynamics of nationalism and ethnic conflict in a variety of national settings Examining the intricate relationship between class state and nation the book attempts to develop a critical approach to the study of nationalism and ethnonational conflict within the broader context of class relations and class struggles in the age of globalization The book consists of three parts made up of seven chapters Part I examines classical and contemporary conventional and Marxist theories of nationalism Part II provides a series of empirical comparisons of nationalism and ethnic conflict on a world scale focusing on the Third World the advanced capitalist countries and Eastern Europe and the former Soviet Union A highlight of this section of the book is a detailed comparative case study of the Palestinian and Kurdish nationalism and national movements Part III provides a political analysis of the relationship between class state and nation and lays out the class nature of nationalism and the role of the state in ethnonational conflicts that are the political manifestations of deeper class struggles that have been the driving force of nationalism and ethnic conflict in the era of globalization Berberoglu contends that future studies of nationalism and ethnonational conflict must pay closer attention to the dynamics of class forces that are behind the ideology of nationalism by examining national movements in class terms For only through a careful class analysis of these forces and their ideological edicts will we be able to clearly understand the nature of nationalism and ethnonational conflicts around the world and political expressions of national identities the politics of multiple loyalty the domestic and international effects of competing identities within a single state and the causes of and political responses to conflict between ethnic and religious groups The volumes are designed for use by university students scholars and interested general readers Africa and the World Kornegay Jnr, Francis, 2020-02-16 Africa and the World Navigating Shifting Geopolitics is one of the first books to analyse the global geopolitical landscape from an African perspective with a view to the opportunities and challenges facing the African continent Authors in this edited volume argue for the need to re imagine Africa s role in the world As a cradle of humanity a historical fountain of profound scientific knowledge an object of colonial conquest and today a collective of countries seeking to pool their sovereignties in order to improve the human condition Africa has a unique opportunity to advance its own interests Authors reflect on all these issues they outline how developments in the global political economy impact on the continent and inversely how Africa can develop a strategic perspective that takes into account the dynamics playing out in a fraught global terrain Central to this evaluation is the notion of island Africa a vast island with resources that extend into the oceans around it that is a strategic centre by virtue of its geographic location its endowments and its long term potential Authors assert that the positioning of island Africa presents unique political security and geo economic benefits Yet they also acknowledge that as has happened historically these very advantages can serve as a basis for new forms of domination and exploitation In addition this volume takes into account the socio psychological factors that influence how nations of the world receive and interpret the present and assess prospects for the future The authors go beyond analysis of what is to venture concrete proposals on what can be with Africa exercising its agency This requires the strengthening of continental integration and cohesion in pursuit of ideals that the African Union has enshrined in Agenda 2063 In this way Africa would be able to engage in a systemic and disciplined manner with external powers to assert the continent s own interests which in their framing are also the interests of humanity A continent united in both purpose and action can be an active agent in shaping the evolving global order This volume makes a strong case for precisely such a perspective and contributes to what should be an ongoing effort to analyse geopolitics with Africa as a critical frame of reference

Ethnicity and Sociopolitical Change in Africa and Other Developing Countries Santosh C. Saha, 2008-03-07 This edited collection of essays answers a basic question posed by contemporary discourse on state building How might people's identification with a particular ethnic group matter Essays in this book use an integrated multi disciplinary approach to understanding regional and local community culture and socio political development in developing countries especially in Sub Saharan Africa to argue that the state as well as civil society confers on cultural differences a legitimacy that can be achieved in no other way but by positive cooperation Contributors from different countries look at local patterns in state building and modernization as they have unfolded over the course of the last fifty years They claim that the people and ethnic groups in most developing countries adhere to a concept of popular sovereignty that testifies that aspects of positive and moral ethnicity can contribute to social change as in China economic development as in India or in a democratization process as in Rwanda and Burundi The eventual methodological assumption made by these essays presumes that ethnic conflicts in such countries as Cyprus Turkey India and Rwanda have no moral sanction ethnicity has not assumed a political ideology One conclusion reached by the contributors is that some form of accommodation between opposing ethnically diversified groups as well as between state and ethnic elements is feasible

State Crises, Globalisation and National Movements in North-East Africa Asafa Jalata, 2004-08-02 By identifying the critical central contradictions that are built into the politics of the Horn of Africa this book demonstrates that the crises of the Horn states stem from their political behaviour and structural forces such as internal social forces and global forces that have become involved on the sides of these states without requiring accountability the rule of law or the implementation of at least limited democracy The contributors provide a deep understanding of structural and conjunctural forces that have interacted in the processes of state power the role of intervention of global powers and the consequent failure to build state as a public domain The book also enriches our social scientific knowledge that is essential to develop pragmatic policy measures to address these problems Ibss:
