Christ Is a Native American Achiel Peelman, 2006-03-14 During his 1984 visit to Canada Pope John Paul II declared Christ in the members of his body is himself Indian Who is this native Christ What is his place in the spiritual universe of native people Achiel Peelman examines these questions in this timely and groundbreaking book which is the result of research he has carried out since 1982 in native communities across Canada While Peelman s book is a work of theology and Christology it is also a work of profound friendship that will help its readers know more deeply the Amerindian experience

Native Americans, Christianity, and the Reshaping of the American Religious Landscape Joel W. Martin, Mark A. Nicholas, 2010 The essays here explore a variety of post contact identities including indigenous Christians mission friendly non Christians and ex Christians thereby exploring the shifting world of Native white cultural and religious exchange Rather than questioning the authenticity of Native Christian experiences these scholars reveal how indigenous peoples negotiated change with regard to missions missionaries and Christianity This collection challenges the pervasive stereotype of Native Americans as culturally static and ill equipped to navigate the roiling currents associated with colonialism and missionization pub desc

Native Christians Aparecida Vilaça, Professor Robin M Wright, 2013-05-28 Native Christians reflects on the modes and effects of Christianity among indigenous peoples of the Americas drawing on comparative analysis of ethnographic and historical cases Christianity in this region has been part of the process of conquest and domination through the association usually made between civilizing and converting While Catholic missions have emphasized the civilizing process teaching the Indians the skills which they were expected to exercise within the context of a new societal model the Protestants have centered their work on promoting a deep internal change or conversion based on the recognition of God's existence. Various ethnologists and scholars of indigenous societies have focused their interest on understanding the nature of the transformations produced by the adoption of Christianity. The contributors in this volume take native thought as the starting point looking at the need to relativize these transformations. Each author examines different ethnographic cases throughout the Americas both historical and contemporary enabling the reader to understand the indigenous points of view in the processes of adoption and transformation of new practices, objects, ideas, and values.

Coming Full Circle Steven Charleston, Elaine A. Robinson, 2015-08-01 Coming Full Circle provides a working constructive dogmatics in Native Christian theology. Drawing together leading scholars in the field, this volume seeks to encourage theologians to reconsider the rich possibilities present in the intersection between Native theory and practice and Christian theology and practice. This innovative work begins with a Native American theory for doing constructive Christian theology and illustrates the possibilities with chapters on specific Christian doctrines in a theology in outline. This volume will make an important contribution representing the Native American voice in Christian theology.

Native American Identity, Christianity, and Critical Contextualization Thomas Eric Bates, 2013 The idea of being both Native and Christian has been especially challenging among American Indians. Indian people have endured five hundred years of colonial dominance and the results have left divisions between those who are traditionalists keeping to the old ways and those who are progressives embracing the new. Since the mid 1990s there has been a resurgence among Indian evangelicals who wish to break down the identity crisis related to being Native and Christian. Native Christians are encouraging other Natives to meet somewhere in the middle of traditionalism and progressivism. Eric Bates addresses the question of Native American identity, a question that has been problematic among both Native Americans and non-Indians. Blood quantum as an indicator of Indigenous identity has led to constructions of different levels of Indianness. Pan-Indianism has brought together Native peoples from a variety of tribal backgrounds and has formed a new sense of collective identity as Indians versus tribal affiliations. Using situational analysis, Bates examines contextualized ministry via a Native Christian conference which allows Christian Indians to express their Indianness by wearing Native regalia, using Indigenous instruments, and employing other forms of Native expression.

Rescuing the Gospel from the Cowboys Richard Twiss, 2015-06-09 The gospel of Jesus has not always been good news for Native Americans. But despite the far-reaching effects of colonialism, some Natives have forged culturally authentic ways to follow Jesus. In his final work, Richard Twiss surveys the complicated history of Christian missions among Indigenous peoples and voices a hopeful vision of contextual Native Christian faith.

Nicholas, 2010-10-11 In this interdisciplinary collection of essays Joel W Martin and Mark A Nicholas gather emerging and leading voices in the study of Native American religion to reconsider the complex and often misunderstood history of Native peoples engagement with Christianity and with Euro American missionaries Surveying mission encounters from contact through the mid nineteenth century the volume alters and enriches our understanding of both American Christianity and indigenous religion The essays here explore a variety of postcontact identities including indigenous Christians mission friendly non Christians and ex Christians thereby exploring the shifting world of Native white cultural and religious exchange Rather than questioning the authenticity of Native Christian experiences these scholars reveal how indigenous peoples negotiated change with regard to missions missionaries and Christianity This collection challenges the pervasive stereotype of Native Americans as culturally static and ill equipped to navigate the roiling currents associated with colonialism and missionization The contributors are Emma Anderson Joanna Brooks Steven W Hackel Tracy Neal Leavelle Daniel Mandell Joel W Martin Michael D McNally Mark A Nicholas Michelene Pesantubbee David J Silverman Laura M Stevens Rachel Wheeler Douglas L Winiarski and Hilary E Wyss

Rubin, 2013-07-01 Tears of Repentance revisits and reexamines the familiar stories of intercultural encounters between Protestant missionaries and Native peoples in southern New England from the seventeenth to the early nineteenth centuries Focusing on Protestant missionaries accounts of their ideals purposes and goals among the Native communities they served and of the religion as lived experienced and practiced among Christianized Indians Julius H Rubin offers a new way of understanding the motives and motivations of those who lived in New England s early Christianized Indian village communities Rubin explores how Christian Indians recast Protestant theology into an Indianized quest for salvation from their worldly troubles and toward the promise of an otherworldly paradise The Great Awakening of the eighteenth century reveals how evangelical pietism transformed religious identities and communities and gave rise to the sublime hope that New Born Indians were children of God who might effectively contest colonialism With this dream unfulfilled the exodus from New England to Brothertown envisioned a separatist Christian Indian commonwealth on the borderlands of America after the Revolution Tears of Repentance is an important contribution to American colonial and Native American history offering new ways of examining how Native groups and individuals recast Protestant theology to restore their Native communities and cultures Native Christians Aparecida Vilaça,2016-04-29 Native Christians reflects on the modes and effects of Christianity among indigenous peoples of the Americas drawing on comparative analysis of ethnographic and historical cases Christianity in this region has been part of the process of conquest and domination through the association usually made between civilizing and converting While Catholic missions have emphasized the civilizing process teaching the Indians the skills which they were expected to exercise within the context of a new societal model the Protestants have centered their work on promoting a deep internal change or conversion based on the recognition of God s existence Various ethnologists and scholars of indigenous societies have focused their interest on understanding the nature of the transformations produced by the adoption of Christianity The contributors in this volume take native thought as the starting point looking at the need to relativize these transformations Each author examines different ethnographic cases throughout the Americas both historical and contemporary enabling the reader to understand the indigenous points of view in the processes of adoption and transformation of new practices objects ideas and values God is Red Vine Deloria,1992 Deloria a prominent Native American educator lawyer and philosopher has updated his classic work on native religion In God is Red Deloria argues convincingly that Christianity has failed today s society and describes basic tenets that underlie Native religions His other works include Behind the Trail of Broken Treaties and Custer Died for Your Sins Sacred Dialogues Nicholas Griffiths,2006 A Spanish conquistador who posed as a sorcerer and cured native Americans as he trekked across an unknown wilderness a French Jesuit who conjured rain clouds in order to impress his indigenous flock with the potency of Christian magic a Puritan minister who healed a native chief in order to win him for God a Mexican noble who was burned at the stake for resisting the gentle Franciscan friars an Andean chief who was haunted by nightmares in which his native gods did battle with the Christian Father a Huron magician who vied with French missionaries over spirits of the night in a shaking tent ceremony These are a few of the individuals whose struggles are brought to life in the pages of this book Their experiences among others reveal what happened when Christianity came into contact with Native American religions in three distinct regions of sixteenth and seventeenth century colonial America

Spanish French and British Around the Sacred Fire J. Treat, 2016-04-30 Around the Sacred Fire is a compelling cultural history of intertribal activism centered on the Indian Ecumenical Conference an influential movement among native people in Canada and the U S during the Red Power era Founded in 1969 the Conference began as an attempt at organizing grassroots spiritual leaders who were concerned about the conflict between tribal and Christian traditions throughout Indian country By the mid seventies thousands of people were gathering each summer in the foothills of the Rockies where they participated in weeklong encampments promoting spiritual revitalization and religious self determination Most historical overviews of native affairs in the sixties and seventies emphasize the prominence of the American Indian Movement and the impact of highly publicized confrontations such as the Northwest Coast fish ins the Alcatraz occupation and events at Wounded Knee The Indian Ecumenical Conference played a central role in stimulating cultural revival among native people partly because Conference leaders strategized for social change in ways that differed from the militant groups Drawing on archival records published accounts oral histories and field research James Treat has written the first comprehensive study of this important but overlooked effort at postcolonial interreligious dialogue The Fifth Report of the Native Christian Temporal Aid Society, with a List of Subscribers and Donors for 1849, Etc Native Christian Temporal Aid Society (CALCUTTA), 1850
