The Economic Crisis and Southeast Asian Security Sheldon W. Simon,1998 The South Asian Association for Regional Cooperation (SAARC) Lawrence Saez,2012-05-23 The South Asian Association for Regional Cooperation SAARC is an international organization comprised of the eight countries in South Asia This work aims examine the institutional structure objectives and effectiveness of the SAARC in its role as South Asia s leading regional institution Drawing on original research it offers a fresh and accessible account of SAARC arguing that South Asia forms a unique regional security complex that enables certain forms of regional cooperation and bars cooperation on other issue areas The text provides a comprehensive introduction to the SAARC describing the historical developments that lead to its formation and examining key issues such as The inner workings of Regional Centres and their success in implementing the decisions reached at SAARC summits How SAARC has sought to address critical new security challenges such as health pandemics terrorism energy security South Asia s economic cooperation and the South Asia Free Trade Agreement SAFTA Challenges that expansion pose to the organization particularly China s suggestion to expand beyond the traditional borders of South Asia The work aims to evaluate what scope there is for formal institutions like SAARC to provide a permanent regional security architecture within which South Asian countries can effectively address important issues and will be of great interest to all students and scholars of Asian security studies and institutions in general and students and scholars of international relations in South Asia in particular Know

Your ASEAN Institute of Southeast Asian Studies, 2010 Know Your ASEAN sets down in clear and simple language the basic facts about the Association of Southeast Asian Nations. It does so in the form of 40 questions and their answers. This is the second edition of the booklet that was among the contributions of the Institute of Southeast Asian Studies to the observance of the 40th anniversary of ASEAN's founding on 8 August 1967. The booklet provides facts on ASEAN's establishment, membership, financing and decision making. It recalls the association's contributions to regional security. It explains what ASEAN is doing to integrate the regional economy and promote regional cooperation on the environment, infectious diseases, counter terrorism, poverty reduction and natural disasters. It clarifies such issues as non interference and human rights. It touches on ASEAN's relations with other countries and international institutions. Since the first edition was published in 2007, many developments have taken place in ASEAN and Southeast Asia, including the adoption of the ASEAN Charter. Hence the need for an updated version of the text. Through this booklet and their other work ISEAS and its ASEAN Studies Centre hope to contribute to the expansion of public understanding about ASEAN, recognizing the fact that regional solidarity, integration and cooperation are possible only with sufficient public support. As in the first edition, the publications' design and cartoons are by Miel, the award winning Senior Executive Artist and leading cartoonist of the Straits Times.

The Geopolitics of Energy in South Asia Marie Lall, 2009. Energy security has become a central concern for all the countries in the Asian region and the search for sufficient sources of energy to fuel economic growth has drastically influenced relations among the South Asian countries as well as their respective relations with their neighbours, China, Myanmar, Iran and Afghanistan. The recent nuclear deal between India and the US is also indicative of how energy and power politics are linked and how these new inter linkages underlie relations between states. This book aims to give a South Asian perspective on the geopolitics of energy with a central focus on India. The chapters address how India's global and regional foreign policy making has changed in light of India's search for energy and how this is affecting the relationship on a global level between India and the US as well as on a regional level between India and the other Asian countries. The book also offers views from Pakistan and Bangladesh as well as how this shifting reality is affecting relations between India and Southeast Asia.

Autonomy and Armed Separatism in South and Southeast Asia Michelle Ann Miller, 2012. Armed separatist insurgencies have created a real dilemma for many national governments of how much freedom to grant aggrieved minorities without releasing territorial sovereignty over the nation state. This book examines different approaches that have been taken by seven states in South and Southeast Asia to try and resolve this dilemma through various offers of autonomy. Providing new insights into the conditions under which autonomy arrangements exacerbate or alleviate the problem of armed separatism, this comprehensive book includes in depth analysis of the circumstances that lead men and women to take up arms in an effort to remove themselves from the state's borders by creating their own independent polity.

Annual Report on the Development of the Indian Ocean Region (2017) Wang Rong, Cuiping Zhu, 2018-11-11. The report was written by senior scholars of international studies and Indian Ocean studies and focuses on international relations in the Indian Ocean region and covers many aspects of OBOR policy and South Asia. The report includes both a strategic review and major events as well as related data in this region. This book also includes the origin, the aims, frameworks, the regional and global impact of India's new development under the Modi administration. The book includes the authors from 5 different institutes in China which provide readers with a full and authentic picture of India's most recent development. This year's Annual Report is the fourth of this kind and the only one which covers exclusively the Indian Ocean region in China.

South China Sea Dispute Ian Storey, 2017-03-09 Increasing tensions in the South China Sea have propelled the dispute to the top of the Asia Pacific's security agenda. Fuelled by rising nationalism over ownership of disputed atolls, growing competition over natural resources, strident assertions of their maritime rights by China and the Southeast Asian claimants, the rapid modernization of regional armed forces and worsening geopolitical rivalries among the Great Powers, the South China Sea will remain an area of diplomatic wrangling and potential conflict for the foreseeable future. Featuring some of the world's leading experts on Asian security, this volume explores the central drivers of the dispute and examines the positions and policies of the main actors including China, Taiwan, the Southeast Asian claimants, America and Japan. The South China Sea Dispute: Navigating Diplomatic and Strategic Tensions provides readers with the key to understanding how this most complex and contentious dispute is shaping the regional security environment.

Linking Research to Practice Arul Chib, Roger W. Harris, 2012 Information and communication technologies have long promised to provide quality education, improve healthcare, allow open government and solve environmental issues. To realize this potential and influence policy making and programme design, the Singapore Internet Research Center supported by the IDRC created an innovative research capacity building programme, SIRCA.

Preserving Cultural Identity Through Education Xing Zhang, 2010 Immigrants from China started settling in Calcutta, the British capital of colonial India, from the late eighteenth century. Initially, the immigrant community comprised of male workers, many of whom sojourned between China and India. Only in the early twentieth century was there a large influx of women and children from China. To address the educational needs of the children, both immigrant and locally born, several Chinese medium primary and middle schools were established in Calcutta by the community in the 1920s and 1930s. Using many hitherto unexplored textual sources and interviews in India, China and Canada, this detailed and unprecedented study examines the history and significance of these Chinese medium schools. It focuses on the role they played in preserving Chinese cultural identity, not only through the use of educational curricula and textbooks imported from China but also with the emphasis on the need to return to the ancestral homeland for higher education. This study also breaks new ground by examining the impact of political and other factionalism within the community as well as the India-China conflict of 1962 that resulted in the closure of most of the Chinese medium schools in Calcutta by the 1980s.
