argued that what we would today call zoosemiotics including Bateson's own previously unpublished octopus research should be made a basis for understanding the relationship between the two blocs of the Cold War. Accordingly, the book shows how Bateson understood interactive processes in the biosemiotics of conflict and peacemaking which are analyzed using examples from recent animal studies, primate studies, and from cultural anthropology. The Missile Crisis itself is described in terms of Bateson's critique of game theory which he felt should be modified by an understanding of the zoosemiotics of relational communication. The book also includes a previously unpublished piece by Gregory Bateson on wolf behavior and metaphor abduction.

Communicate to Connect Elizabeth Dorrance Hall, 2020-03-24 By introducing classic foundational interpersonal communication frameworks and key interpersonal communication theories, Communicate to Connect: Interpersonal Communication for Today's Relationships provides students with vital information regarding how humans interact and build, maintain, and dissolve relationships with one another. The book begins with chapters that define communication and introduce verbal communication and nonverbal communication. Additional chapters underscore the importance of listening, present common social roles and expectations related to communication, and provide guidance to increase message effectiveness and persuasion. Students learn about attachment and communication secrets, self-disclosure, and privacy, maintaining long-distance relationships, the internet as a means of social support, and relationship dissolution, including the processes of hurt, anger, and forgiveness. Concluding chapters speak to organizational and workplace communication, family relationships, and cultural differences in interpersonal communication. Each chapter features a lab assignment that instructs students to participate in real-world observations and activities that foster connections between theory and application. Addressing topics that resonate with and serve the needs of modern undergraduate students, Communicate to Connect is an exemplary resource for foundational courses in interpersonal communication, close relationships, and relational communication.
