Dark, Petra Dark, 1997 The Landscape of Roman Britain is the first book to combine the latest advances in the archaeology of the period with new scientific approaches to environmental reconstruction It brings together information from excavated sites and archaeological survey data with that provided by the study of ancient plant and animal remains in order to produce a fuller picture of the society economy and natural environment of the Romano British countryside than has until recently been possible Throughout recent discoveries and established interpretations are discussed and new analyses and reinterpretations are outlined making this a fascinating and timely book Written in an accessible style and clearly explaining each stage of the arguments employed this book will be essential reading for both amateur and professional archaeologists of Roman and medieval Britain and for students of British archaeology and landscape history Yorkshire Archaeological and Topographical Journal, 2003 The Evolution and Role of Burial Practice in Roman Wales K. J. Pollock, 2006 The established view of burials in Wales during the Roman period has been that with a few exceptions they would conform to Roman types Dr Pollock's detailed examination of the available evidence shows that on the contrary native burial types and influences can be found during the Roman period even in heavily Romanized areas An analysis of the data is provided chronologically geographically and in terms of the function of the surrounding settlement urban rural military etc The Archaeological Journal, 2004 Discovering a Welsh Landscape Ian Brown, 2004 In the far north east corner of Wales a line of hills looks east across the plain into England guarding the way towards Snowdonia Designated an Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty the Clwydian Range has a very rich archaeology This beautifully illustrated book tells the story of this landscape a history of Wales in microcosm At the northern end of the Welsh March the Clwydian Range is a crossroads a place where outside influences have always been profound The book consequently places the Range's archaeology in the context of the broader themes in Welsh and British history. We learn of the mammoth bones left in the area's caves by Paleolithic hunters, the great chain of Iron Age hillforts that crown the Range, the bronze brooches in Romano-British burials from the medieval period, motte and bailey castles and Gothic churches, the watercourses, mines and engine houses of the industrial era, the Range's links with the great poet Gerard Manley Hopkins. Throughout, the photographs capture the spirit of Hopkins' original landscape, plotted and pieced. The Clwydian Range is perhaps typical of Britain, where places have a great depth of historical connections. This book shows how much there is to be discovered. Ian Brown, formerly County Heritage Officer for Clwyd, managed the Clwydian Range Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty. Mick Sharp and Jean Williamson are two of Britain's leading archaeological and landscape photographers.

The Severn Estuary Stephen Rippon, 1997. The area that borders the Severn estuary is known as the levels and forms one of the most distinctive types of landscape in the UK. Stephen Rippon examines the ways in which this area has evolved.
