Lost Leaves Rebecca L. Copeland, 2000-06-01 Most Japanese literary historians have suggested that the Meiji Period 1868 1912 was devoid of women writers but for the brilliant exception of Higuchi Ichiyo 1872 1896 Rebecca Copeland challenges this claim by examining in detail the lives and literary careers of three of Ichiyo's peers each representative of the diversity and ingenuity of the period Miyake Kaho 1868 1944 Wakamatsu Shizuko 1864 1896 and Shimizu Shikin 1868 1933 In a carefully researched introduction Copeland establishes the context for the development of female literary expression She follows this with chapters on each of the women under consideration Miyake Kaho often regarded as the first woman writer of modern Japan offers readers a vision of the female vitality that is often overlooked when discussing the Meiji era Wakamatsu Shizuko the most prominent female translator of her time had a direct impact on the development of a modern written language for Japanese prose fiction Shimizu Shikin reminds readers of the struggle women endured in their efforts to balance their creative interests with their social roles Interspersed throughout are excerpts from works under discussion most never before translated offering an invaluable window into this forgotten world of women's writing Loss Leaves

Hollows D. J. Andersen, C. Stephen Badgley, 2010-06-21 I am not a poet in the traditional sense I rarely have a rhyme I don't care about stanzas or acceptable academic style I am telling stories in short form in thought patterns that stop and start Periods and commas fall where they will and I let them I have found it the best way to write about my subject matter without losing my own mind or the reader's My poems will give but brief glimpses into detailed often harsh subject matters such as severe child abuse by adoptive parents the lost the unfortunate the homeless Others tell about the joyful reunion with biological family or a crooked Christmas tree or people I have known places I have been and those who have inspired me
