Region As A Socio Environmental System An Introduction To A Systemic Regional Geography:

Region as a Socio-environmental System D. Nir, 2012-12-06 2 society would be a free anarchic society an without archos ruler a society in which each individual is responsible for the relationship between himself and the society By inner persuasion we must live by making the maximum contri bution of our physical and mental assets combined with minimal charge against and exploitation of the society We must contribute to society as much as possible because directly and indirectly we enjoy the contributions of the global society in which we live and of which we are a part To achieve this goal we must know not only ourselves but also the society in which we live A society is not uniform It is composed of mosaics of people of varying characteristics structured in different patterns and groups the qUalities of which we must know because upon them depends our own place in the society Were the world uniform of feature and society there would no place for regional geography But because the world varies in form and its societies are different study of the differentiation of the world s surface and the regional geography as the people who live on it is an important tool for understanding the society in which we live particularly when our goal is to live with it in harmony Emerging Nodes in the Global Economy: Frankfurt and Tel Aviv Compared D. Felsenstein, E.W. Schamp, A. Shachar, 2013-03-14 Cities form one of the principal arenas in which globalization processes are manifest Much of the interest in the urban outcomes of globalization is focused on a limited number of iconic global or world cities Most places however will never attain that status They are more likely to play limited and specialized roles in a world economy increasingly dominated by flows Emerging Nodes in a Global Network looks at the temporal and volatile ways in which two such cities Frankfurt and Tel Aviv engage the global economy The central thesis of the book contends that the current round of globalization is characterized by places selectively functioning as nodes within global networks Drawing on a combination of qualitative and quantitative empirical studies of leading sectors in Frankfurt and Tel Aviv financial and business services high technology air transportation tourism and cultural industries the process of network formation is systematically analyzed and the role of national and regional policy is highlighted Audience This book will be of major interest to academics researchers practitioners and policy makers in the areas of urban and economic geography public policy and economic development It also provides valuable material for government officials and regional and national agencies involved in metropolitan planning and development Towards Sustainable Building N.

Maiellaro, 2013-03-14 This volume contains the extended versions of selected papers presented at the first Mediterranean Conference Sharing Knowledge on Sustainable Building held at the Polytechnic of Bari in December 1999 supported by the National Research Council of Italy The publication of this book was made possible through the efforts of the contributing Authors Other people have provided invaluable support for the conference and for the preparation of this volume in particular I wish to thank Antonella Lerario for providing support in the final editing of the text and images 1 As reported in Boonstra and Rovers 200 I people spend a great deal of time inside buildings therefore decisions about design construction use maintenance renovation demolition reuse and recycling of buildings have a huge impact on the sustainable development of our society Technical aspects however should be supported by adequate policies developed with appropriate tools and driven by meaningful challenges For people involved in sustainable buildings the conceptual frameworks studies and experiences collected in this volume organized into three parts Policies Tools and Challenges will help to advance knowledge allowing them to adopt and more efficiently implement such innovations sooner

Country on the Move: Migration to and within Israel, 1948–1995 Gabriel Lipshitz, 2013-03-14 Country on the Move presents original research and a comprehensive multidisciplinary analysis of the spatial aspects of migration It considers the spatial results of two diametrically opposed policies planning from above to settle the North African and Asian newcomers in the 1950s and planning by market forces for immigrants from the former Soviet Union in the 1990s Unlike other books on immigration Country on the Move also analyzes internal migration within Israel which is an outcome of the regional disparities produced by immigration Moreover it compares the empirical findings in Israel with international trends and its analysis can serve as a foundation for setting spatial immigration policy Audience Researchers specializing in population geography migration and regional development university students on all levels who are taking courses in these subjects and top officials in government ministries that deal with immigration

Parks and People in Postcolonial Societies M. Ramutsindela, 2006-01-14 Against the background of colonial and postcolonial experiences this volume shows that power relations and stereotypes embedded in the original Western idea of a national park are a continuing reality of contemporary national and transnational parks The volume seeks to dispel the myth that colonial beliefs and practices in protected areas have ended with the introduction of new nature conservation policies and practices It explores this continuity against the backdrop of the development of the national park idea in the West and its trajectories in colonial and postcolonial societies particularly southern Africa This volume analyses the dynamic relations between people and national parks and assesses these in southern Africa against broader experiences in postcolonial societies It draws examples from a broad range of situations and places It reinserts issues of prejudices into contemporary national park systems and accounts for continuities and interruptions in national parks ideals in different contexts Its interpretation of material transcends the North South divide This volume is accessible to readers from different academic backgrounds It is of special interest to academics policymakers and Non Governmental Organisations This book can also be used as prescribed or reference material in courses taught at university

Cities in Transition Rita Schneider-Sliwa, 2006-01-23 This book was written with the aim of showing that even in the era of globalization developments appearing in cities are not subject to almost unconditional global forces Rather universal forces are decisive eventualities in the process of urban restructuring often influencing its course and speed yet developments and particularities within a city strongly influence the course of events and the extent to which negative characteristics of globalization might occur Berlin Brussels Hanoi Ho Chi Minh City Hong Kong Jerusalem Johannesburg Moscow St Petersburg

Sarajevo and Vienna Using these important cities the special relationship between global and local regional forces is analyzed The case studies were selected based on their political and cultural context and the fact that their social and political fabric was subject to major changes in the recent past How global processes manifest themselves locally depends to a great extent on how development processes and endogenic potentials are initiated locally in order to cope with the new global economic and societal conditions

Geographical Education in a Changing World John Lidstone, Michael Williams, 2006-07-19 This book results from the work of the Commission on Geographical Education of the International Geographical Union Part 1 focuses on the distinctive traditions of school geography Part 2 reviews the state of school geography on a broad continental basis including national case studies by local experts The final chapters extrapolate from the present and point to likely future developments in the subject again with examples drawn from various countries

The Power of Planning Oren Yiftachel, Jo Little, David Hedgcock, Ian Alexander, 2012-12-06 The book addresses critically the question What is the societal impact of urban and regional planning It begins with a theoretical discussion and then analyses through a series of case studies the intentions contents struggles and consequences of urban and regional planning It shows that plans and policies often defy the commonly perceived role of advancing equality justice development and amenity by causing social problems marginalisation and inequalities The book looks at planning from a critical distance without a priori belief in its necessity or usefulness The 12 chapters written by renowned international scholars demonstrate the multiplicity of social and political struggles over the contested terrain of spatial policies The book focuses on four key areas where the impact of planning is explored the community power gender relations ethnic tensions and social polarisation while comparing three societies Australia Israel and England Audience This volume is mainly intended for faculty and students of academia but also for urban professionals and policy makers The book is relevant to fields such as urban and regional planning geography political science urban studies urban sociology urban anthropology ethnic and gender relations

Evaluating Theory-Practice and Urban-Rural Interplay in Planning Dino Borri, Abdul Khakee, Cosimo Lacirignola, 1997-02-28 This volume contains a selection of papers presented at the second workshop on Evaluation and Planning held at Centre International de Hautes Etudes Agronomiques Mediterraneennes CIHEAM in Valenzano Bari in November 1993 The workshop was financially and otherwise supported by the School of Engineering Bari Polytechnic the School of Agriculture University of Bari and CIHEAM The publication of this book was made possible by to the efforts of the contributing authors Several other persons have provided invaluable support for the workshop or the preparation of this volume One of these is Patsy Healey for her fascinating challenge to Andreas Faludi s most recent arguments about rational planning theory Another is John Friedmann whose lecture at the workshop presented world future scenarios depicting interaction between economic growth social justice and ecological balance Angela Barbanente provided marvelous support in organizing the workshop and editorial advice in the preparation of this volume Jeremy Franks carefully improved the English and the clarity of all the papers Carmelo Torre made a final editing of texts and images We owe thanks to Maurizio Raeli for providing all the support services during the workshop and Claudia Baublys for her excellent help with various administrative issues with regard to the workshop and publication of this book This book is dedicated to the memory of Professor Giovanni Grittani Professor of Land Economics University of Bari

Learning from Clusters Ron A. Boschma, Robert C. Kloosterman, 2006-03-30 Jan Lambooy retired in October 2002 When Jan was asked how he wanted to celebrate this occasion he was adamant that no great festivities should take place Characteristically Jan wanted just a scientific conference so he could learn something from it and as he insisted no great festivities So that is what we did and a conference was organised in Amsterdam on 25 October 2002 hosted by the Faculty of Economics and Econometrics of the University of Amsterdam Friends of Jan s from academia in the Netherlands and abroad participated and thus paid homage to Jan both as a scientist and as a person We are now very proud to present this festschrift firstly as the palpable result of this conference and secondly as a token of sincere respect and great affection for Jan Edited volumes run the danger of being a hotchpotch of contributions on a wide variety of topics Here we have explicitly focused on a central theme in contemporary economic geography and regional science namely the relationship between learning innovation and clustering Internationally renowned scientists made both theoretical and empirical contributions to this volume We think this book constitutes a broad palette of contemporary thinking and research on the relationship between spatial concentration and innovation and hope it will play a significant role in future debates on this issue

Multi-Ethnic Metropolis: Patterns and Policies S. Musterd, W. Ostendorf, M. Breebaart, 2013-04-17 Multi Ethnic Metropolis is based on international comparative research on ethnic segregation patterns and policy reactions at local and national level The objective was to achieve a broader European perspective For the acquisition of the information on which this book is based we relied heavily on our colleagues abroad and their network of relations since a great deal of factual data and information on the policies pursued is usually not available in a freely accessible form and can only be obtained through persons who know their way around Eventually information was provided by about seventy people data administrators policymakers at local and state level politicians academic researchers representatives of interest groups etc The names of all people that contributed to this study are mentioned in the list of persons who were interviewed Without wishing to wrong all these people we especially want to thank the key informants who acted as intermediaries for following contacts In alphabetical order these are the following persons Dr Lars Erik Borgegard Stockholm Prof Chris Hamnett London Dr Herve Vieillard Baron Paris Prof dr Chris Kesteloot Brussels Prof dr Bob Murdie Toronto Prof Ceri Peach London Prof Phil Rees London and Manchester Prof Brian Robson Manchester and Prof Gunther Glebe Dusseldorf and Frankfurt Furthermore we owe thanks to Prof Herman van der Wusten who took care of the interviews in Paris which was an unruly case

Presenting and Representing Environments Graham Humphrys, Michael Williams, 2006-01-27 The presentation and representation of the environment occurs throughout academia and across all news media The strict protocols of science often clash with environmental information available from sources that dwell on subjective aesthetic emotional and personal sensitivities This book challenge the reader as student teacher researcher or policy maker to reflect critically on the ways that environments are studied interpreted presented and represented in education and public policy The Golden Century of Oil 1950-2050 C.J. Campbell,2012-12-06 oil is the lifeblood of the World s economy It was a critical element in two World Wars and in the Cold War and as recent events in the Middle East confirm people are willing to fight for it The cheap energy it provides especially for transport and agriculture was one of the main factors that made possible the economic prosperity and growth that the World has enjoyed for the past fifty years and more People rely on it everywhere and in many forms and they have become so accustomed to its ready availability that they take it for granted To conceive of a world without traffic jams and airliners is unthinkable and while not so obvious oil lies behind every supermarket shelf fuelling the tractor that ploughs the field and the delivery van that brings the consumer his food Yet everyone knows that it is a finite and irreplaceable commodity formed long ago in the geological past What no one knows is just how finite it is This book is an effort to try to answer that question not in detail but at least in orders of magnitude More useful than the figures themselves is the discussion of the elements involved in addressing the subject While it is impossible to predict the precise pattern of future production which will be affected by many unforeseeable factors one can at least begin to think in terms of resource constraint instead of an ever expanding supply of oil Cities between Competitiveness and Cohesion Peter Ache,Hans Thor Andersen,Thomas Maloutas,Mike Raco,Tuna Taşan-Kok,2008-04-29 This book offers a cross European analysis of urban and regional strategies of reconciling welfare and competitiveness It develops an understanding of the strategy challenge to reconcile competitiveness with cohesion and provides an analysis of cities and regions as actors in multi level governance settings The book offers a European comparative view on housing labour markets enterprises ethnical issues gender dimensions urban development projects transport and sustainability Managing Intermediate Size Cities M. Romanos,C. Auffrey,2013-04-17 I am both pleased and honored to introduce this book to readers and I want to take a few moments to explain why Michael Romanos and Christopher Auffrey have produced a volume which will be of immense value to several different types of people Planners and other specialists concerned with the development of the Southeast Asian region and the issues and opportunities associated with urban growth and sustainable development will find much to interest them in this book But the book I believe has much wider appeal and that is what I want to touch on briefly here The University of Cincinnati where Michael Chris and I work is attempting to globalize itself to develop its institutional capacity for international activities to infuse its curriculum with international themes and to promote and increase global competence among its graduates Many American universities are doing this of course In the process we are seeing some very interesting experiments in pedagogy as faculty look for learning moments in new and sometimes exotic places Michael Chris and their colleagues have it seems to me developed an outstanding model for learning across national and cultural boundaries In the chapters which follow you will read the results of their work What will be less apparent however is the process by which that work was produced

Dynamic Trip Modelling Robert G.V. Baker, 2006-08-05 The thesis of this book is that there are one set of equations that can define any trip between an origin and destination The idea originally came from work that I did when applying the hydrodynamic analogy to study congested traffic flows in 1981 However I was disappointed to find out that much of the mathematical work had already been done decades earlier When I looked for a new application I realised that shopping centre demand could be like a longitudinal wave governed by centre opening and closing times Further a solution to the differential equation was the gravity model and this suggested that time was somehow part of distance decay This was published in 1985 and represented a different approach to spatial interaction modelling The next step was to translate the abstract theory into something that could be tested empirically To this end I am grateful to my Ph D supervisor Professor Barry Garner who taught me that it is not sufficient just to have a theoretical model This book is an outcome of this on going quest to look at how the evolution of the model performs against real world data This is a far more difficult process than numerical simulations but the results have been more valuable to policy formulation and closer to what I think is spatial science The testing and application of the model required the compilation of shopping centre surveys and an Internet data set

International Handbook on Geographical Education Rod Gerber, 2013-03-09 I am very pleased to have been asked by Rod Gerber to provide a preface to such a book Not least because of the twenty four chapters eight are written by former students or colleagues with whom I have worked in the past and whom I still meet at conferences on geographical education It is with a certain pride and joy that I note the progress which has been made in geographical education both in its day to day teaching and in research in the twenty years following the end of my term of office as Chair of the Commission on Geographical Education of the International Geographical Union CGEIUG My successors Joe Stoltman Hartwig Haubrich Rod Gerber and now Lea Houtsonen have done much and are continuing to work hard to foster the development of geographical education This book is proof if proof were needed that the international collaboration in this field is alive and well with contributions coming from all the continents except Antarctica It would be a moribund subject that remained unaffected in one way or another by developments on the great world stage as Fairgrieve 1926 would have put it And as Rod Gerber shows the issues of globalisation of cultural encounters of differing value systems of new technologies of variable economic development and of environmental quality all feature as topics which influence and are influenced by geographical education

Land Use Simulation for Europe John Stillwell, Henk J. Scholten, 2001-12-31 Land use change is driven by a variety of forces including spatial policies formulated at supra national national regional and local levels The main focus of this book is to contextualise explain and illustrate a new methodology for simulating land use change in different parts of Europe It considers some of the more important causal factors and identifies state of the art approaches to modelling human and environmental systems and for evaluating and visualising alternative scenarios The last part of the volume presents material from two case studies one from The Netherlands and one from Portugal of the implementation of a new simulation model called EuroScanner Audience This work will be of interest to researchers and practioners whose work involves geography simulation and modelling environmental planning spatial decision making the methodology of social sciences and economics

Tourism and Migration C.M. Hall,A.M. Williams,2013-06-29 The origins of this book lie in a project of the International Geographical Union Study Group on the Geography of Sustainable Tourism The theme Tourism and migration reflects the growing interests of tourism geographers in common with other geographers and social scientists to reach across traditional cleavages in the way research is undertaken and knowledge is formed In this instance the aim was to connect the largely discrete research domains of tourism studies and migration This was informed not only by awareness of the limitations of disciplinary barriers but also by the growing need to respond to the emergence of new forms of mobility and circulation which fitted uncomfortably into many of the analytical categories of tourism and migration studies The extension of property rights across boundaries e g second homes vacation homes and time shares space time convergence changing approaches to work and leisure and structural changes in economies and the demographic profiles of societies are only some of the factors which have generated these new forms of mobility These serve to bind places and individuals in new and challenging ways with implication for both movers and stayers The various chapters of this volume bring together a range of dimensions and locations within which to study the relationships between tourism and migration
