Dreams of disconnection Fanny Lopez,2021-06-24 Why do we live in homes and communities built around the century old industrial model of large service networks that use polluting resources For more than a century creative architects and planners have dreamed of decentralisation and self sufficient living not to cut themselves off from society but to invent new modes of consumption and to rethink collective public services around common environmental values In a time of climate crisis changing society means changing energy infrastructures Dreams of disconnection tells the story of this strand of design and planning from its pioneers in the late nineteenth century to those applying similar ideas to tomorrow s technology two hundred years later Lopez takes in many a utopian visionary in her tour of dreamers of disconnection from theorists and architects to industrialists and engineers Technology and design are the centrepieces for these projects and their complexity particularly around sustainable supplies of energy food and water so often find solutions in aesthetics Whether these models were based around single homes or whole cities Dreams of disconnection reveals that there is much to be learnt and marvelled at in the history of self sufficient design

Technology and Transformation in the American Electric Utility Industry Richard F. Hirsh, 2003-11-20 This book illuminates the role of technological stagnation in the decline of the American electric utility industry in the late 1960s and 1970s Unlike other interpreters of the industry s woes Professor Hirsh argues that a long and successful history of managing a conventional technology set the stage for the industry s deterioration After improving steadily for decades the technology that brought unequalled productivity growth to the industry appeared to stall in the late 1960s making it impossible to mitigate the economic and regulatory assaults of the 1970s Unfortunately most managers did not recognize or did not want to believe the severity of the technological problems they faced and they chose to focus instead on issues usually financial or public relations that appeared more manageable Partly as a result of this lack of attention to technological issues the industry found itself in the 1980s challenged by the prospects of deregulation and restructuring
