One's mood can swing from elated after getting a slew of likes on a post to worthlessness and deflation in response to being criticized in a comment thread. Too often bad feelings from social media interactions linger negatively affecting our off line lives and worsening already present mental health issues. Instead of demonizing social media by taking a one note digital detox approach, Logged In and Stressed Out recognizes social media is not itself the problem it's how we use it that needs examining. Paula Durlofsky guides readers through its impact on break ups and infidelities, social distortion and comparison trauma and triggers social media bingeing, depression, anxiety and other common concerns using real stories from her own practice to personalize concepts and recommendations. By setting needed limits and embracing new practices it is possible to improve mental health when using social media. Durlofsky details the whys and hows of creating a safe digital space, cultivating digital and social media mindfulness, applying the techniques of mentalizing while consuming social media and decreasing social media and digital reactivity. She offers suggestions for how to use social media and digital technology to create meaningful social interactions and positive mental health and provides readers with practical steps to put these ideas into action. Social media is here to stay and Logged In and Stressed Out presents the right information and tools to improve our lives through examining and changing our digital habits.

Lead Poisoning Joseph J. Breen, Cindy R. Stroup, 1995-03-23

Lead Poisoning discusses one of the most critical and preventable environmentally induced illnesses. The actual toll lead poisoning takes on society cannot be measured fully due to the silent nature of health effects such as subtle intellectual deficits and neurological damage caused by chronic low level exposures. This book covers every major topic on the subject including lead poisoning in children, sources of contamination, state of the art sampling and analytical measurement methods, the newest studies on low cost abatement methods and much more. This reference is the most comprehensive presentation of issues currently available under one cover. The text is divided into three major parts. Part I provides insights from studies assessing lead exposures from paint, dust, soil and lead battery recycling operations. The second part is a unique collection of strategic federal policy statements from the U.S. EPA, HUD and HEW/CDC. It details the National Implementation Plan as well as a local government's efforts to provide low cost effective risk communication and public outreach to the community. The next part offers seven chapters on analytical issues in the measurement of lead in blood, paint, dust and soils. Part IV, Sampling Methods and Statistical Issues, rounds out the technical portion of the volume. The relationships among lead levels in biological and environmental media are investigated and the interpretive problems discussed. The use of multi element analysis of environmental samples as an approach to investigate sources is described. The book finishes with its most unique feature, OPPT's Check Our Kids for Lead Program, one organization's effort to empower its employees to make a personal difference in confronting the problem of lead poisoning in children. The Program serves as a model for other government organizations, federal, state and local, university and community organizations and corporations to educate them and take personal and corporate responsibility for addressing this important and environmental health problem.
