Heck, R. L. Erenstein, 1999 There has long been a need to introduce performing arts enthusiasts and students to the fascinating field of iconography both as manifested in art history and in its more pragmatic or applied forms Yet relatively little systematic effort has been made to collect and interpret centuries of such visual evidence in the light of the best available art historical information combined with corroborating textual documentation and insights from the histories of performance disciplines Aspiring iconographers of the performing arts need to be aware that there are often several levels of interpretation which great works of visual art will sustain This book explores these levels of interpretation a surface or literal reading a deeper reading of the work which seeks to enter the mind of the artist and asks how and why he put a given work together and the deepest reading of the work relating it to the artistic traditions and culture in which the artist lived In expounding on these levels of iconographic interpretations four discourses by scholars active in the study of visual records are given in relation to traditions techniques and trends performance in general Katritzky music Heck theatre Erenstein and dance Smith Effort is made to keep abreast of modern technology influencing iconographic representations as on the Internet and virtual reality Thomas F Heck is Professor of Musicology and Head of the Music and Dance Library at the Ohio State University Look! Gillian Wolfe,2002 In this fun and accessible book children are encouraged to use their eyes to see paintings in a whole variety of ways Each spread focuses on a different perspective with 14 perspectives in all A simple text describes each painting Children are encouraged to answer questions about the images then to try an art activity of their own

Art in the Age of Machine Learning Sofian Audry,2021-11-23 An examination of machine learning art and its practice in new media art and music Over the past decade an artistic movement has emerged that draws on machine learning as both inspiration and medium In this book transdisciplinary artist researcher Sofian Audry examines artistic practices at the intersection of machine learning and new media art providing conceptual tools and historical perspectives for new media artists musicians composers writers curators and theorists Audry looks at works from a broad range of practices including new media installation robotic art visual art electronic music and sound and electronic literature connecting machine learning art to such earlier artistic practices as cybernetics art artificial life art and evolutionary art Machine learning underlies computational systems that are biologically inspired statistically driven agent based networked entities that program themselves Audry explains the fundamental design of machine learning algorithmic structures in terms accessible to the nonspecialist while framing these technologies within larger historical and conceptual spaces Audry debunks myths about machine learning art including the ideas that machine learning can create art without artists and that machine learning will soon bring about superhuman intelligence and creativity Audry considers learning procedures describing how artists hijack the training process by playing with evaluative functions discusses trainable machines and models explaining how different types of machine learning systems enable different kinds of artistic practices and reviews the role of data in machine learning art showing how artists use data as a raw material to steer learning systems and arguing that machine learning allows for novel forms of algorithmic remixes
