The Transformation of Athens Robin Osborne, 2018-02-06 How remarkable changes in ancient Greek pottery reveal the transformation of classical Greek culture Why did soldiers stop fighting athletes stop competing and lovers stop having graphic sex in classical Greek art The scenes depicted on Athenian pottery of the mid fifth century BC are very different from those of the late sixth century Did Greek potters have a different world to see or did they come to see the world differently In this lavishly illustrated and engagingly written book Robin Osborne argues that these remarkable changes are the best evidence for the shifting nature of classical Greek culture Osborne examines the thousands of surviving Athenian red figure pots painted between 520 and 440 BC and describes the changing depictions of soldiers and athletes drinking parties and religious occasions sexual relations and scenes of daily life He shows that it was not changes in each activity that determined how the world was shown but changes in values and aesthetics By demonstrating that changes in artistic style involve choices about what aspects of the world we decide to represent as well as how to represent them this book rewrites the history of Greek art By showing that Greeks came to see the world differently over the span of less than a century it reassesses the history of classical Greece and of Athenian democracy And by questioning whether art reflects or produces social and political change it provokes a fresh examination of the role of images in an ever evolving world A Different God? Renate Schlesier, 2011-12-23 Within modern frameworks of knowledge and representation Dionysos often appears to be atypical for ancient culture an exception within the context of ancient polytheism or even an instance of a difference that anticipates modernism How can recent research contribute to a more precise understanding of the diverse transformations of the ancient god from Greek antiquity to the Roman Empire In this volume which is the result of an international conference held in March 2009 at the Pergamon Museum Berlin scholars from all branches of classical studies including history of scholarship consider this question Consequently this leads to a new look on vase paintings sanctuaries rituals and religious political institutions like theatre and includes new readings of the texts of ancient poets historians and philosophers as well as of papyri and inscriptions It is the diversity of sources or methods and the challenge of former views that is the strength of this volume providing a comprehensive innovative and richly faceted account of the different god in an unprecedented way The "horsemen" of Tarentum. The Gospel to the Romans Brian Incigneri, 2003-08-01 This book proposes that Mark's Gospel was written in Rome in late 71 after the return of the feared Titus who had recently destroyed the Jerusalem Temple Recognising that the use of emotional appeals was a prime contemporary rhetorical tool it shows the Gospel to be an emotionally charged text aimed at readers traumatised by years of persecution fear of arrest and intra community tensions over the forgiveness of those who had failed It examines the political social and religious situation and shows that the Gospel contains allusions to many recent events of concern to Christians Mark stirs their fears and painful memories to move them to a new resolve providing a model for them Jesus the first martyr for the gospel

Blake's Prophetic Psychology Brenda Schwabacher Webster, 1983-06-18

Commemorating the Polish Renaissance Child Ms Jeannie Labno, 2013-07-28 The study of funeral monuments is a growing field but monuments erected to commemorate children have so far received little attention Whilst the practice of erecting monuments to the dead was widespread across Renaissance Europe the vast majority of these commemorated adults with children generally only appearing as part of their parents memorials However as this study reveals in Poland there developed a very different tradition of funerary monuments designed for and dedicated to individual children daughters as well as sons The book consists of five major parts which could be read in any order though the overall sequencing is based on the premise that an understanding of the context and background will enhance a reading of these fascinating child monuments Consequently there is a progression of knowledge presented from the broader context of the earlier parts towards the final parts where the actual child monuments are discussed in detail Thus the book begins with an overview of the wider cultural contexts of funerary monuments and where children fitted into this It then moves on to look at the forgotten Renaissance of central Europe and specifically the situation in Poland The middle part addresses the culture of memory examining the role of funerary monuments in reinforcing social religious and familial continuity The last parts deal with the physical monuments empirical data iconography and iconology Through this illuminating consideration of children's monuments the book raises a host of fascinating questions relating to Polish social and cultural life family structure attitudes to children and gender It also addresses the issue of why Poland witnessed this unusual development and what this tells us about the transmission of cultural and artistic ideas across Renaissance Europe Drawing upon social and cultural history visual and gender studies the work not only asks important new questions but provides a fresh perspective on some familiar topics and themes within Renaissance history Corpus Vasorum Antiquorum: Attic red-figured vases Ol'ga Vilenovna Tugusheva, Natal'iia Alekseevna Sidorova, Union académique internationale, 1996
