Prayers From Berlin:

Ancient Jewish Prayers and Emotions Stefan C. Reif, Renate Egger-Wenzel, 2015-11-13 Given the recent interest in the emotions presupposed in early religious literature it has been thought useful to examine in this volume how the Jews and early Christians expressed their feelings within the prayers recorded in some of their literature Specialists in their fields from academic institutions around the world have analysed important texts relating to this overall theme and to what is revealed with regard to such diverse topics as relations with God exegesis education prophecy linguistic expression feminism happiness grief cult suicide non Jews Hellenism Qumran and Jerusalem The texts discussed are in Greek Hebrew and Aramaic and are important for a scientific understanding of how Rabbinic Judaism and Early Christianity developed their approaches to worship to the construction of their theology and to the feelings that lay behind their religious ideas and practices The articles contribute significantly to an historical understanding of how Jews maintained their earlier traditions but also came to terms with the ideology of the dominant Hellenistic culture that surrounded them Jewish Manuscripts, Prayers and Scholars Stefan C. Reif, 2024-12-30 The introduction offers some thoughts on each of the four areas covered by the essays and draws some broad conclusions Studies of the history of manuscripts and of their acquisition demonstrate their impact on research into Jewish studies and on modern Judaism's understanding of itself What emerges from liturgical studies here included is how important it is not only to analyze texts but also to identify overall historical geographical and cultural developments Prayer may have been used as an educational tool and in turn influenced educational ideas and agendas The liturgical themes that occur and recur over the centuries and especially in the talmudic and medieval periods reflect the ideological and theological notions that lie behind prayer texts and the variant forms that they take Some common prayers are seen to include concepts of time views of creation attitudes to non Jews and definitions of Jewish peoplehood The appreciations of some leading modern scholars of Jewish studies set them in their educational historical and religious contexts and indicate what they had in common as experts in scientific Jewish studies as well as what remained individual about their lives research publications and achievements Evangelical Christendom, 1885 Spiritualizing the City Victoria Hegner, Peter Jan Margry, 2016-11-25 Urban spaces have always functioned as cradles and laboratories for religious movements and spiritualities The urban forms a central and nourishing agent for the creation of new religious expressions and continually negotiates new ways of being spiritual and establishing spiritual ideas and practices This book explores the intense and complex interplay between the post modern city and new religious and spiritual movement bringing the city and its annexes into the foreground of current research into religion It develops a new ethnography based analysis of the ways in which the pluralist experience of the urban inscribes itself into various religious practices and vice versa how do religiosity and spirituality appropriate and transform meanings of the urban It focuses on new religious expressions cosmologies and ways of life that go beyond established belief systems and religious understandings and explores new conceptions of the word urban in a world of increasingly extended urban environments The book examines how cities are both considered as sites and sources of spirituality where the globalization of religions takes place as well as the fact that globalization is linked closely to the process of localization The socio cultural and political uniqueness of the specific urban context are analyzed to present an innovative perspective on how the interplay between the urban spiritual and religious should be understood This book brings a timely new perspective and will be of interest to academics and students in geography sociology urban studies cultural studies and anthropology as well as for urban planners and policy makers

Catalogue of the Hebrew Books in the Library of the British Museum British museum,British Museum Library,1867 Jews, Bible and Prayer Stefan C. Reif,2017-05-08 In his articles Stefan Reif deals with Jewish biblical exegesis and the close analysis of the evolution of Jewish prayer texts Some fourteen of these that appeared in various collective volumes are here made more easily available together with a major new study of Numbers 13 an introduction and extensive indexes Reif attempts to establish whether there is any linguistic literary and exegetical value in the traditional Jewish interpretation of the Hebrew Bible for the modern scientific approach to such texts and whether such an approach itself is always free of theological bias He demonstrates how Jewish liturgical texts may illuminate religious teachings about wisdom history peace forgiveness and divine metaphors Also clarified in these essays are notions of David Greek and Hebrew divine metaphors and the liturgical use of the Hebrew Bible

Pedagogy, Prayer and Praise Catherine Petraný, 2015-10-20

The presence of didactic wisdom like passages in the Book of Psalms presents a puzzle because it suggests a non liturgical origin and pedagogical aim distinct from the more dominant psalmic language of lament and praise Catherine Petraný argues for a literary and theological approach to the question of wisdom's role in the psalms that accounts for its meaningful integration with these other kinds of discourse The unique contextualization of wisdom motifs in the psalms creates a pedagogical platform unique to the book one related to but distinct from the pedagogies of the biblical wisdom corpus Human wisdom speech in the psalms points beyond the classroom to the congregation and asks its hearers to become speakers that is to enter into conversation with the divine

The Places Where Men Pray Together

Paul Wheatley, 2001 What makes a city an economic political and cultural center In The Places Where Men Pray Together Paul Wheatley draws on two decades of astonishingly wide ranging research to demonstrate that Islamic cities are defined by function rather than form by what they do rather than what they are Focusing on the roles of cities during the first four centuries of Islamic expansion Wheatley explores interconnected cultural historical economic political and religious factors to provide the clearest and most extensively documented portrait of early Islamic urban centers available to date Building on the tenth century geographer al Maqdisi's writings on urban centers of the Islamic world buttressed by extensive comparative material from roadbooks topographies histories adab literatures and gazetteers of the time Wheatley identifies the main functions of different Islamic urban centers Chapters on each of the thirteen centers that al Maqdisi identified ranging from the Atlantic to the Indus and from the Caspian to the Sudan form the heart of this book In each case Wheatley shows how specific agglomeration and accessibility factors combined to make every city functionally distinct as a creator of effective space He also demonstrates that far from revolutionizing every aspect of life in these cities the adoption of Islam often affected the development of these cities less than previously existing local traditions The Places Where Men Pray Together is a monumental work that will speak to scholars and readers across a broad variety of disciplines from historians anthropologists and sociologists to religious historians archaeologists and geographers

Turmoil, Trauma and Tenacity in Early Jewish Literature Nicholas P. L. Allen, Jacob J. T. Doedens, 2022-08-01 This volume is written in the context of trauma hermeneutics of ancient Jewish communities and their tenacity in the face of adversity i e as recorded in the MT LXX Pseudepigrapha the Deuterocanonical books and even Cognate literature In this regard its thirteen chapters are concerned with the most recent outputs of trauma studies They are written by a selection of leading scholars associated to some degree with the Hungaro South African Study Group Here trauma is employed as a useful hermeneutical lens not only for interpreting biblical texts and the contexts in which they were originally produced and functioned but also for providing a useful frame of reference As a consequence these various research outputs each in their own way confirm that an historical and theological appreciation of these early accounts and interpretations of collective trauma and its implications perceived or otherwise is critical for understanding the essential substance of Jewish cultural identity As such these essays are ideal for scholars in the fields of Biblical Studies particularly those interested in the Pseudepigrapha the Deuterocanonical books and Cognate literature
