This resource is both scholarly and practical. It focuses on the most distinctive feature and greatest strength of homiletics as a discipline. It is rooted in interdisciplinary scholarship and it develops theory geared to practice. Its theory arises out of the study of both excellent preaching past and present and actual sermon preparation and composition. When theory and practice critique each other, it is possible to produce guidelines that assist greater excellence and economy in preaching the gospel. Excellence in standards is an area in which homiletics needs to grow and this project will be both a means to encourage and develop it. A guiding question throughout will be: Will it preach? The answers will be offered in the sense that here is something that works well rather than here is something to try. Preachers will turn to this resource with the expectation that they will find scholarly treatment of topics, brief bibliographies of relevant key books and articles along with practical methodological suggestions for preachers to employ. The contributors are homileticians, preachers, and writers in various disciplines who are committed to the pulpit through practice.

Designed to empower preachers as they lead their congregations to connect their lives to Scripture, Connections features a broad set of interpretive tools that provide commentary and worship aids on the Revised Common Lectionary. For each worship day within the three-year lectionary cycle, the commentaries in Connections link the individual lection reading with Scripture as a whole, as well as to the larger world. In addition, Connections places each Psalm reading in conversation with the other lections for the day to highlight the themes of the liturgical season. Finally, sidebars offer additional connections to Scripture for each Sunday or worship day. This nine-volume series is a practical, constructive, and valuable resource for preachers who seek to help congregations connect more closely with Scripture.

Praying for a Whole New World William G. Carter, 2000. A history professor told me that the earliest Protestants in America discouraged the celebration of Christmas. It's too much fun, the Puritans reasoned, and the Gospel of Jesus Christ requires our utmost seriousness. From the Introduction: At a time of year which is often as stressful and exhausting as it is exhilarating, William Carter reminds us that while holiday celebrations will fade into winter gloom, Jesus Christ, the light that casts no shadow, remains at the center of our faith and lives. This collection of seventeen sermons, based on the Revised Common Lectionary, is for readers who wish to take the gospel seriously during a season when commercialism and social activities can be overwhelming. Carter's messages provide a wonderful interplay between the biblical text and illustrations drawn from contemporary life. He brings the sensibilities of an accomplished jazz musician to the lectionary readings, creating new melodies that arise from the established material, some in counterpoint to the scripture, others elaborating upon the original tune. The sermons of this outstanding preacher are inspiring reading for both clergy and laypeople. Senior pastor of First Presbyterian Church in Clarks Summit, Pennsylvania, William G. Carter has received national recognition for his preaching and writing, with sermons and articles appearing in Journal for Preachers, Presbyterian Survey, Preaching, Lectionary, Homiletics, The Christian Ministry, and Best Sermons. In 1999, he was selected to preach on The Protestant Hour, an international radio ministry that reaches over two million listeners each week He frequently leads workshops for pastors on homiletical themes and practices A graduate of Princeton Theological Seminary Carter serves on the seminary's board of trustees Reverend Carter is also a highly regarded jazz pianist who has studied and performed with such noted artists as Phil Woods and Bob Brookmeyer He has traveled widely presenting contemporary worship services and frequently weaves his music into his ministry

New Creation Frank C. Senn, Although the twentieth century has witnessed a thorough liturgical revival and renewal the last ten years have exploded in diverse and conflicting styles settings and even media of corporate worship traditional high church liturgies alternative worship for small communities women church services seeker services at megachurches and more Does this innovation portend a brave new liturgical world or is it just dumbing down For example do megachurch services simply revive the old frontier revival and in an effort to reach out accommodate Christianity to the reigning consumer culture One of today s most knowledgeable liturgical theologians and historians contemplates the future shape of liturgy He believes that ritual systems liturgy express and inculcate a worldview an implicit theology and he fears lest the community of faith gain the whole world and lose its soul New Creation proposes the lines of a Christian culture or worldview or way of life that can inform liturgical renewal Twelve erudite and earnest chapters further specify this counter cultural matrix as it pertains to God Christ church creation world worship hospitality culture evangelism prayer and life itself
