Prehistoric Architecture in Micronesia William N. Morgan, 2010-07-26 In the many centuries preceding Western contact a richly diverse and innovative architectural tradition reached maturity in the western Pacific Prehistoric Architecture in Micronesia the first modern study of this remarkable work reveals that there is no such thing as primitive architecture but only primitive means This study presents five distinctly different examples of Micronesia's ancient architecture The sites include the extraordinary stone cities of Leluh and Nan Madol on the islands of Kosrae and Pohnpei respectively Other structures include the meeting houses and residences built on hexagonal stone platforms in the Yap Islands the earth terraces and ornately decorated meeting houses of Palau and the megalithic columns and capstones of prehistoric houses in the Mariana Islands These structures are illustrated by photographs maps plans and other drawings Many of the basic data come from archaeological investigations of the specific sites Summaries at the ends of chapters and in the concluding section compare the architectural characteristics of the island groups with each other and with monuments outside Micronesia One of the most remarkable achievements of any ancient people the prehistoric architecture of Micronesia is a source of continuing inspiration for persons who search for meaning in the built form of our present day environment

Prehistoric architecture in Micronesia W.N. Morgan, The Oxford Handbook of Prehistoric Oceania Terry L. Hunt, Ethan E. Cochrane, 2018-04-03 Oceania was the last region on earth to be permanently inhabited with the final settlers reaching Aotearoa New Zealand approximately AD 1300 This is about the same time that related Polynesian populations began erecting Easter Island's gigantic statues farming the valley slopes of Tahiti and similar islands and moving finely made basalt tools over several thousand kilometers of open ocean between Hawaii the Marquesas the Cook Islands and archipelagos in between The remarkable prehistory of Polynesia is one chapter of Oceania's human story Almost 50 000 years prior people entered Oceania for the first time arriving in New Guinea and its northern offshore islands shortly thereafter a biogeographic region labelled Near Oceania and including parts of Melanesia Near Oceania saw the independent development of agriculture and has a complex history resulting in the greatest linguistic diversity in the world Beginning 1000 BC after millennia of gradually accelerating cultural change in Near Oceania some groups sailed east from this space of inter visible islands and entered Remote Oceania rapidly colonizing the widely separated separated archipelagos from Vanuatu to Samoa with purposeful return voyages and carrying an intricately decorated pottery called Lapita From this common cultural foundation these populations developed separate but occasionally connected cultural traditions over the next 3000 years Western Micronesia the archipelagos of Palau Guam and the Marianas was also colonized around 1500 BC by canoes arriving from the west beginning equally long sequences of increasingly complex social formations exchange relationships and monumental constructions All of these topics and others are presented in The Oxford Handbook of Prehistoric Oceania written by Oceania's leading archaeologists and allied researchers Chapters describe the cultural sequences of the region's major island groups provide the most recent explanations for diversity and change in Oceanic prehistory and lay the foundation for the next generation of research

Ancient Architecture of the Southwest William N. Morgan, 2014-03-07 During more than a thousand years before Europeans arrived in 1540 the native peoples of what is now the southwestern United States and northern Mexico developed an architecture of rich diversity and beauty Vestiges of thousands of these dwellings and villages still remain in locations ranging from Colorado in the north to Chihuahua in the south and from Nevada in the west to eastern New Mexico a geographical area of some 300 000 square miles This study presents a comprehensive architectural survey of the region Professionally rendered drawings comparatively analyze 132 sites by means of standardized 100 foot grids with uniform orientations Reconstructed plans with shadows representing vertical heights suggest the original appearances of many structures that are now in ruins or no longer exist while concise texts place them in context Organized in five chronological sections that include 132 professionally rendered site drawings the book examines architectural evolution from humble pit houses to sophisticated multistory pueblos The sections explore concurrent Mogollon Hohokam and Anasazi developments as well as those in the Salado Sinagua Virgin River Kayenta and other areas and compare their architecture to contemporary developments in parts of eastern North America and Mesoamerica The book concludes with a discussion of changes in Native American architecture in response to European influences Written for a general audience the book holds appeal for all students of native Southwestern cultures as well as for everyone interested in origins in architecture In particular it should encourage younger Native American architects to value their rich cultural heritage and to respond as creatively to the challenges of the future as their ancestors did to those of the past

William Morgan Robert McCarter, William N. Morgan, The Images Publishing Group, 2002 William Morgan is a fundamental modernist whose work has for forty years remained absolutely true to the principles of modern architecture Each of Morgan's designs can therefore be said to have a multitude of precedents from throughout time and not on

Traditional Micronesian Societies Glenn Petersen, 2009-06-30 Traditional Micronesian Societies explores the extraordinary successes of the ancient voyaging peoples who first settled the Central Pacific islands some two thousand years ago They and their descendants devised social and cultural adaptations that have enabled them to survive and thrive under the most demanding environmental conditions The dispersed matrilineal clans so typical of Micronesian societies ensure that every individual every local family and lineage and every community maintain close relations with the peoples of many other islands When hurricanes and droughts or political struggles force a group to move they are sure of being taken in by kin residing elsewhere Out of this common theme shared patterns of land tenure political rule philosophy and even personal character have flowed To describe and explain Micronesian societies the author begins with an overview of the region including a brief consideration of the scholarly debate about whether Micronesia actually exists as a genuine and meaningful region This is followed by an account of how Micronesia was originally settled how its peoples adapted to conditions there and how several basic adaptations diffused throughout the islands He then considers the fundamental matters of descent ideas about how individuals and groups are bound together through ties of kinship and descent groups and the closely interlinked subjects of households families land and labor Because women form the core of the clans their roles are particularly respected and their contributions to social life honored Socio political life art religion and values are discussed in detail Finally the author examines a number of exceptions to these common Micronesian patterns of social life Traditional Micronesian Societies illustrates the idiosyncrasies of individual Micronesian communities and celebrates the Micronesians shared ability to adapt survive and thrive over millennia At a time when global climate change has seized our imaginations the Micronesians historical ability to cope with their watery environment is of the greatest relevance

Archaeological Perspectives on Conflict and Warfare in Australia and the Pacific Geoffrey Clark, Mirani Litster, 2022-03-08 When James Boswell famously lamented the irrationality of war in 1777 he noted the universality of conflict across history and across space even reaching what he described as the gentle and benign southern ocean nations

This volume discusses archaeological evidence of conflict from those southern oceans from Palau and Guam to Australia Vanuatu and Tonga the Marquesas Easter Island and New Zealand The evidence for conflict and warfare encompasses defensive earthworks on Palau fortifications on Tonga and intricate pa sites in New Zealand It reports evidence of reciprocal sacrifice to appease deities in several island nations and skirmishes and smaller scale conflicts including in Easter Island This volume traces aspects of colonial era conflict in Australia and frontier battles in Vanuatu and discusses depictions of World War II materiel in the rock art of Arnhem Land Among the causes and motives discussed in these papers are pressure on resources the ebb and flow of significant climate events and the significant association of conflict with culture contact The volume necessarily selective eclectic and wide ranging includes an incisive introduction that situates the evidence persuasively in the broader scholarship addressing the history of human warfare
