are usually pursued in isolation like biography poetry or physics he finds potent links between things we might imagine to be unrelated His subjects range from humanity s roots to the destruction of the wildwood from the first farmers to industrialization and from Tudor drama to 20th century conflict Each topic sits at a different point along the continuum between epoch and the fleeting moment In part this is a history of archaeology in part too it is a personal account of the author s history in archaeology But mainly it is about how the past is read and about what we bring to the reading as well as what we find The result is a book that defies categorisation but one which will by turns surprise enthrall and provoke anyone who cares for England who we are and where we have come from TIME S ANVIL was longlisted for the Samuel Johnson Prize for Non Fiction 2013
