Faces Milton E.

Brener,2000 Scientists have emphasized the innate genetically based nature of our fascination with the human face and its almost limitless expressive capacity all of which is represented in the art of the last six centuries But little attention has been paid to the anomaly of the vacuous expressions of earlier facial representations Brener attributes this change to a change in the functioning of the human brain as well as the role of cultural factors It is the evolution of both genes and culture that has resulted in a marked increase in the human ability to create and interpret facial expressions The result of this has impacted human behavior

Forager-Traders in South and Southeast Asia Kathleen D. Morrison,Laura L. Junker,2002-12-05 In both South and Southeast Asia many upland groups make a living in whole or part through gathering and hunting producing not only subsistence goods but commodities destined for regional and even world markets These forager traders have had an ambiguous position in ethnographic analysis variously represented as relics degraded hunter gatherers or recent upstarts Forager Traders in South and Southeast Asia adopts a multidisciplinary approach to these groups presenting a series of comparative case studies that analyse the long term histories of hunting gathering trading power relations and regional social and biological interactions in this critical region This book is a fascinating and important addition to the current revisionist debate and a unique attempt to re conceptualize our knowledge of forager traders within the surrounding context of complex polities populations and economies in South and Southeast Asia      The Edinburgh Review ,1913      Heretics, Orthodoxy & The Everlasting Man G. presents a compelling exploration of faith reason and the nature of belief through his masterful use of wit and paradox These essays rooted in the early 20th century literary landscape engage with various contemporary thinkers unveiling their philosophies while articulating Chesterton s own distinctive perspectives on Christianity The work deftly navigates the tension between modern skepticism and traditional faith revealing the essential truths that underpin orthodoxy and countering the prevailing relativism of his time Chesterton a literary giant and a formidable apologist draws from his own diverse experiences a childhood immersed in London s complexities and his broad journalistic endeavors to illuminate the themes in this collection His transition from agnosticism to Christianity profoundly shaped his writings infusing them with both intellectual rigor and heartfelt conviction His unique blend of humor and philosophical depth invites readers into a dialogue that transcends mere ideology seeking to engage the soul rather than only the mind This work is essential for anyone interested in the intersections of faith and reason or the rich tapestry of early 20th century thought Chesterton s eloquent prose and incisive arguments not only challenge modern secular assumptions but also inspire an enduring quest for deeper understanding Readers will find encouragement in his vision of faith as a rational and vibrant exploration making this collection particularly relevant for contemporary seekers
