Cram101 is NOT the Textbook Accompanys 9780132274081 The Papuan Languages of New Guinea William A. Foley,1986-11-20 This introduction to the descriptive and historical linguistics of the Papuan languages of New Guinea provide an accessible account of one of the richest and most diverse linguistic situations in the world The Papuan languages number over 700 or 20 per cent of the world s total in more than sixty language families Less than a quarter of the individual languages have yet been adequately documented and in this sense William Foley s book might be considered premature However in the search for language universals and generalisations in linguistic typology it would be foolhardy to neglect the information that is available In this respect alone the present volume systematically organised on mainly typology principles is particularly timely and useful In addition the processes of linguistic diffusion are present in New Guinea to an extent probably paralleled elsewhere on the globe The Papuan Languages of New Guinea will be of interest not only to general and comparative linguists and to typologists but also to sociolinguists and anthropologists for the information it provides on the social dynamics of language content The Tutu Archaeological Village Site Elizabeth Richter,2003-09-02 Excavations at the Tutu site represent a dramatic chapter in the annals of Caribbean archaeological excavation The site was discovered in 1990 during the initial site clearing for a shopping mall in St Thomas U S Virgin Islands The site was excavated with the assistance of a team of professional archaeologists and volunteers Utilizing resources and funds donated by the local scientific communities the project employed a multidisciplinary sampling strategy designed to recover material for analysis by experts in fields such as anthropology archaeology palaeobotany zooarchaeology bioarchaeology palaeopathology and photo imaging This volume reports the results of these various applied analytical techniques laying a solid foundation for future comparative studies of prehistoric Caribbean human populations and cultures The Past in Perspective Kenneth L. Feder,1996-10-01 The Earliest Inhabitants Lesley-Gail Atkinson,2006 The Earliest Inhabitants aims to promote Jamaican Ta nan archaeology and highlight the diverse research conducted on the island s prehistoric sites and artefacts Of the fourteen papers in this volume six are reprints of seminal articles that are not widely available and eight are based on recent archaeological research The chapters are organized by thematic divisions that reflect the most important areas of research Assessment and Excavations of Ta no Sites looks at the various archaeological investigations across the island Ta no Exploitation of the Natural Resources examines how the Ta nos took advantage of the natural environment to fulfil their needs Analysis of Ta no Archaeological Data highlights research conducted on various artefacts and Ta no Art Forms focuses specifically on evidence of Ta no cave art and its impact on the interpretation of the Jamaican Ta no livelihood In her introduction Lesley Gail Atkinson explains Jamaican prehistory is regarded as one of the least studied Caribbean disciplines That is not necessarily the case the fact is that published Jamaican archaeological research has not had sufficient international circulation This has resulted in misconceptions about lack of scope research activities and information on the Jamaican Ta no This volume seeks to redress this lack invaluable in its own right as a collection of distinguished scholarship

The Earliest Inhabitants is remarkable too for being the first compilation on the Jamaican Tainos since 1897. This collection will appeal to a wide audience of archaeologists, historians, students of archaeology, and anyone interested in Jamaica's history and archaeology.
